

Chaos Devourer System

#Chapter 331: A Chat With The Base Head 2 - Read Chaos Devourer System Chapter 331: A Chat With The Base Head 2

Chapter 331: A Chat With The Base Head 2

"I'll say not bad..." Zeras said with a nod as he wiped another bucket of sweat from his face.

"And why did you want to grow strong, Kain?" Adrian asked with a curious smile as he hopped over to Zeras's seat, his big eyeballs shining brightly and Zeras couldn't help but raise an eyebrow before ignoring him and choosing to recline on the seat instead.

"It is personal..." He replied without mincing words.

"Tch, suit yourself..." Adrian said as he also reclined on the sea, a smile of comfort sneaking its way towards his lips.

"If you aimed to simply enjoy life, then why did you build the Mutant Organization..." Zeras asked curiously as Adrian opened a single eyeball.

"The Mutant Organization is simply one of my steps towards achieving my main goal. To become the absolute strongest. In all its essence, the Mutant Organization's goal is to simply perform as many genetic tests as possible and to build the strongest Gene possible in all of existence.

"I'm at the Profane Prince Level in gene cultivation and simply a single step from reaching the Profane King Level. Right now, I only have a single more genetic slot in my DNA before it collapses. Naturally, it would have to be the strongest gene in the world, and that is what the mutant organization has been doing. Trying to build that strongest gene..."

"WHAT!!!?" Zeras screamed out in shock as his two eyes snapped open and he turned to look at Adrian his jaws almost dropping to the ground.

"What? Were you expecting some type of big goal, world domination, or something like that? People take life too seriously and they misunderstand the intention of the Mutant Organization. As for the evil that is mentioned about it, to be honest, it had nothing to do with me. I simply shared my goal with a group of five scientists and I gave them power to achieve their goal. It was an exchange. I give them the power they desperately want and in turn, they'll build me that gene that I want. Even the name Mutant Organization wasn't made by me. It was made by them. Everything you see here has nothing to do with me.

Apart from handling some headaches, they caused. I'm essentially hands-off on the project. But since their plan further accelerates towards my goal. I didn't give it much thought and simply let it continue..."Adrian said as he closed his eyes once again and continued swinging his leg around.

And Zeras simply sat down looking at him. He was completely lost for words. The Mutant Organization to which he was sold where he became a lab rat too and where he underwent his most painful experience. The reason behind it was so simple. It was just to build Adrian's last gene.

“AHH, I’ve felt moisturized enough…” Adrain said as he stood up from the chair. Stop lazing off Kain. Don’t you come here for a reason..” Adrain chastised as Zeras dragged his butt off the chair, the reality of things still hitting him hard.

[illegible]

10 minutes later...

At the very top of the mutant organization, lay a penthouse, and right in front of it were two sits and a glass table. A single mug containing a red colored wine could be seen on the table with two glass cups.

Adrain grabbed the mug he poured the wine into both glass cups and pushed one of them to Zeras before grabbing the other.

“Thank you..” Zeras said when suddenly a thick vein appeared on Adrain’s face.

“I already told you for the 502nd time. I hate formalities...” Adrain said as a wry smile appeared on Zera’s lips. Before turning his neck to the side, he looked at the endless sea of clouds and simply took a sip from it.

Silence reigned for the next forty minutes as both young men jointly sipped their juice before suddenly the silence was broken

“Why do you want to kill me...” Zeras suddenly asked with a smile as he turned to look at Adrain whose hand reaching for his lips paused in the air as he looked at Zeras with a smile before dropping the glass cup in his hand on the table.

“When did you realize that?” Adrian asked with a curious smile as Zera’s smile widened even more.

“Ever since you told me your story...” Zeras said with a smile as he looked into the sea of clouds.

Ever since Zeras had stepped foot at this place and he had met with Adrian. His heart has lushed in his chest and his spine has been growing colder and colder. It was a feeling he didn't understand the reason for. But after continuously chatting with Adrian, that feeling had calmed down. But Zeras isn't the one to forget such a thing.

After he asked Adrian about his reason for growing strong and Adrian told him, he had concluded that the young man had decided to kill him. His further questions like the motive behind the Mutnat organization's creation, only cemented his conclusion. If he was to put himself in Adrian's shoes, the only person Zeras would tell all those secrets to was a dead man or soon-to-be dead man.

"You're the strangest kid I have ever laid my eyes on. To be able to realize I was going to kill you and still smile and laugh. I don't understand that at all..." Adrian said with a smirk as he picked up his glass and took a sip.

"You have not answered my question. Why did you want to kill me..." Zeras asked with a curious smile on his face.

"Ahh, ok kid. You pulled my ear. I'll tell you. It is actually because of a simple reason. You're very strange."

"Hmm, strange. In what way?" Zeras asked with a raised eyebrow.

"Take a look at these files..." Kain ordered as he passed the file to Zeras who took it and began reading it, a smile soon appearing on his face.

The file was all about the history of a single person.

KAIN VUDROF.

The person Zeras stole his form...

"I can bet on my life that you're not that idiot. So, Who are you..."

Chapter 332: New Quest Issued: Survive!

Absolute Madness...

"Does it matter?" Zeras asked with a mocking smirk on his face. Adrian already killed him.

"I guess it doesn't matter. I truly never change my mind." Adrian said taking another sip from his cup.

Silence reigned for another ten minutes and Zeras could feel the intense gaze of Adrian on him throughout the entire duration but he didn't bother looking at it.

“A nice cool setting to die,” Zeras said as he took in a nice deep breath. They were even above the clouds, the cool breeze around the place was something he had never witnessed before.

“You know, when they say a person is about to die. There are two categories. Those who will keep a strong face until the point of death but mere seconds to their death will beg furiously. And another category belongs to people who have already accepted death. The majority of people belong to the first category. As for the second category, it holds a group of people who are very rare and a person like you is definitely out of the list...”

“Huh?”

“You’re a very talented genius, a prodigy to be exact. To be able to stop an out-of-control clone, is not an easy task, especially for someone at your rank of cultivation. This means you have a bright future ahead of you and you also know that. Death for people like you is a nightmare which should make you one of those in the first category list. Yet you’re horrifyingly calm, too calm for a person that is about to die in less than a minute from now.” Adrian said with furrowed eyebrows as Zera’s smirk widened even more and he took a second sip from the cup.

“Unless...” Adrian said as his eyebrows furrowed together...

“Unless, you are sure you won’t be dying, here...” Adrian said as Zeras turned to him, his smirk widening even more.

“The already accepted death category, the scared of death category. They only have to do with those who are dying. I sat down here, cross-legged and sight seeing the crowd with a smile on my face. Just as you said I’m a one-in-a-billion genius with close to limitless potential. Do you think ill accept death? Why? Because you said so?” Zeras asked looking at Adrian with a mocking smirk on his face.

“So, you think you can survive an assassination attempt from me, a profane prince expert gene cultivator, better said, a peak cosmic rank expert? Hahahahahahaahha....” Adrian laughed out loud in mockery before his eyes suddenly regained their serosity.

“This is the countdown to your death, Kain.

5

4

3

2

DRIIIIIIING

DRIIIIIIING

DRIIIIIIING

The sound of the phone ringing loudly echoed out loud before Adrain could count down to the last second as a vein of irritation appeared on his forehead before the words rang out from the young man sitting in front of him.

“Pick it up...” Zeras said with a deadpan expression as he dropped the glass cup in his hands back onto the table having finished the content already.

“Hmmm...” Adrian’s eyebrows furrowed but he didn’t give it much attention. He knew well he could immediately kill Kian before he could even move a single muscle so he might as well let him enjoy a few more seconds to live...

“Hello. What is it...” Adrian asked immediately he picked up the call as the words rang out from the end of a phone causing a wild grin to appear on Zeras face as he said out loud...

“What perfect timing...”

“Sir, we’re under attack from the EIA and they have a commander with them...”

“WHAT!!!!” Adrian jumped up in shock as a powerful aura burst out of his body blowing the glass tables and the chair to smithereens.

“The. The EIA? How did they track us down?” He roared out loud in shock when suddenly his eyes widened as he turned to look behind him, the place where Kain was but all he saw was a gigantic pothole and Kain already disappeared...

“So, he is the one. He is the spy. Hahahaha, I knew my gut feeling is never wrong...” Adrian said laughing to himself before he raised the device back to his mouth.

“We also have been preparing for this day for so long. Spread out all the cards. Let set history in motion shall we...?” Adrian said before cutting off the call.

Slowly he dipped his phone back into his pocket before his eyes turned to look into the distance.

“My gut feeling has never been wrong and now it is telling me, even if you run to the world Kain, you’ll be dying in my hands today...” And instantly he moved. Seemingly faded away into the fabric of space.

5 seconds later...

KAAABOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOM

An apocalyptic explosion rocked the entire world as the penthouse seemingly disappeared and the top part of the Mutant organization faded into obscurity.

An incredibly powerful wave of aura flared throughout the world as if a new constellation was being born and instantly the clouds in the clouds were blown into smithereens as a flaming meteor tore it apart asunder, rapidly closing on a small shooting star that was disappearing into the distance.

[A New Quest Has Been Activated: Survive the Base Head Pursuit...]

[Rewards:

1.)5 instant Rejuvenation Card

2.)80% Fusion with Chaos Devourer gene fusion.

3.) +3 level up card...]

“Oh? Great for me then, huh” Zeras asked with a huge vein popping on his head as his body tore through the sea of clouds with a mind-blowing Mach five speed.

Behind his back, were four huge wings that looked like a phantom of a hundred wings due to how hard he was flapping them, yet, Zera’s expression changed, when he suddenly felt a presence right above his head, and instantly his entire body became coated in blue scales as Zeras turned and crossed both hands together on his chest...

KABOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOM

A devastating shockwave rippled throughout the world clearing the entire clouds in a clouds kilometer radius and immediately a figure was sent smashing downwards like a flaming meteor, blood and gore rapidly trailing behind him. Zera’s mouth was wide opened in shock when he discovered something...

His hands, both hands, were gone!

Chapter 333: Too Slow...

Chapter 333: Too Slow...

BAAAAANNNG

The ground for five meters caved in as Zeras smashed into it, blood rapidly floating up to his throat before it splashed out of his mouth like a broken tap

BLEEEEEEEEEEEEEERGH

Zeras screamed in his head as horrific red veins appeared all over his eyes...

“Strong...Too Strong....”

BOOOOOOOM

The ground shook crazily as a figure landed near the abyss on the ground.

Adrian waited for three seconds but couldn't sense any movement causing his eyes to narrow as they pierced through the darkness looking directly at the end of the abyss where none was present but a gigantic hole had been ripped just at the side of the abyss and Adrian raised his head and looked at the ground about 20 Kilometres away where a small bump could be seen.

“Hahahaha, you really are a cockroach...” He muttered with a mocking smirk on his face before he also instantly moved as he chased after the bump on the ground which was rapidly disappearing into the distance.

>>>>>>>>>>

BAAANG.

Immediately Zeras smashed into the ground, he instantly jumped back to his feet as he activated two skills...

“Activate regeneration and absolute morph...”

Immediately, two new arms tore out of his shoulder but in the next seconds they changed instantly becoming large metallic drills.

As if that wasn't enough, four more arms tore out of his shoulder and instantly they also morphed into gigantic drills that revolved with speed.

Summoning out an object from his spatial ring, an extremely beautiful white shoe appeared on Zeras's legs, a powerful blue light flaring out from its runic lines.

He had equipped the Void walker!

Instantly he slammed the six large drills that his hands morphed into the bare earth and his legs became a phantom of a hundred.

The ground was immediately parted like a knife through butter and Zeras rapidly dug his way forward into the ground, not even stopping to look at his back for a single second.

He knew well, that he wouldn't last even five seconds if he dared exchange blows with a peak cosmic rank stage being and so his best choice was to simply follow the system's advice and run for his life.

"Tch, damn EIA. How did I even get myself in this trouble..." Zeras screamed out loud to himself, his heart almost bursting out of his chest as he blindly drilled into the ground, changing direction now and then, yet with his improved perception, he could feel the presence was once again rapidly closing in on him and even more mind-blowing was the fact that he was moving at triple his own current Mach 6 speed.

"Not only is he limitlessly stronger than I am, but he is also triple faster! I'm screwed." Zeras mused and instantly an apocalyptic force tore its way down on his head as the ground rapidly constricted as if under some pressure and instantly...

BUUUURST

The ground burst to pieces as he was sent blasting out of the ground in the next second, a red-eyed figure staring at him directly in the eyes.

"I told you that you would be dying here, didn't I?" Adrian asked with a mocking smirk before he suddenly twisted as a kick smashed forward toward Zeras's chest who was currently facing upside down in the air and quickly crossed his arms once again...

BAAAAAAAAAAAAAAM

The air exploded as Zeras was sent smashing backward like a meteor his clothes erupting into flames and disintegrating into ashes before he could even regenerate his exploded arms, Adrian appeared instantly in front of him once again, as a kick smashed on Zera's stomach forcefully changing his trajectory and he soared through the air with speed, quickly approaching the white clouds.

"SHIT! SHIT! I can see his move but I can't react fast enough..." Zeras roared out loud to himself as he soared through the clouds and that was when he suddenly felt a presence behind him he quickly stopped his backward motion by forcefully kicking the space and instantly, he turned back only to see two fists magnifying in front of his eyes and then...

"PLOP!" "PLOP"

Both his eyes exploded in their socket as he felt a moving train at a speed of Mach ten slammed on his head and he was once again sent smashing downwards...

BOOOOOM

BOOOOOM

BOOOOOM

BOOOOOM

BOOOOOOM

The 12th floor, the 11th floor, the 10th floor, the 9th floor, the 6th floor...

Zeras's body ripped through everything without slowing down as he tore an entire twelve-story skyscraper down and slammed on the crowd, the skyscrapers crumbling down on his head...

BAAAAAAAAAANG

The crumbled pieces of the skyscrapers exploded into showers of dust as a pocketed red-haired figure landed on it...

30 seconds later...

The dust finally cleared and the figure of a person lying motionless could be seen. A circular wave of cracks just right beneath him.

"Tsk, tsk, tsk," Adrian clicked his tongue repeatedly as he slowly walked towards the figure of the young man.

Arriving before him, he crouched down to his position before clamping on his crimson white hair and raising him from his sleeping position.

"I never thought that was your limit..." Adrian said with a sinister smirk as he looked into Zera's hollow eyes but his grin widened even more when he saw his eyes suddenly begin regenerating and soon all the wounds closed up on Zera's body before his eyes turned to look at Adrian's.

"My limit? Even I don't know where it lay." Zeras replied with a wild grin as Adrian's grin widened even more.

"Since we're both so free, why don't we try to find it out..."

"Agreed."

"Chaotic Existence Skills: Hollow Domain..."

Immediately, Zeras disappeared into wisps of shadows as Shadows rapidly covered all of Adrian's feet. But not a single expression of caution appeared on Adrian's face and he simply looked on curiosity.

“A domain? Impressive?” Adrian said as he looked at Zeras who was sitting down on the devilish throne with a mocking smirk on his face but they were immediately wiped out when he heard those words from Zera’s lip.

“CRUUUMBLE...”

“ARRRRRRRRRRRRRGH”

Chapter 334: Last Stand Of A Prodigy

“ARRGH.” The groan of pain escaped Adrian’s lips as he felt the entire world tighten its hold against him, while his internal organs seemed to want to collapse on itself...

The ability to destroy things by just saying them was a skill Zeras had watched Seree do which seemed to be from the so-called speech devil. Since he was basically supreme within his domain, he had considered trying out the speech devils’ command withing his hollow domain and it seemed it worked.

“-3000 Energy” The golden panel notification, but Zeras kind of already expected it. The power to crumble a peak cosmic rank stage would definitely be a crazy amount but it seemed he was too happy.

Even though Adrian simply stood where he is, as blood poured down his lips, Zeras noticed the space surrounding him suddenly began shattering into pieces.

“Hollo domain skill: Hollow Point...”

“Hollow Domain skill: Hollow point”

“Hollow Domain skill: Hollow point”

Zeras called out three times and immediately he deactivated his domain before quickly disappearing into the distance.

2 seconds later...

“Tch, brake for me...” Adrian roared out loud and immediately the space surrounding him was immediately shattered to pieces as he forcefully breaks through the bind of Zeras’s orders.

But once he did that both chaotic balls appeared right in front of his faster than he could react and then...

BAAAAAAAAAAAAAAM

They slammed on Adrian's face as his neck jerked backwards and he was lifted off his feet but in the next second, his leg forcefully slammed down back on the ground as he forcefully raised back his head, against the power of the two ball of chaotic point that were pushing down on his head.

BOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOM

And immediately the balls exploded directly on Adrian's face as blood droplets rolled down his face. His forehead and the side of his eyes has a small cut on them which closed back instantaneously in the next second.

The Hollow point which killed three early Meteor rank from the Demogorgon family only made injuries on Adrian that healed a second later...

"Hehehehe, what a really prodigious one. Even able to drop blood from a person like me. Tsk, tsk, tsk it would be a pity to kill such a talented one. Unfortunately, I don't change my mind..." Adrian mused, when suddenly...

DRRIIIIIIIING

DRIIIIIIIIING

DRIIIIIIIIING

"What is it again?"

"Sir, we are facing heavy resistance. We need for your back up..." The alarmed voice of the person rang in his ears.

"Ok. Will be there soon." Adrian said, before keeping his device back in his pocket.

"I have enjoyed the play enough, Zeras..." Adrian said and immediately, his face changed. All forms of playfulness disappeared instantly replaced by absolute focus.

"Fourth gene, Open. Heart of a Kirin..." Adrian mumbled and immediately.

BADUUUUUMP

BADUUUUUUUUUMP

BADUUUUUUUUUUUUUMP

His heart began pumping crazily within his chest as strange reddish tattoo appeared all over his body, each brimming with a powerful crimson-coloured energy.

And in the next second, he suddenly stretched forth his hands as he violently jerked at the empty space and immediately, he ripped apart space into two.

Within the rip open space, one could see Zeras, this time wearing a strange astral suit, and running with a horrifying Mach 11 speed and immediately, Adrian entered into the space, appearing less than twenty meters away from Zeras.

[illegible]

“It is useless, it is useless...” Zeras screamed out helplessly as he ran with all his speed, sending every remnant of mana within his body within his Void walker. He knew well his hollow domain definitely wouldn’t be able to hold down a peak cosmic ranks stage being. The best thing he could was to try and hold Adrian back and run as far as he could.

His legs already turned to a hundred and behind Zeras a total of 6 wings could be seen on his back which formed the phantom of a hundred due to how fast he was moving.

Yet...

A phantasmal power bloomed right behind him just twenty meters away as he saw two hands violently ripped space itself apart into two and a figure slowly came out of that space.

“I’m sure you should have known this is a hopeless chicken run, right?” Adrian asked, unfortunately, Zeras didn’t wait to listen as he immediately gained a distance of 10 kilometres before Adrian once again pulled space apart and disappeared into it.

“Run. I need to run...” Zeras mused, a stubborn glint flashing in his eyes but was there even a place to tun too. He didn’t even know where he was currently running.

There was none to help him either, he was too deep within the enemy territory.

Suddenly, Zeras face changed as he forced himself to a stop, his shocked eyes looking in front of him where a figure could be seen sitting cross-legged with a bored expression on his face.

“But how?” Zeras asked in shock as he turned behind him and look in front of him in shock.

“So do you still want to keep running?” Adrian asked with a raised eyebrow as the Void walker beneath Zeras feet drained completely and his astral armour also drained completely. He had run out of mana enough to power both artifacts.

"I'll kill you Zeras. But as a respect towards your talent. I'll let you die a befitting death. Stop running and fight me with your all..." Adrain said seriously as he rose up from his sitting position and stared at him.

The air gently blew across the place as both young men simply looked at each other.

[Energy point: 1100]

[Mana Core Energy: 30/800]

Zeras looked at his remaining energy points and slowly the reality of his death began sinking in to his chest causing his heart to grow cold and his bone to stiffen within him.

"Don't fall to that Zeras. Too scared of death to even give his all. That is the most unbecoming death of all..." Adrian said with a deadpan expression as Zeras forcefully reawakened himself and he exhaled loudly, before suddenly a large smile bloomed on his face.

"I'll give it my last all..." He mused and slowly Zeras raised both hands upwards as if wanting to hold something up in the air and absolute focus appeared on his face.

The last stand of a prodigy. It was something worth watching and Adrian waited to see it and, in the end, the wait was well worth it....

Chapter 335: Adrian: A Mana Core Devourer!

Raising both hands into the sky, Zeras closed his eyes as he unleashed the last skill present within his arsenal.

He knew well his best bet was to simply use his ultimate transformation which was his very peak of power, but he also knew well with the amount of energy left within him, he wouldn't be able to activate even a single transformation and if he did, he would only be able to last for probably ten seconds in it, something he knew well Adrian would tear asunder within a fraction of that time.

Now left within his arsenal was the last remnant of the ability left with him. His Chaotic Mana. It was something which at its full potential could rend even stars asunder but he knew well he hadn't reached that stage yet. But at least he could try.

Therefore, Zeras raised his hands upwards as he began revolving his chaotic Mana around him, in doing so, he painted the emotion of suffering, destruction and rage within his mind but this time, his emotion of rage was different. He knew well this was his graveyard, so he infused the burning rage within that to his chaotic mana before directing it all within the ball.

‘Take everything, even my life, take it all....’ Zeras thought in his head and immediately, his body began shrivelling as all the veins present in Zera’s body showed up all over his skin.

SPARKKLE...

Adrain’s eyes shone with curiosity as he looked at the strange object that suddenly bloomed to life right at the top of Zera’s hand.

It was a small dark chaotic ball that gently burned with a strange dark flame, but he still thought nothing of it as the ball didn’t trigger his warning sense.

But suddenly, the ball began growing and growing and growing and growing while at the same time, Zeras began shrivelling up.

The air around the place blew chaotically, a mini storm of some sort forming around the place, resulting in the clothes of both fighters flapping widely due to the strange astral phenomenon.

Right now, the ball of Chaos that Zeras formed was big enough to contain a car and yet it wasn’t stopping, it was only growing larger as Adrian watched how Zeras kept getting shrivelled up.

“He is giving up all his life essence and natural energy to form that ball. It won’t stop growing until all his life essence has been completely sucked up. Then he would die immediately and the ball would be enough to send me half a step to hell...” Adrian mused to himself and instantly he decided.

CRAAACK

CRRAAACKK

CRAAACKKKKK

BAAAAAAAAAAAAANG

Cracks began spreading beneath his feet and instantly he faded away from where he stood appearing a few centimetres before Zeras who at the same time opened his completely grey eyes.

“I’ll be going first...” Zeras mused to Adrian with a wild grin and a split second later, he flung the ball forward towards Adrian whose forward motion came to a stop he immediately tapped his toes on the ground trying to retreat but still he was too slow and he got devoured by the gigantic ball of energy.

Immediately Zeras flung the ball outwards, and he was sent flying back like a ragdoll, rolling on the and a few times before slowly inching to a stop, remaining emotionless.

“ROOOOOOAR”

A colossal roar echoed out from within the chaos ball, followed by the release of an apocalyptic power that shook the entire space.

Inside the chaos ball...

It was like a raging sea storm trying to drown a 0.5-meter boat.

Horrific red veins appeared all over Adrian's body as his entire body continued shrivelling up strangely and blood poured out uncontrollably from all his five senses.

“5th gene, open. Hands of a thousand demons!” Adrian roared out loud in rage and immediately two more arms tore out from his upper and lower armpit, this one twice bigger than his regular arm and filled with strange horrific runes.

“ROOOOOOOOOOOOAR”

A devastating roar surged out from his mouth as Adrian began pounding at the ball. The longer he took in the ball, the more he realized an unbelievable truth.

His Life Essence Was Getting Sucked Out.

CCRAAAACK

CRAAAAAAACK

CRRRAAAACCCCK

After punching repeatedly like a madman, cracks spread across the place and immediately Adrian's hand reached out from the crack as he violently pulled at it. Immediately, the cracks gave way as the edge of the chaos ball was split open asunder and Adrian immediately tried to use that as an exit when suddenly

KAAAAAABOOOOOOOOOM

The ball exploded in on itself, and Adrian unfortunately was still trying to jump out of the ball, making him bear the full brunt of the power.

A mushroom of energy rose into the air, reaching up to the clouds. Space shattered like glasses shooting out in all directions, and immediately the entire world seemed to have been halted in that instance as an ear-shattering shockwave rippled out with horrific power, the entire land for 10 kilometres reduced to bare earth.

1 minutes later...

The shockwaves finally resided and on the ground was an endless abyss formed from the explosion. Silence reigned for the next three minutes when suddenly a bloodied hand appeared at the edge of the abyss and a frail figure with scanty red hair slowly pulled himself up.

The figure was none other than Adrian. Except right now he looked like Adrian a thousand years later.

"Tch, what a hassle..." Adrian thought to himself as his eyes looked around the place and he sighted the emotionless figure of Zeras in the sand. A step at a time and with a vein popping on his head, he began working towards it and soon arrived in front of him.

"Oh? He is a morpher?" Adrian thought with a strange expression as he looked at the young man and noticed, his face had changed a lot. This was probably his real face.

"Hmph, damn EIA," Adrian muttered before suddenly he looked past Zera's face and his eyes locked into the area just below Zera's navel.

And instantly

"6th gene, open. Claws Of The Mana Core Devourer..." He said with a smirk and his right hand morphed into strange claw brimming with devilish red runes and instantly his hands ripped into Zeras's navel whose eyes snapped open as he gasped before Adrian forcefully pulled out an object from Zera's navel.

"ARRRRRRRRRGH" A groan of pain escaped Zeras lips as his eyes became littered with red veins that twisted and turned like snakes.

But Adrian didn't pay that a single attention and instead looked at the object in his grasp, a golden-coloured ball mixed in with remnants of dark.

And that was none other than Zeras's Mana Core!

Chapter 336: Zeras Gets Crippled

It was a feeling of pain. A pain that tore through the very fabric of his existence, but accompanying that was also a feeling of intense loss and weakness.

It was a strange feeling of being incomplete. That was what Zeras felt as he watched his mana core present within Adrian's gasp.

"Do you know why I try to kill you as gently as possible? Doing all that was just so you can relax. Once a mana cultivator relaxes completely, the same can be said for their mana core and that would be the best time to devour their mana core.

“But you just have to struggle so crazily and waste all the efforts of my hard work. Now your mana core is only at 20% of its full capacity and wouldn’t benefit me much. But strangely that is not the case...” Adrian said and in the next moment, Zera’s heart stopped beating as his mana core was thrown into the air.

His hands automatically stretched towards it although that was only wishful thinking as Adrian clamped his jaws on it and crushed the mana core in his mouth, munching on it as if it was the tastiest object in the world.

“This mana. Your base mana is incredibly pure, how do you manage to cultivate such mana...” Adrian roared out in disbelief and the next moment, Zera watched the unbelievable.

Immediately the bloody and frail-looking Adrian suddenly began changing, starting from his skin peeling off his body and his frail body slowly growing muscular.

In less than five seconds, Adrian returned to his initial size, except this time, his skin shone with brilliant white as if carved off the most beautiful of marble, his already devilishly handsome face reaching a completely new level.

But what grabbed Zera’s attention the most were 2. Firstly, was Adrian’s face. Now it was like that of an 18-year-old instead of its former 20-year-old looking. He looked just like a teen. The second thing was Adrian’s aura. It had reached an unbelievable state and he could see space collapsing around Adrian just as he stood in place, but even more was a mysterious aura that surrounded his figure. A mysterious aura that gave Zera the feeling as if Adrian was an infinite expanse of a galaxy!

And his eyes widened unbelievably at the realization.

“You...you have reached the Pseudo-galaxy rank stage...” Zera gasped in shock.

“Yes. This is a stage I calculated I would reach after 87 years but now I’ve reached it. All thanks to you. Your mana core is the strangest that I have ever devoured and also the most powerful...” Adrian said with a malevolent face as he looked at the young man’s pale face and watched as despair slowly set in.

“Do you know for mana cultivators, there is a punishment much worse than death itself, and that is a gene awakener getting crippled. You have been praised as a one-in-a-million genius. The EIA sending you on this mission shows that. But now, I want to see what will the EIA think of you or do to you once they realize you’re now just an ordinary mortal...” Adrian said with a smile as he looked straight into Zera’s pupils.

“But also, you have lost almost a hundred percent of your life essence. I genuinely doubt you could spend five more years without dying. You’re about to witness what it means to fall from the highest heavens down to the bottom of hell, so good luck with that.” Adrian said and immediately, his aura flared brightly, tearing space asunder and instantly he disappeared into the torn space to the devil’s knows where...

[The Quest Survive The Base Head Pursuit Has Failed!]

[Rewards: None] [Punishment: Not Needed]

[Accessing Host’s bodily condition

Mana Core has been destroyed, so the host no longer possesses any cultivation.]

[Your genetic abilities which require mana: Your Absolute Morph Gene and your Astral Titan Gene have now been put in slumber!]

[Hosts has lost 95% of his life essence while casting a forbidden art...]

{Time left before Host’s death: 3 YEARS: 5 DAYS: 23 HOURS: 58 SECONDS...}

[Host has lost 90% of his original force which is better known as soul. The host’s entire DNA has now been reduced to 5% of its true functionality. To avoid backlash, the Host’s Important skill set of the Chaos Devourer gene set has now been frozen.]

[Genetic Skills and abilities are now no longer accessible. The host can only access his basic skills such as regeneration, poison immunity, and dash at 5% of their functionality.]

Every notification hit Zeras more than a moving train at Mach 10 speed and slowly darkness set in, proving some sort of haven to him, and he melted in its embrace.

__-__-__

A few hours earlier...

The multitudes of spaceships appeared before the gigantic space and slowly they all suddenly paused as they looked at the great emptiness before them.

Standing at the utmost front of the multitudes of spaceship was none other than Commander Sigrid whose eyes turned to look at his device where the outline of a map could be seen.

On the map was a flaming red dot that blinked in and out of existence and right in front of the multitudes of green-colored dots.

“Hmmmmm, according to the map we are right in front of the galaxy revolver, so how come?” Commander Sigrid mused looking at the vast emptiness of space when suddenly his eyebrows furrowed together as he looked intently at the void of space before a smirk appeared on his face.

“Tch, pallor tricks...” He mused and he raised his hands to the multitudes of EIA spaceships around him causing all of them to move back and gain a safe distance from him.

“Hyyyyyyyah...”

Once the EIA spaceship moved back enough, Commander Sigrid’s hands violently jerked forward and instantly he pulled at the space as if trying to remove a piece of fabric.

Space shattered like glass under the powerful pull of Commander Sigrid and instantly, the ginormous object was revealed.

A gigantic red-colored star about half the size of planet Earth.

“So that’s where you have been hiding all this while...” Commander Sigrid said with a sinister grin and immediately he signaled to the spaceships behind him as space shook chaotically and the multitudes of spaceships entered into the star endlessly.

Chapter 337: The EIA States Its Intention...

Chapter 337: The EIA States Its Intention...

The sound of alarm flared throughout the entire Mutant Organization, sending chills within the hearts of everyone. Some Officials of the organization only raised an eyebrow at the strange alarm. Nothing like that has ever happened before even after working for almost 7 years in the organization but their curiosity was wiped out when their devices vibrated.

{System’s Emergency Notification}

[We’re under attack from a predicted hostile organization! Immediately prepare for war...]

The notification appeared in the card device of every living soul present within the Mutant organization as their eyes widened in shock but reality dawned upon them when the artificial sun implemented in the planet was suddenly bloated by a literal sea of spaceships...

KABOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOM

Immediately, a group of five appeared directly in front of the spaceships which slowly came to a stop 30 meters away from them.

“Make Your Intentions Known...” Those words rang out from the three Mutant Organization members as silence reigned for a while before suddenly space twisted as a man appeared in front of the three.

“Do you know who I am...” The man asked the three Mutant organization officials who looked at his face but simply shook their heads. They couldn’t recognize having seen the old man anywhere.

“Well then, I suppose you’ll understand this right?”! The man said, pointing to the badge at the front of his inner pocket the three Mutant organization officials narrowed their eyes and looked at the strange badge when suddenly their eyes widened in fear in the next second.

“As for making our intention known...” Commander Sigrid said before suddenly he pointed his fingers forward and slashed twice with it in mid-air.

RIIIIIIP

RIIIIIIP

RIIIIIIP

Instantly, two of the three official’s heads soared into the sky, followed by both their hands, and after that their entire body which was cut apart into three slashes.

Looking at the last official, Commander Sigrid appeared instantly in front of her within a split second and his fingers already wrapped around the woman’s neck before she could even come to reality.

“I hope this makes it clear...”

“WAIIT!”

CRRAAAACK

The sound of the neck bone being snapped into nothing echoed throughout the entire place, as the woman’s hand dropped to the side.

And slowly Commander Sigrid’s eyes locked into the distance where the gigantic Mutant organization headquarters lay and instantly, he flung the body towards the headquarters.

With a speed thrice faster than the bullet speed of an epic-grade sniper, the body of the Mutant Organization expert erupted in massive amounts of flames due to the horrifying friction before smashing into the gigantic skyscraper which tilted to the side due to the horrific momentum...

And that was more than enough for the Mutant Organization to know, the EIA wasn't joking this time.

"Cover the entire base with the star sealing net..." Commander Sigrid announced and instantly a blue net covered the entire star.

"Not a single person must remain alive here. Wipe out every single soul present, even that of the new students of the Mutant Organization. No questioning of all kinds must happen or any show of mercy or I would be the one to put an end to such an EIA official's life. Do you all understand?" Commander Sigrid said quietly, yet one could see space enveloped in white lines in front of his mouth.

"YES SIR!" The EIA officials roared out loud and Commander Sigrid gave the command...

"GO!"

RIIIIIIP

Immediately the air was blown apart as the multitudes of spaceships shut into the distance.

Following that was a scene of absolute carnage as entire skyscrapers were reduced to bare rubbles as bombs dropped onto the ground like rain, reducing everything it touched into ruins...

"You three..." Commander Sigrid suddenly called out as three figures appeared instantly behind him...

One of the figures was a pink-haired lady who was none other than Rihanna, one of the so-called monstrous geniuses, while beside her were two young men...

One of them was a dark-skinned young man, an oval-shaped face and with an elongated jaw. His ears were dark colored and he had a big smile on his face that revealed his two golden teeth. This was one of the five monstrous geniuses, The Smiling Budha.

The other young men were one with white skin and the most eye-catching about him was the strange mask on his face which had an imprint of the Joker's face on it. He was also one of the monstrous geniuses. The limitless transformation clowns.

"I'll be placing you in charge of the forces. Your job is to reduce the casualties as much as you can..." Commander Sigrid ordered without mincing words...

"HMMMMMM..." They all replied.

“You have all failed me once, don’t fail me once again...” Commander Sigrid said with so much serosity, they all raised their eyebrows.

Out of all the commanders, they knew well Commander Sigrid was the laxest. Seeing him in such an ultra-focused state was incredibly rare and it highlighted to them that the old foggy was really taking this well.

And instantly, the y faded away from behind him at a mind-numbing speed, leaving only Commander Sigrid alone.

And that was at the same time, when Commander Sigrid noticed the mushroom of energy that immediately tore through the sea of clouds about a thousand kilometers away, disappearing before anyone could see it.

“Hmmmmm, that is strange. That is no doubt a sign of battle but the war shouldn’t have gotten there yet. If so, who is the group, exchanging moves.”

Commander Sigrid mused out loudly and instantly he made his choice as he disappeared into the distance, becoming a shooting star except three times faster...

30 minutes later...

A white-colored object rapidly soared straight toward where Adrian and Zeras fought as it landed with a loud bang, causing a mushroom of energy to rise into the air.

Commander Sigrid’s eyes narrowed looking at the completely devastated environment before suddenly his eyes narrowed as he picked up a familiar energy wave and instantly, he moved with speed soon appearing an inch before the figure.

He was a young man whose figure was a little blurry but focusing his eyes, Commander Sigrid found the face to be strangely familiar and that was when his eyes widened in shock as realization dawned on him

“Rising Star Zeras!?”

Chapter 338: The Mutant Organization Fierce Strike Back...

Chapter 338: The Mutant Organization Fierce Strike Back...

Taken completely by surprise.

That was the word that could completely describe the mutant organization. Never in their wildest dream would they have known the EIA would be striking and so soon too. But The Mutant organization being the mutant organization, based their success on firstly, their brutality and secondly, the ability to predict.

While they might not have predicted the EIA suddenly striking today. They definitely predicted it would be striking one day and they have completely prepared themselves for such an impossible scenario.

That was why when the figure of the Mutant Organization official was flung at the headquarters where the Mutant Organization higher-ups were currently gathered, they bared their teeth in anger before they all descended into absolute calmness.

“I really like how they made their intention known; it would have been a headache if they had come with negotiability. I hate paper works you know...” One of the Mutant Organization higher-ups, a middle-aged man with long dark hair that reached down to his waist, and strangely had a slit at the center of his forehead said as he raises both legs on the table and folded both hands at the back of his head.

“Hehehehe, they truly might have come a bit earlier than predicted but it’s completely fine. After all, the organization spent a total of 60% of its entire profit on preparing for hostile organization...”

“Throughout the time of the organization’s life it had made a lot of enemies, I mean a lot. That amount of the total profit percentage placed in defense is not too much at all...”

“You all shut up, and click the damn buttons already, we are losing precious skyscrapers...” A burly man with crimson-colored hair roared out loud to all of them as he brought out his card device and smashed the red button that had strangely appeared all over their card device. Even the card device had also entered war mode. A mode where it would only show a map and the attack buttons.

“Ok, ok. Let us get serious too...” They all agreed and immediately, they brought out their card device and clicked on the gigantic red buttons that were present on their screen, and immediately, unbelievable changes began appearing all over the Mutant organization.

The first most noticeable change to the EIA who were currently striking at full force was how the entire EIA skyscrapers suddenly began descending onto the ground. In less than thirty seconds, apart from the skyscrapers which were already demolished, the entire skyscrapers present in the mutant organization had all disappeared underground.

“Hmmm, they retrieved back all their skyscrapers, seems they also were about inventory. But what difference does it make...” Some of the EIA officials responsible for different categories of attack muttered to themselves but they were all silenced when the Mutant Organization made its second move.

Immediately from the area where the mutant organization skyscrapers entered into the ground, small rectangular-like structures reaching up to 100 meters in height began appearing all over the place. In a minute, they had reached a total of five thousand such strange structures.

And instantaneously, the door of the structures opened up and the EIA's gaze welcomed the strange dark vortex present in every structure.

"Hmmm, and what is that?" They asked themselves strangely...

Meanwhile in the Mutant Organization Headquarters...

"Now we call this the BING-BANG!" The Mutant Organization higher-ups said with smiles on their faces as they all looked at the middle-aged man standing in the fathermost hall.

"Hey, Bing-bang, do your thing already, you don't want to keep our guest waiting do you..." They all said as the middle-aged man whose eyes held the images of the dark vortexes that appeared in every structure, smiled sinisterly and whispered

"GO."

And immediately, the EIA Gaze's all changed at once as figures began exiting the vortexes. Figures that they had never before seen in their lives.

"Are these animals' mutations..." A middle-aged man dressed in an EIA official clothes said with a raised eyebrow as they looked at the creatures which soon reached a mind-numbing level of a hundred thousand.

If Zeras had seen them, he would have recognized them as the same strange creatures that he met in one of the Mutant Organization bases. And it seemed his conjecture was right; they really were to be used for war.

"Hmm, they really are powerful strange creatures. I'm guessing their mutation forced them to climb over their natural level of strength making them reach the Cosmic rank stage. Impressive if you ask me. But there is a big defect..." The EIA official responsible for the operation combat department said, and the reply came from the green-haired lady beside him...

"They all can't fly..." She said but their expression all changed when they looked up at their head, their gaze easily piercing through the metallic covering.

"Hey, Bing-bang, you only unleashed the Bing, what about the bang?" They all asked and instantly, the slit on the man's forehead opened up revealing another gigantic vortex image within that singular eyeball on his forehead.

And instantly, above the entire sky of the Mutant Organization, thousands of those strange dark vortices appeared all over the sky, blocking the sky from view, and thousands of hellish-looking creatures descended the vortex.

“Another pretty impressive creation but this one has a single defect too...” The same EIA official said once again and as promptly, as his reply was answered.

“They all can fly...”

“Tch, what a hassle. We’ve been blocked from above and below. The Mutant Organization has descended on the ground, if we want to cut off their head, we would have to clear the ground to destroy them. All in all, we have to engage...” They all quickly determined and instantly the order was sent across all the EIA spaceships, “Engage, two categories. Land and air. Complete eradication...” The order rang out and instantly the EIA faced the first move of the Mutant Organization head-on.

“Fools. This is only the first wave of attack, and there are 4 more to come. Let us see how many percent of them will be wiped out in this...” The Mutant Organization higher-ups said as they all comfortably reclined in their seats, underground, and let the Mutant beast battle for them.

Chapter 339: Intense Indirect War

INTENSE WAR...

VROOOM VROOOM VROOOM

RIIIIIIIIIIIP

A figure could be seen in the air, dressed in an EIA Official uniform, eyes flaring with an intense red, a gigantic object could be seen in his hands, which looked more like spinning fans except they were the size of Cars.

Flinging the fan-shaped objects, they rippled outwards with horrific speed, ripping apart any creatures that were unlucky enough to stand on their way to pieces...

BOOOOOOOOOOOM

On the ground, another EIA official could be seen, both hands placed on the ground, while his eyes flashed a brilliant yellow.

All around him were over a hundred gigantic hands seemingly made of the earth each at a height of around 7 meters.

BAAANG

BAAAANG

BAAAANG

The sound of the earth shaking crazily echoed throughout the entire place as the hands smacked down with apocalyptic power rendering the entire earth to cracks while all the creatures unlucky enough to be caught in those literal earth palms were immediately sent to the otherworld.

That was only two of the hundreds of EIA officials who were currently battling against the mutant creatures. Against the well-co-ordinated EIA soldiers, the mindless mutant beast stood not a single chance and they were immediately reduced to paste.

Of course, the Mutant Organization's higher-ups could see everything happening but what drew their attention the most was a young man who was walking to and fro to the structures where the portals were arranged.

He easily entered into the rectangular structures where the mutant beast emerged from. Strangely, the mutant beasts as if unable to see him simply walk past him, and the young man entered into the portal before once again exiting.

But something always changes after his exit and that was...

"Another one of the portals has been collapsed. The balance of the Bing-bang portals has been disarrayed; I can only keep them on for three minutes more if no more is destroyed." The Mutant organization officials, the one with three eyes with vortexes in his eyes said and suddenly he coughed blood as his middle eyes slowly closed back and the dark vortex in his eyes disappeared.

Outside the ground, the EIA officials suddenly noticed the various portals, both the one in the air and the one in the rectangular structures on the ground suddenly all suddenly blew up at the same time.

BAAANG

BAAANG

BAAANG

BAAANG

BAAANG

Like a bunch of firecrackers going all up at the same time, the portals collapsed with a spectacular explosion wiping off the unlucky Mutant beast that just exited through the hole.

"Good job, Bruno..." The EIA official responsible for the operation combat said as he gave the young man a thumbs up.

And immediately, the EIA easily resolved the first attack from the EIA organization.

“Well, they just gave us a taste of their food, why don’t we give them a taste of our own...” The female officer said as she called into her watch...

“Activate the FR2 Virus infestation...” She ordered with an incredibly sinister smile.

“Let us see how you handle your own past medicine. Except this time a little more amplified by just thirty times...”

>>>>>>>>>>

“Tch, don’t jubilate just yet. Hey, Rohan, you’re up...” The white-haired EIA official said signaling to the old man with crooked eyes who was also sitting on the tables whose eyes flashed with a malevolent smile....

“4th genetic ability, open. Soul devouring family...”

>>>>>>>>>>

The floor above the ground shook crazily as if an earthquake was currently ongoing. But it was no earthquake instead, it was a gigantic tractor that had been played on the ground and its five-meter-long drill was currently drilling onto the ground causing the crazy reverberation.

“Tch, they do possess resources. Reinforcing the entire ground with a Cosmic steel ground. This makes their floor ten times harder than steel. They had definitely been preparing for this day too for a long time...” The EIA officials gathered around the gigantic tractor mused.

“Thankfully, we brought the abyss driller on this mission...” Another one said with a smirk when suddenly the AI voice rang out from the tractor...

“The ground has been dug for 100 meters and multitudes of signs of life have been found. Analysing, topography, and structure.

Topography and structure scan completed. A city of a 200-kilometer radius has been discovered.

“Oh? So, they build an underground city in case of emergencies, tsk, tsk How ironic as that will be their doom. Begin the Fr2 Virus release...” The official ordered coldly the sound of the AI ringing out in the next second.

“The FR2 Virus infestation has been successfully initiated.

Releasing a total of 6000Fr2 virus infestation in 3...2...2.

VROOOOOOOOOOOM

Immediately, the ground began shaking crazily as the drill that was currently in the ground, immediately opened up at its tip and the small black worm-like creatures fell like rain on the underground base.

>>>>>>>>>>

200 meters beneath the ground...

One would have expected nothing bare earth but in the mutant organization, it was completely the opposite as one would see the spiraling road that stretched through the entire area like blankets while different skyscrapers could be seen all around.

Zooming with flying cars around the street were Mutant organization officials who all continued with their daily bases.

The Mutant Organization being a dark force, rarely allows its officials to work from home, which means only a minority of the officials are allowed to leave the organization while the minority never leaves the Galaxy Revolver. But they were also aware they needed to be able to create a place not just for work but also for living. That was why they came up with the ingenious idea.

To create a living city on the ground for their workers. One indistinguishable from any real Earth city. It cost close to billions of star coins but they were able to accomplish this in the end.

The sky, the sun, the moon, everything was modeled to look the same as real life with a 999.99% Genuity and some Mutant organization officials weren't even aware they lived underground.

But today, they were all notified when the gigantic drill suddenly poked through the sun, and immediately, strange dark creatures fell from the drill.

And that was the beginning of their everlasting nightmare...

Chapter 340: The EIA Brutal Way: Mass Virus Infestation

"Hmmm, what's that..." The question was asked by a Mutant organization official in the underground city as flying cars and those working on legs all stopped and looked at the gigantic clouds of dark where hundreds of such strange dark organisms all buzzed together as if they were some Insects.

The drill poking through the sky was still releasing those strange 'bees' endlessly and in less than three minutes, a group of twenty of those large bees was formed once they all descended out of the drill, it immediately went out of the place before the hole in the sky was once again closed back.

Just as how it was in the last few minutes, except now there was a group of bees right in the sky all just buzzing and never moving but when people began to shrug and leave the scene thinking it was probably some environmental testing of the mutant organization.

All the 'bees' suddenly descended at the same time, and began buzzing around the group in the street. Their mere size was already enough to send some people screaming, but what really clinched it was when the strange organisms entered into their bodies through their nostrils and their mouths and they all dropped on the ground like flies. The bees came out of their body once they dropped and their victims began spasming.

"Some smart people immediately took a fire extinguisher puffing it around the group of bees which literally worked as all the bees rose into the air before heading deeper into the city but now looking around the city were people laying on the streets.

A kind old lady quickly walked towards one of the victims on the ground as he turned her upwards.

"Are you ok?" She asked the young lady on the ground, but her eyes furrowed together when she saw the strange veins streaking all over the lady's face and in the next second, her eyes suddenly snapped open, a brilliant crimson blood light in her eyes...

"Are you..." She asked unsure of her words due to the sudden change but her eyes widened in shock and before she could even scream out.

PUUUCHI

RIIIIIIIIIIP

A pair of extremely cold fangs pierced into her neck as her eyes widened to saucer before her entire throat was ripped open as she landed on the ground with a thump, blood crazily out of her neck like a broken tap...

"I.. ah.." Incomprehensible words from her throat as her fingers twitched continuously before slowly, she went limp and remained unmoving on the ground.

"AHHHHHHH..."

"AAHHHHH...."

"AAHHHHHH.."

The screams were unending and incredibly sudden as the figures on the ground slowly began rising and attacking the people.

Blood splashed through the streets belonging to those who had now been infected and helpless victims on the street who all had their throats ripped open.

But more chilling was the fact that once the infected drank the blood of their victims, they would begin shifting. Their first difference which was their beaming eyes, became redder while from their hands horrible steel-like claws tore out from them...

Not only did they grow sharper claws which could literally tear apart steel with a simple swipe, but their madness reached a maddening level as they began entering through the buildings and ripping away lives. And with every life ripped, they grow stronger and stronger...

30 minutes later and the entire area was deprived of a single uninfected soul, the streets were quickly covered in a small blood river.

And the 'bees' didn't stop for a single second as they kept spreading through the entire city like wildfire....

>>>>>>>>>

In the tallest structure within the underground city...

The gigantic room was filled with the same higher-ups of the mutant organization who were all currently looking at the gigantic scene which demonstrated the EIA in fierce battle...

But what they were battling this time wasn't some strange mutant beast but actually a strange flying beast with strange tentacles around his body.

One of the images showed that of a particular EIA official fighting with one such creature with a sword in his hand but as he slashed it wasn't as if the creature never existed as the blade simply passed through it like it was nothing but air.

And immediately the creature's tentacles wrapped on the head of the official and instantly drilled into his brain and eyes and mouth as he was lifted off his feet and suddenly, a strange white ball was sucked out of his entire body and he was thrown onto the ground with a thump.

Without wasting any single second, the strange creatures swallowed the ball of white that was taken from the man and it was swallowed in a single second.

Instantly, the creature became even more bigger as its sharp tentacles grew even longer and sharper and it instantly moved towards another soldier, killing him instantly before moving to another...

"The Soul Devouring Insect should deal them quite the damage for now..." One of the Mutant Organization higher-ups said with a confident smile on his face and drawing nods of approval from the others but their faces immediately changed as the alarm rang out ceaselessly in the room.

"Immediately the holographic depicting in the war changed replaced by another where the figure of a man dressed in an official mutant organization suit..."

"SIRS, we have a problem..." The man said, his clothes already wet due to sweat.

"Calm your heart and tell us what the problem is..." The mutant organization higher-ups all said at the same time.

"Forgive my disrespect sirs, but I think it'll be good if you can see it yourself..." The man said as the images on the holographic changed and revealed the image of people being ripped apart in the streets by strange gigantic scaled beasts walking on all their fours with crimson red eyes.

Some of such beasts still retained their human feature and it was very clear to see it was humans who morphed into such strange beasts...

"Wait, wait, wait, Isn't that the failed experimentation of the pale sucker beasts?"

"If it is, then it is a single word..."

"We're fucked!!"