

Chaos Devourer System

#Chapter 71 Getting A Set - Read Chaos Devourer System Chapter 71 Getting A Set

71 Getting A Set

Zeras finally arrived in front of the towering buildings, he noticed many new cadets moving in and out of the place with a smile on their faces.

Zeras slowly entered the building taking notes of the different rooms that were present within, each having its activity for the cadets.

He walked through the corridor with no particular sense of direction, just wanting to check the surroundings out before dialing Quinn when suddenly.

"Hey, Zeras. Up here..." Zeras turned to look at the figure and strangely it was the dragon boy, Vornek.

"It's been a long time Vornek. Um, a night I think." Zeras said causing a chuckle to escape Vornek's mouth.

"I can't believe you finally came to the Minor Training Area. You're probably the last cadet to visit this place after a week of it being available. Anyway, Quinn is over there, trying to get his set, but he seems to be waiting for somebody...that surprised me..." Vornek said as he pointed to the side where Quinn could be seen tapping his legs continuously on the tiled ground as he checked his watch with every second.

"Oh, let me meet him for a minute. Hey, Quinn..." Zeras shouted out to him as the boy in the dark glasses finally looked at him.

Quinn immediately jumped up sighting him as he breathed out a sigh of relief.

"Ha, you finally came. I know you would. Hey, let's go get it... They immediately moved towards another area of the large structure and after a few turns finally arrived before a small shop.

The shop was simply painted in a red color, the color of the building itself. Zeras even discovered red seemed to be the special favorite color of the EIA as even their uniform and structures if painted were always in red.

A chubby middle-aged man dressed in the EIA uniform could be seen at the counter while different technological tool Zeras couldn't name was behind him, extending into the distance of the shop as far as could be seen.

"Hey, Joey, finally here..." Quinn screamed out to him as Zeras noticed he didn't put the officer in the man's name depicting him to be a non-official member of the EIA.

In the EIA, the staff is divided into two, with the instructors being official staff members while the Waitresses in the cafeteria and this man here could be said to be non-official.

"I just need two sets... Help me out..."

"On it..." Joey slowly stood up as he entered deep into the shop to bring out the sets.

"Um, why don't you just buy it before and have to wait for me," Zeras asked confused. He was sure Quinn could have gotten the set far before he arrived and gotten it over it, but he just had to be strange and wait for him.

"Well, I wanted two sets and Joey refused to sell. A student can't buy two sets. So I had to show him who I was buying it for. I also just can't buy one as I'm the last person to buy the last set for today. If I had bought one, then the space would have filled up and no cadets would be able to buy anymore. That's why getting two is important..."

"Here you go, boys..." Joey said as he brought out a packaged object kept in a blue-colored Nylon. The two Nylon landed on the counter table with a thud as Zeras finally got a good look at what the buzz was all about.

"A set for 100 points..." Joey said as he passed them a golden-colored card.

Quinn immediately collected it as he placed the card near his watch.

The AI voice immediately rang out

"100 points deducted..."

Quinn passed Zeras the card as he took the card and swiped it over his watch but the notification was different...

"Unable to initiate transaction... Your points balance is zero..."

"What!!!?" Quinn asked as he looked at Zeras his mouth opened and his glass tilting to the side.

"Um, I thought you were given 400 points for ranking first on the rankings. But now it's zero. The senior years are really a headache sometimes... But don't worry about it, bro..."

Quinn tapped his shoulders saying that as he collected the card from him.

Zeras raised an eyebrow as he couldn't believe Quinn thought his points were bullied away from him not knowing it was him using it to buy a Mana cultivation manual.

Swiping the golden card on his watch for the second time...

"100 points deducted"

"I'll be taking both now, Joey," Quinn said as he grabbed the two objects and dragged Zeras away.

"Ok, here...you take this one..." Quinn said as he passed him the bag.

"Thanks, man..." Zeras almost couldn't believe Quinn just bought it for him without a second thought. "You're welcome but you still owe me 100 points. And hey, you don't want to owe me points for long..." Quinn said with laughter as they both moved their way around the place and soon arrived at the exit.

"So what's this all about... Is it..." Zeras asked trying to understand what this EIA gods battle was but he was cut short

"Don't worry Zeras, no spoilers...When you get home, just put it on and I'll immediately send a friend request to you. Accept it and we'll be able to move together in the game... Got it?"

"Yep... see you soon..." Zeras said as they both moved towards their dorm room.

Zeras entered his room as he sat on his sofa in exhaustion. But he got a hold of himself as he slowly unbuttoned the package. "Time to see what this does..." The technological equipment placed there was really simple and it's a large dark-colored helmet with an extra huge glass-like piece built on the eye-side.

Even though it looked big and heavy, it was actually very light and the covering seemed to be made from Very hard technological material that made Zeras realize, he would have to throw an all-out punch on the instrument before he could make a dent appear on it.

Golden Tickets and Power stones are greatly appreciated

72 Playing The Game

Zeras looked at the strange helmet in his hands but he didn't immediately wear it and he put that down beside the sofa instead while grabbing the Manual and reading that first.

He read over the introduction as his eyes dawned in realization.

The EIA gods battle wasn't some type of class as he formerly thought, it was a Virtual reality game.

The EIA engineering faculty created a virtual reality world where the students can engage in battles, missions, and quests replicated in real worlds in order to improve their abilities and problem-solving skills. It was more of a simulation involving different worlds and backgrounds.

Most importantly, there was a ranking of the students as they played the game, which ensured they moved higher and it was even possible to gain points in the game which can be used to buy materials in the EIA.

Looking at the different advice given about the equipment mentioned in the manual notably amongst is was: it would be best if the users were in a lying position before putting the helmets on in the game to avoid pain in the bones. Besides, the virtual reality world is virtual, and dying there though possible is not real. But the trauma of death is real and the user better be prepared, something the EIA plotted very well before the game's release.

Zeras lay on his sofa as he slowly wore the helmet on his head and the large goggles on his eyes.

He noticed it was strangely a perfect fit as if it was perfectly tailored for him.

Pressing a button, on the side of the helmet.

"WELCOME TO THE EIA gods BATTLE."

He suddenly felt himself being rapidly pulled somewhere as a blinding white light flared abruptly enveloping his senses and rendering his brain blank for some time.

Zeras slowly felt the shoving stop as his brain began processing information once again. Looking around him, he found himself in a white hall with an end far behind the reach of his sight.

A notification panel appeared in front of Zeras but instead of appearing in his head like the Chaos Devourer System's panel. Blue energy coalesced together to form a physical panel in front of him.

[Profile Creation]

[Please choose a name, note: It can't be your real name.]

A keyboard appeared in the air as his hands moved towards the keyboard and input a word without thinking.

|Congratulations on successfully inputting a name|

Zeras looked at the board where thousands of different characters could be seen, Humans, dragonoids, Elvians, Jokers, etc There were hundreds of different profiles.

He slowly swiped over to the human tab, as he chose a very tall but averagely muscular body with flaming dark eyes.

|Attributes|

|Player Name: Erebus|

|Rankings: 0|

|Number of defeats: 0|

|Number of defeated opponents: 0|

|Number of completed missions:0|

Zeras looked at himself seeing his formerly thin body growing a little bigger while he appeared even taller than he was before, approximately 1.9 from his previous 1.8 normal height.

Looking at his attributes with everything being almost zero, he muttered to himself

"So where do I go on so-called missions,"

|Would you like to synchronize your Watch identity to find friends?|

Zeras's eyebrows furrowed as he didn't want to get his information easily traced back to him, but since the game asked for him not to give his real name, he could guess it had its way of keeping his real identity a secret.

"Ok,"

|Synchronizing real ID to game ID.|

|Successfully intitiated|

|Checking for available friends...|

|A Friend request has been found|

|Player-The Limitless One- sent a friend request.|

|Accept| |Reject|

Zera's eyebrows furrowed looking at the strange name as he couldn't help but wonder what type of psychopath would choose such a name.

Clicking on the accept button, a figure suddenly materialized in front of him.

It was a 2-meter tall human figure with piercing crimson eyes and crimson red hair.

"I see, you finally got the hang of it. You see it's worth it, right?" The tall giant said almost screaming in glee.

"Quinn?..."Zeras asked shocked.

"Yep, it's me," Quinn replied.

"Strange. You can yourself the limitless one? Do you think you're some Greek god or something" Zeras asked chuckling to himself.

"The first thing that came to my mind when I saw the keyboard. And you also call yourself Erebus, do you think you're some Chaos god or something..."

"Hey anyway, what do you think of the game, pretty cool huh?." Quinn asked him.

"Except for the fact that there's almost no difference between it and reality. There's nothing cool about it?" Zeras replied uncaringly.

"What the? Didn't you check the Main page? There are countless missions and you can challenge other players to go up the rankings..." Quinn said looking at Zeras his eyes wide open.

"You can do that? Where..."

"Tch, there's no time for where?" I have this mission I already signed up for with other players, let's go..."

Quinn's giant hand grabbed onto Zeras and they both immediately disappeared from space.

-- -- --

|The Mission: Obtain the void stone that has finally been filled with spots.|

|The two teams of 10 are now ready to begin|

|Mission begins initiation|

[Transportation to the Void Stone Dimension Begins in 3..2..1]

-- -- --

Zeras opened his eyes as he looked at the area he was in when suddenly he felt an object soaring with speed behind and almost reflexively, his head bent to the side as a moving cosmic stone moved past his head flaming red hot.

Sweat dripped down his face as one thing was sure, his head would have exploded with a pop, like a crushed watermelon if that stone had hit him.

He took a deep breath in as he saw a group of five around him, while the giant figure of Quinn could be seen.

He unknowingly diverted his gaze as he looked around him and his jaws dropped to the ground.

"Is this...Is this...."

Golden Tickets and Powerstones are greatly appreciated. Let's appear on the rankings too.

73 Three Chaotic Region Of Space

Zeras looked around him, his jaw almost dropping to the ground.

He was standing on space itself, with a strange blue-colored barrier beneath the place where they were all able to stand.

In front of him, different small cosmic stones enveloped in flames could be seen dripping down like rain as the sights stretched on for almost 250 kilometers distance.

Looking at the velocity with which the Stones were moving, he did not doubt the amount of devastating damage they would do if they slammed on one's head.

After, the region of the flaming stones, another region could be seen as completely dark and dimly illuminated by cosmic crystals that drifted in space.

A phenomenon was occurring that caught Zera's vision as he noticed a strange dark vortex manifesting occasionally and erratically in space. Although he didn't know what they meant or did due to being far away, he didn't feel they would be any less dangerous compared to the flaming meteors.

Past the Vortex manifestation region was a gigantic structure that extended very high into the space.

Thick ropes could be seen around the gigantic structure which Zeras could only define to be there to act like some way of climbing the tower.

An object could be barely seen on the tower radiating a very bright purple light that shines through the entire space.

If there was only one thing the object could be, then it is surely the Void Stone. "So the mission objective is to take the Void Stone." Zeras mused under his breath.

"Hey you all, listen up." A voice echoed out to Zeras as he directed his attention away and focused on the dragonoid figure with large claws and dark scaly hands.

"I'm Draggy and the leader of our team. Being the first person to apply for the mission. The mission is to obtain that stone over there and to do that we need to cross these three regions before arriving at the stone." Draggy said as he pointed towards the far distance, the top of the tower where the purple object lies confirming Zera's suspicion.

"The three regions won't be a walk in the park with the first one -Meteor Shower Region- requiring us to dodge the flaming meteors. A touch means elimination.

The second region-Black hole Region- releases a dark vortex that creates a powerful dragging force that sucks anyone too close within. Getting sucked in means elimination. As for how powerful the absorption force is, you'll all soon know.

The third phase is climbing the tower with those ropes, if you fall, then you're gone. And that means elimination..."Draggy explained as he looked at the four of them with eyes that said: do you understand? which they all nodded to.

"If that was everything to worry about, it would have been a smooth sail but unfortunately we have to watch out for them too..." Draggy said as he pointed to another group of five people who strangely had a red arrow on top of their heads.

There were four boys and a long leg girl among them and a notorious and sinister smile lined their lips as they looked at Zeras and others.

"This is a competition, the first person to grab the stone wins for his group. Genetic abilities and any type of dirtiness are allowed...So, team, you can all get your paws dirty and try your best to also avoid getting dirtied too..." Draggy said seriously causing Zeras to raise an eyebrow.

'A dirty match, huh..."

"The match starts in the next sixty seconds, I don't think I can cram all your names on my head within thirty seconds so, we shall be assigned numbers based on our arrivals. I'm Number 1, and the last person to arrive is Number 5.

So a quick introduction. I'm number one and I have pretty great claws that can rend almost everything apart.." Draggy said brandishing his huge dark claws for them to see.

Looking at those ghostly claws, they looked like they could tear everything apart.

"I'm number two, and my genetic ability is elasticity. You can call me elastic..." A lanky male figure said beside Zeras causing all of them to give a nod. His abnormally long body says everything already.

"I'm number three and can shoot out beams that make you pause in your steps. You can call me heavy." A boy with long ears and wearing a glass said.

He looked completely harmless and like a bookworm but Zeras didn't underestimate him on hearing he could slow people down. Getting slowed down in this mission might be the straw that crushed the donkey back in this mission. Thankfully, he was on their side.

"I'm number 4 and I can teleport. Call me limitless." The flaming hair and eyes of Quinn's profile said causing Zeras to roll his eyes.

"I'm Number 5 and I have great strength. You can call me number 5." Zeras said under his breath since the others had names that were short and simple, then number 5 was a perfect name for him.

"Now, follow my leads, and only one thing matters which is obtaining that stone at all costs. If you can help other teammates, then do so and you might indirectly improve the stakes of winning. But I don't advise allowing you to get dragged down by your teammate. Only help, if you can be secured too...

I believe you can see the red arrow, anyone holding that sign is an enemy and should be stopped and eliminated. The one with a blue arrow on their head is a friend and should be helped... You can go all out with your attacks since dying is not possible. So go all out, and try not to die quickly. And if you do will die, then try dragging a few enemies down with you with a last desperate suicide attack...Is that clear?"

Zeras pursed his lips and looked at the Draggy in front of him. This is the most shameless and most corrupted team leader Zeras had ever seen.

[MISSION: OBTAIN THE VOID STONE BEGINS IN 3...2....1..GO..]

BLIIIIIIIIIIITZZZZZZ.

The ten people and two teams blasted forward with immense speed as they immediately entered into the Meteor Showering region, Zera's team quickly following behind Draggy's back.

And Zera's first mission successfully began.

74 Growing Hate

BLIIIIIIIIIIITZZZZZZ.

The ten people and two teams blasted forward with immense speed as they immediately entered into the Meteor Showering region, Zera's team quickly following behind Draggy's back.

Zeras looked at the sides where he saw the other five teams moving through the showering Meteor and he could see they were even moving faster than their group.

His gaze moved away from them as he jumped to the sides dodging a flaming meteor before moving around and quickly catching up back with the group.

Due to the showering Meteors, the group had no options but to occasionally spread out to dodge individually then they'll once again align together behind Draggy before once again getting separated.

The fastest to dodge was strangely Draggy who looked as if he could already guess where the Meteor would land while the slowest person, struggling to dodge, was the boy in glass called Heavy. He was the slowest in the group but he wasn't left behind.

They weaved through the Meteor rain as the end was soon in sight and no type of attack was unleashed between the two groups due to both concentrating on dodging the Meteor.

Zeras felt something strange as he suddenly felt the speed of the meteors accelerating in their region.

His eyes constricted to pin drops as he wondered if this was normal and probably due to them almost exiting the region when he looked at the other side and noticed they were doing just fine.

Zeras was immediately attracted to one guy among them, who had his hands stretching back to their region and a blue light could be seen on them causing the Meteors to rain down faster than normal.

"An accelerating genetic ability?" Zeras muttered but he still didn't care as his speed suddenly increased even more. "Don't let hate get in your head and just focus on properly dodging, okay?..." The voice of Draggy rang out from the front as the group immediately focused on dodging the stones to their best but there was someone who couldn't keep up.

Heavy moved around the showering Meteors as he tried to dodge as fast as he could, but he barely escaped with the skin of his teeth.

A meteor slammed down towards him from above as he pressed himself to a stop causing the meteor to land right in front of him and some pieces landed on his legs sending him skidding forward uncontrollably.

Another Meteor immediately moved towards his head wanting to drill a hole into it, but he got a hold of himself as he quickly slid to the side, rolling on the blue platform, effectively dodging the second flaming meteor.

His butt landed on the ground with a thud as he felt pain in them making him clench them tightly but that simple lapse of concentration was all that was required for a meteor to appear just five centimeters from his head.

Heavy sat down in shock unable to move a single inch as the gigantic object rapidly magnified in front of him and covered his whole vision.

Zeras looked around, seeing they were only four as he looked behind for the last person.

And there it is, a young man in glasses with a flaming meteor extremely close to crushing him.

"Oh, shit..." Zeras screamed out drawing the attention of others as they all turned their head backwards.

Quinn was attracted to Zera's shout as he looked behind him and saw Heavy almost getting crushed causing him to roll his eyes and disappear from where he stood.

The meteor appeared before Heavy just a centimeter from crushing when suddenly the phantom of a figure appeared in that split second as the meteor slammed down on them sending stones and dust across the place.

When the group thought all hope was lost, a figure suddenly pierced out of the dust with Heavy in his hands in a princess carry.

It was Quinn.

They all breathed a sigh of relief as the duo quickly caught back to the group and Quinn dropped him down.

"So how does it feel to be close to death, huh..." Quinn asked loudly extremely curious while the group also unknowingly perked their ears too.

They were all New cadets and had all never died before in the game. So their curiosity was piqued as they all wanted to know how it felt to be close to dying.

"I...I just went blank... Everything just pauses..." Heavy said, sweat still dripping down his forehead.

"That damn guy..." Heavy gasped beneath his breath as flames almost burst out of his eyes. He almost got killed.

"If we had lost you, then it would have been a loss for our group. But since we didn't lose you, it's our win and their loss. Now we know what that guy in their group could do and we can prepare for any sneak attack again. So this exchange is our win guys..." Draggy said at the foremost front of the group causing Zera to give a small approving nod.

It seems the guy possessed some brains too. Instead of growing angry as any other team leader would, he analyzed the situation and found a positive factor in it...

The group finally broke through the Meteor Showering region and arrived in the Black Hole region.

Looking at the second group which was at the front and showing the effect of the strange dark vortex, a smile appeared on the group's face as Elastic couldn't help but shout a sentence that made the group smile to their ears:

"It seems someone is about to get their revenge so soon..."

A wild grin broke out from Heavy's face as he looked at the group in front with a broken smile...

"How interesting..."

His eyes narrowed to slits as he stretched out one of his fingers towards the guy who accelerated the stones and almost got him killed.

His eyes closed, his hands outstretched waiting for the perfect timing when suddenly a dark vortex appeared beside the boy and a powerful grey wave of energy blasted out from Heavy's hand and slammed on the boy.

A strange expression appeared on Zera's face as he looked at the spine-tingling picture in front of him when suddenly a voice rang out through the entire space...

"Player Meteorite of Team B has been eliminated..."

Golden Tickets and Powerstones are greatly appreciated. Thanks for the support guys.

Supreme_IQ

75 Zera's Elimination?

BLIIIIIIIIIIITZZZZZZ.

The ten people and two teams blasted forward with immense speed as they immediately entered into the Meteor Showering region, Zera's team quickly following behind Draggy's back.

stretched out his hands as he caused the flaming meteors to increase in velocity. The group watched as the flaming meteor crashed one of the members.

-- -- --

"Good one, Meteorite. With one of them successfully eliminated, then it leaves us to four." The group leader, Laser, said causing a devilish evil smirk to appear on Meteorite's face.

Their group immediately exited the Meteor Shower Region as they appeared in the Dark Hole region.

A dark vortex appeared in front of them as it slowly created a suction force that caused the group to feel themselves getting slowly dragged toward the vortex.

"Move away..." The alarming voice of Laser rang out as the group quickly moved out of the way of the Vortex. Stooping to take a look at the vortex about ten meters away, they saw the suction force grow incredibly powerful as time went by but after ten seconds the vortex slowly faded away.

Realization immediately dawned on the group...

"The Vortex opens randomly and erratically through this space. But you should be able to avoid getting sucked in if you noticed it at its first appearance and immediately move away. So far you move away after five seconds before the suction force gets stronger, then you're safe in this region..." Laser said as the group quickly moved through the region moving fast away from the vortex once they appeared.

Meteorite moved around the place as he was doing fairly well in avoiding the vortex.

Another vortex suddenly materialized in front of him, but as he tried bending to the side to avoid the vortex, a beam of energy suddenly slammed on him, entering his body as his jaws dropped to the ground.

His body...it felt like it weighed a million pounds rendering him completely helpless as sweat poured down his face from trying his best to move away but his movements were incredibly slow...

The Vortex in front of him slowly started getting stronger as the suction force grew powerful and dragged him towards it.

Meteorite clenched his tightly as he forcefully moved his body with every ounce of Mana within him causing him to break through the force as his body became light once again...

20:43

A triumphant smile appeared on his face as he immediately turned and ran but he was shocked when he saw himself floating in the air with his legs moving to and fro in the air. He didn't move a single inch forward and was slowly getting dragged backward...

"No, no, no, no..." Meteorite screamed out his lungs as he was sucked into the vortex completely powerless but at the last second, he looked towards the other group as he saw the boy he thought he already crushed down pointing his finger towards him no doubt the one that cast the genetic ability that made him heavy.

"I swear by Mamamiya, if I catch you, I'll strangle you to death...Haaaaa" A bone-chilling scream erupted from his mouth as he soon disappeared within the vortex unable to complete his words...

"Now, that's what I call, Wok In The Dog... Hahaha..." Quinn burst into laughter as a satisfied expression appeared on Heavy's face. He finally killed the bastard who almost got him killed. Alas, It was the best feeling in the world.

"Meteorite....." The other group screamed out as they watched one of their group get eliminated.

The groups clenched their teeth furiously as flames almost burst out of their eyes...

"Ignore them, for now. There will be more than enough time to deal with them later..." Laser said as the group continued moving forward quickly exiting the Dark Hole Area and jumping on the ropes, quickly climbing up the tower.

"Good one, Heavy..." Draggy, the team leader said extremely happy as they passed through the dark vortex region. Having watched a scapegoat of the other group, they were able to quickly get past the Vortex and appear before the gigantic tower in front of them.

"Hey, limitless... Can you teleport to the top of the tower and grab the stone..." Draggy asked as he noticed Limitless was able to save Heavy that time by teleporting. If he could directly teleport to the Tower's head. He could pick the void stone and that'll be counted as their win...

"That's impossible... I can't teleport that far away..." Quinn said as he shook his head continuously.

"Then we have no choice but to climb as fast as we can..." Draggy said as the group looked at the abyss a foot away from them and the tower with the ropes about 2 meters away.

"Jump..." Draggy yelled as they all jumped and tightly held the ropes but at the same time, Laser, the team leader of the second group also yelled out:

"Now, Telekin..."

One of the guys in the group who had strange purple hair and eyes suddenly stretched out his hands as he targeted one of the ropes where a tall individual of about 1.9 meters tall and red crimson hair and eyes was about to hold onto...

Zeras jumped after Draggy's notification as his hands inched closer to the rope in front of him.

His hands were about to tightly hold the rope when suddenly the rope shifted away as if sentient causing Zeras to grab at nothing.

"What the?" Zeras screamed out as he tightly held on to the tower but its surface was incredibly smooth and he soon disappeared into the abyss below...

"Number 5..." The group screamed out as they watched Zeras disappear into the abyss and soon fade from their view.

Their gaze immediately turned towards the boy whose power seemed to be some type of telekinesis as he was able to move the rope to the side a little, just enough to make Zeras fall into the abyss.

"Keep going. There's nothing we can do..." Draggy yelled out to the rest of them as the group took one last look at the abyss where Zeras fell in before quickly dragging themselves upwards.

Quinn's eyebrow furrowed together as he thought to himself...

'It'll be strange if you get eliminated so easily, Zeras...' He also didn't waste time as he rapidly pulled himself upwards.

Now, the group appeared to be a 4 Vs 4.

Golden Tickets and Powerstones are greatly appreciated. Don't forget to comment your opinion.

Supreme_IQ

76 Engaged In A Brawl

The two groups tried climbing as fast as they could, with the other team at the front. While it would have been a possible solution for the other group to simply cut the rope, easily eliminating Zera's group which was below.

It was impossible, due to the materials the ropes were made of and their raw thickness.

It would take them about half an hour to even cut off one of the ropes and by that time, Zera's group would have already got hold of them.

"Move faster..." Draggy urged as he rapidly pulled himself up, the remaining group quickly following behind his figure.

Although it pained Draggy when he saw Zera get eliminated, he knew this wasn't the time to get angry. The mission was still the main focus.

Laser finally arrived at the top of the tower as he dragged all his remaining teammates upwards and they all finally finished climbing the tower.

Right in front of their eyes, 20 meters away, was the object they'd been pursuing since.

The Purple Void Stone.

Laser slowly moved towards the purple stone but once he arrived at about five meters, he suddenly felt himself slamming on a barrier as his motion came to a stop.

Right in front of Laser and something not previously seen by the group, a purple dome of energy could be seen surrounding the Void Stone area acting like some protective shield.

Laser's hands touched the barrier as he clenched his hands into a fist and threw out a punch infused with all his strength.

BOOOOOM.

The sound of collision rang out powerfully, but the barrier only shook a little before coming to a stop once again.

But although it appeared to have next to no damage, the group noticed the purple light of the barrier dimming a little.

"Together, let's deliver our powerful strikes..." Laser urged the group as they all released their strongest attacks.

Laser moved backward as he slowly closed his eyes, opening them a powerful laser beam shot out of them extremely glaring as they slammed into the barrier with about twice the force of his full-powered punch.

BOOOOOOOM

The girl in the group named Speedy, moved backward as her figure blitzed around the place with speed gathering momentum before she suddenly ran towards the barrier and delivered a powerful punch.

BOOOOOOM.

Destroi got into a battle stance as he clenched his right fist which soon flared with a purple energy. Throwing out a single punch, the air exploded with a bang as a purple energy beam emanated from his hands and slammed on the barrier.

BOOOOOOM

Telekin who got Zeras eliminated also slapped forward in front of him but by some mysterious force, the sound of collision rang out as if an invisible object slammed on the purple barrier.

BOOOOOOM

With the four releasing the full power of their attack, the barrier rippled crazily as the light on it slowly dimmed.

"Two more attacks and we'll rip it apart..." Laser urged as the group once again released one more powerful attack.

BOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOM.

The barrier flickered crazily this time as its purple color changed to a white glass as if its energy had been drained completely.

But even more so, the group knew it needed one more final attack to finally completely shatter the barrier.

"One more last time..." Laser urged as he got ready to fire his strongest laser from his eyes when suddenly

"Not so fast..."

A claw slammed on Laser's head and his body was immediately knocked flying, bouncing continuously on the ground before skidding to a stop and slamming into the barrier.

Laser felt his head go a little dizzy due to the attack but he quickly got over it as he stood up and observed the situation.

Right in front of their group of 4 was another group of 4 with an especially eye-catching figure who had exceptionally dark and scaly claws and stood in front of the group.

Laser's eyes narrowed as he felt a dangerous aura emanating from some of the group members causing him to quickly give out orders.

"Speedy, you take care of the crimson red hair and eyes guys. Just slow him down for as much as you can..." Laser urged as he looked at the female figure with exceptionally long legs in the groups.

"Hey, Destroi, take care of the glass guy and that lanky one. I believe you can do it..." Laser said as he looked at the boy who could fire out a destructive beam of purple energy from his hands.

Even though he was assigned to fight two individuals at once, Destroi didn't seem to be a bit worried at all as an uncaring face could be seen on him which lined into a disdainful smirk...

"Tch, fighting with a bunch of monkeys..."

"I'll hold down that large claw guy. As for you Telekin. Focus on completely breaking through that barrier and take the Void Stone once you do that, got it?" Laser asked as he stared at Telekin who gave a nod as he looked away from the group and threw a punch at the barrier.

It was like the shooting gun required for the game to begin.

Draggy moved forward as he slashed his claws at Laser's eyes, but the boy didn't move a single inch as a red destructive beam of laser slammed on those claws, they both got into a heated battle of claws and beams.

Elastic moved forward, followed by Heavy as they got close to the barrier but were suddenly stopped by Destroi who slowly stretched his bone, his bones crackling with the sound of foreboding thunder...

"Let's get this over with, monkeys..." A mocking smirk appeared on Destroi's face as he slammed his two legs on the ground before pressing off with speed.

BOOOOOM

BAAAAAAAANG

Every punch of Destroi seemed to be able to blast a rock into pebbles as Elastic and Heavy struggled to get past but was held down by him.

Every punch of his reverberated deep in their bones as Elastic was able to dodge his attacks due to his elastic body while Heavy tried to slow him down, from time to time, preventing Elastic from easily getting overwhelmed.

Now left was Quinn and the girl called Speedy...

Quinn sized up Speedy from head to toe before ignoring her and looking at Telekin who already managed to create a crack on the barrier, no doubt soon shattering into pieces.

His figure suddenly disappeared as he materialized behind Telekin and slowly stretched out his palms wanting to get hold of his head but a strange expression appeared on his face as a hand suddenly wrapped onto his stopping his motion at the last minute.

"I'm called Speedy for a reason..." A smile appeared on Speedy's face as she engaged in battle with Quinn, one teleporting and another running.

Even though she would have normally been defeated by Quinn if it was a true fight. Speedy was able to keep up with him as she avoided confrontation and focused on just preventing Quinn from getting any nearer.

Now left was Telekin who continuously chipped away at the barrier uninhibited by the group fight...

CRAAAAACK.... CRAAAAACK...

Thanks for the donated Golden Tickets. Thank you. Golden Tickets and Power Stones are greatly appreciated. Let's also move up the rankings too guys.

77 I'll Take That

The sound of glass shattering into pieces and raining down on the ground echoed as Telekin finally broke through the glass and slowly moved toward the stone.

"Don't let him touch it..." Draggy screamed out angrily as he tried rushing towards the barrier but was completely blocked by Laser who continuously shot out Laser beams from his eyes as fast as he could.

Elastic and Heavy were struggling to keep up with Destroi's barrage leaving them not a single second to have their attention divided.

Quinn teleported around the place as he was blocked by Speedy who held him back preventing him from getting close to Telekin.

Telekin threw out one more punch, wrapping his telekinetic power in his fists as the glass finally shattered into pieces.

He marveled at the beautiful purple light of the Void Stone as he slowly walked towards it as if being uncontrollably dragged to it.

An arrogant smirk appeared on his face as he slowly stretched out his hands towards the Void Stone.

"In the end, I'm the final winner..."

His hands slowly moved towards the Crystal when suddenly a hand grabbed onto his stopping it just an inch from the Void Stone.

"I'll Take That..." A whisper sounded in his ears brimming with bone-chilling killing intent.

Telekin watched stupidly as the hand slowly moved towards the Crystal and casually removed it.

His gaze slowly turned as he looked at the eyes of the figure and all his hair stood on end in the next second.

BOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOM.

The entire team was snapped out of their brawl as a figure was sent flying out of the barrier with horrifying speed, his body blown erratically into the distance amidst the sound of bones being crushed due to repeated hits on the ground.

Laser's eyes narrowed wondering who the figure was but his eyes widened as he made out the figure of Telekin who soon disappeared from the top of the tower and disappeared to the Dark Hole region where he got absorbed into a vortex and crushed.

"Player_Telekin has been eliminated..."

The AI voice rang throughout the space as the team automatically stopped fighting and stared at the figure holding the Void Stone.

"NUM... NUMBER 5!!!!..."

"Surprised?" Zeras asked with a smirk on his face...

20 minutes ago... Zeras jumped also on hearing the order of Draggy but as his hands inched closer to the rope, the rope suddenly moved away from him as if sentient.

His face dropped as he ended up holding onto nothing...

"What the?"

Zeras immediately fell down the abyss. His eyes narrowed as he looked up at the Telekin and saw the sinister smirk on his face...

A sinister smile also appeared on Zera's face as he muttered to himself

"I'll be sending you to hell soon..."

"Activate Absolute Morph..."

Zera's hand immediately turned into huge black veiny claws of the Skulls but he didn't transform fully into a skull this time as he used the claws to grab onto the tower, digging them inside it as he slowly clung himself to the tower forcefully stopping his descent.

Zera's mouth widened into a smile, "In the end, my Absolute Morph Gene is still the best..."

[According to System's Estimation, The Chaos Devourer gene is countless times more powerful than the Absolute Morph Gene. It's just Host is too weak to even tap the surface level of the ability. The host will begin realizing how powerful the gene is, once he reaches level 10 of the system.]

Zeras snorted coldly as his elongated claws slowly dragged him up. He was already used to the system and purposely angered it. As for the harsh words, his skin was thick enough to withstand them.

"Now let me give them a nice surprise..." Zeras muttered as he quickly dragged himself up with his huge claws ignoring the ropes.

Arriving at the top of the tower, he deactivated absolute morph as he finally climbed up the tower only to see the sight of the group held down while the glass just got shattered by the boy he wanted to send to hell.

"What perfect timing..."

-- -- --

"Congratulations. Team A completed the mission.

+20 points will be distributed to the still-standing team of Group A..."

Zeras suddenly felt himself being shoved away as the Void space and everyone in front of him suddenly faded away...

A Blinding Flash Of White Light...

Zeras felt his consciousness returning to his body as he slowly took the VR helmet off his head.

His watch immediately vibrated intensely as he looked at the notification. <20 points credited>

A system notification panel appeared in front of him...

[Mission: Obtain the Void Stone has been completed..]

[Reward: +150 EXP]

[Total EXP: 1110/1200]

"Now that's one heck of a game..." Zeras said as he smiled. The EIA gods battle was better than he thought, he even gets to increase his EXP's by completing the missions and also gain points that he could use in the EIA too.

According to how Quinn described it, it seems there was even more to the EIA god's battle game than he knew.

Now he had more than enough reason to take the game seriously just as much as he took his cultivation seriously.

Looking at the time on his watch, an unbelievable expression appeared on his face as he unknowingly screamed out

"3 hours already passed?"

The entire game duration was just 30 minutes to him but time already passed so fast in the real world.

'I need to take note of the time or I might one day be sent to the Punishment Hall for coming late to class...'

Zeras stood up from his sofa he placed the helmet carefully In its box and left it on the table before moving toward his room.

It was less than 6 hours before the next day began and the next class...

Jumping on the bed and sinking his bone into it.

A notification suddenly appeared on his watch...

<Quinn Voidspace...>

<Hey bro, that was seriously cool. You just suddenly showed up with a bang surprising everyone. I knew you wouldn't get eliminated easily. Heck, the AI didn't even ring out the notification of you getting eliminated, that should have been enough proof but seeing you falling into the abyss seemed to ring the louder bell...

Anyway, I could bet you enjoyed it. Let's meet up some other times on the game... Don't forget to access the main Menu to see other features of the EIA gods battle.

Ok, have to go back to fight this guy on the twentieth rankings. Honestly, I'm like 2nd in the New Cadets rankings but I'm stuck at level twenty among the EIA gods battle New Cadets rankings. You'll understand what I mean by there are slumbering dragons in the EIA once you start climbing up the rankings...

Your best buddy.. Quinn [The Limitless one]>

"Limitless, my ass.." Zeras snorted as he swiped away the notification...

"I'll check what's buzzing about the so-called rankings some other time..." Zeras said as slowly closed his eyes.

He had another great day of Inter-dimensional Combat class ahead of him...

Golden Tickets and Powerstones are greatly appreciated. Thank for your support guys.

Supreme_IQ

78 First in the Test

The Inter-dimensional Combat class was deadly silent as a blue holographic tab appeared in front of the students depicting hundreds of questions.

Some students were sweating profusely trying their best to remember the answers to the question while some had an unbothered face and just repeatedly clicked on the holographic.

One of the students with an unbothered face was Zeras who just continued tapping on the holographic without a care in the world.

Zeras could easily remember everything that was taught the day before, so the questions were very simple for him and he just kept inputting the answers.

The test was a 30 minutes test and he was done in 13 minutes.

Zeras clicked on the<Submit> button as the holograph disappeared from his sight.

Others noticed the holographic disappear from him and had their jaws dropping to the ground in shock while some had a mocking smirk on their face probably thinking he accidentally clicked on the Submit button.

Instructor Moneca could be seen in front of the group as a notification appeared on her watch informing her one of the students was done causing her to raise her head in shock as her gaze scanned through the whole students and soon found Zeras who sat down there blankly tapping on his holographic watch...

"What an Interesting, chick..." Instructor Moneca muttered under her breath as time rapidly passed away...

-- -- --

30 minutes later...

The holographic image immediately disappeared from everyone's face as the students unknowingly slammed back on their chairs in exhaustion.

"So that's the test, chicks. And you all kinda did pretty well." Instructor Moneca said as she continuously tapped on her watch.

"Your results have been transmitted to your watch and we have the first, second, and third.

The third is Elvora Mora with a score of 100/150. Elvora will be sent 20 points for her good works..." Instructor Moneca said as the whole students looked at a girl who had long long purple hair with a pair of glasses covering her purple eyes.

"The second is Endricott Viladima with a score of 135/150. Endricott will be sent 30 points for his good work..." Zeras looked at the boy and he was strangely the one who explained to him about the Hall being able to change to represent an area of the void.

"The First is Zeras Celestria with a perfect score of 150/150. Zeras will be sent 50 points for his good work..." The entire stood just stood there shocked as they looked at Zeras. Even the prideful Elvora couldn't help but direct her attention towards him while Endricott just stood there shocked. 'Wasn't it the boy who didn't even know about the existence of the Artificial Environment Techno-morph. How did he manage to get a full score on the test...'

"So that's the note-worthy mentions of you all. You should try doing your best in the test too and you'll be given quite the special privileges too..." Instructor Moneca said uncaring that he called the rest of the students not worthy of mention at all. She knew very well, of the growing ego of New Cadets and this occurrence would only fire them up to do well in the next class and give them a much higher chance of survival once they head for their first Inter-dimensional Combat Operation, something a rub in the head won't do.

"So with that done, and most of you being able to identify the majority of the parts of the spaceship including the buttons. Let's try our hands at driving a real spaceship..." Instructor Moneca said as she led them to a room on the side of the gigantic hall.

Zeras quickly followed the hundreds of students behind her figure as they arrived in the second room and there it was a gigantic teleporter.

"Stand on it, in tens..." Instructor Moneca said as ten students moved out and stood on the teleporter which soon flared with blue light and they all disappeared...

The students rapidly moved, getting teleported to a place unknown and after 14 teleportation, Zeras finally convinced himself to enter into the teleporter too and go to a place unknown.

Who knows where the teleporter is going? It could be right in the middle of an active volcano, or directly into the mouth of a sea monster.

[Host is Being Ridiculous...] The system's panel appeared in front of him as Zeras unconsciously replied.

'I'm not. I just don't want to die such a stupid death. But I doubt the EIA too can afford to lose 150 students in a go. So, maybe I worry too much' Zeras mused as he stood on the teleporter too when suddenly something struck in him...

"Wait, System, you can hear my thoughts?" A blinding flash of green light flared in the place as the remaining students were teleported off and now in the room was Instructor Moneca who had a small smile on her face...

"He's very cautious..."

She also stood on the teleporter as her figure disappeared from the place.

-- -- --

A blinding flash of white light erupted making Zeras blank for a minute as the light slowly cleared away and he finally saw his surroundings.

Right, in front of him was a port where thousands of small spaceships could be seen and looking at where he was. He could peaks and peaks of sands that extended as far as his eyes could see while the temperature was burningly hot but they were Awakened and could still handle the temperature...

"This is where we would be taking the next class, yes in the desert..." Instructor Moneca said as the students saw her in the distance close to the spaceship...

'This used to be a once prosperous place back in Ancient Earth. A place with history and mystery, but now... The Great Evolution has too much a wide influence...' Instructor Moneca thought melancholy but her face soon turned serious as she ordered her voice reverberating through the entire space...

"You chicks should all get your ass in one of the spaceships... We are about to witness what an Inter-dimensional Combat Department class means..."

If you guys can tell me what place they all teleported too, then I'll be posting a free bonus chapter for you guys. I already gave clues

- 1) It's Ancient Earth.
- 2) It's a desert with hot temperature.
- 3) It's a place with great History and Mystery...

Good luck, finding that out...

Supreme_IQ

79 First Time Driving A Spaceship

"These are all Grade 1 Techno-vert Spaceships or to put simply, the lowest grades of spaceships for absolute beginners.

Low ammunition, Low engine power, Low Material Amalgamation but manageable Agility..." Instructor Moneca said as Zeras arrived in front of a spaceship.

It was in the shape of a mini-plane but short while two huge engine nozzles could be seen at its sides.

The one in front of him was in a dark-red color of the EIA, with the materials glowing beautifully and sleekly.

Instead of tires, four claw-shaped metals could be seen beneath it supporting its weight.

Zeras looked at the Spaceship and he couldn't but say this was the best piece of flying technology he had ever seen as he slowly entered into it.

The insides were two seats with different buttons arranged near the glass window.

Zeras moved towards the seat as he sat on one of the chairs, feeling extremely comfortable. When suddenly a holographic image appeared at the sides with Instructor Moneca's face on it...

"Sit down, and wait for a minute. Let's wait for the other chicks to take a thousand years to enter into their spaceship." Instructor Moneca said causing a chuckle from Zeras...

Zera's hands unconsciously trailed on the button as he couldn't help but swallow looking at the perfectly looking buttons properly labeled.

"Now...You've all experienced what sitting in a spaceship is. Before you take off, there's something I need to tell you..."

The first is that the greatest mistake you can make as an Inter-dimensional Combat pupil is to allow yourself to sink into the comfort of the seats. I know some people among you are doing it right now, and perfecting your butt in the seats, but I tell you, that's the quickest way to die. So get up and sit straight..."

Zeras immediately dragged himself as to be honest, he was also guilty of that. Who wouldn't want to sink into such a comfortable thing though...

"With that said, the next thing you need to know is that red button just by the side of your seats..."

Zeras bent his head to the side as he looked at his seat and saw the red button on it.

"That's the escape button, once you realize you're about to crash, then press that button and you'll be immediately shoved upward by the spaceship with a gigantic balloon in your shoulders to avoid you breaking more than 10 or 20 bones on landing on the ground..."

'A minimum of 10 bones???' Zeras almost screamed out in shock...

"With that said let's get into the training. The right button in front of you is the..."

-- -- --

3 hours later...

Zeras finally nodded as his heart beat hard in his ribcages. After 3 hours of repeatedly learning about the functions of the buttons and how to ascend and descend. He finally felt he was prepared to feel this baby.

"Now, you can all start your spaceship and move 100 meters into the air..." Instructor Moneca said as Zeras took a deep breath in to calm his beating heart.

Closing his eyes for three seconds, he quickly collected his thoughts...

"Let's do this..."

Zeras immediately moved his hands toward the side of the seat as he drew out the safe belt and strapped himself in...

Done with that, he immediately pressed over 7 buttons as the spaceship let out a deep rumbling sound, the engine slowly awakening.

After about five seconds of the engine, he finally got hold of the control, as he held on to a green-colored button and the engine slowly ascended into the air...

An AI Voice rang out to him from the scanner image in front of him...

"Engine Starts... At 30% Engine power... Ship is ascending into the air, 10 metres, 30, metres 50 metres, 70, metres, 100 metres..." Immediately it said a hundred meters, Zeras removed his hands from the button as the spaceship stood in the air.

"Activate Scanning mode of a thousand Kilometers..." Zera's voice rang out in the ship...

"Scanning mode activated. 100 Kilometers scanning begins. Successfully activated scanning for a thousand kilometers..."

A green image appeared in front of Zeras as he looked at the red-colored spaceship drawing which signified him and around him were about 100 blue-colored spaceships which were positioned around him...

At the far front of the radar, a gigantic Spaceship could be seen with a size twice his own...

"Congratulations, on ascending to a 100-meter height...Now slowly follow me while avoiding knocking into another student's spaceship..." The Voice of Instructor Moneca rang out from the side holographic as Zeras grabbed and looked at the radar where the gigantic Spaceship could be seen slowly moving forward...

His hands moved towards the control as Zeras slowly pushed it forward and the spaceship also began moving forward...

" You are 20 meters away from the spaceship in front of you. 21 meters from the spaceship at your left and right and 20 meters from the spaceship behind you..." The Radar voice rang out as Zeras maneuvered the spaceship forward, slowly following Instructor Moneca's Spaceship along with hundreds of other New cadets...

-- -- --

30 minutes later...

09:14

"You all were able to follow after me, without knocking into each other and keeping your pace. You should clap for yourself as you've completed the 2nd beginner level driving."

Instructor Moneca said as Zeras said into the air...

"Clap, Clap, Clap..."

He didn't dare to move his hands away from the control even though nothing would happen if he did.

"Now, since you're able to do this effortlessly, then what say we move into the Level 3 beginner level... I'll be moving at a speed of 60 km/hr and you all should try keeping up. I've created an Artificial Radar barrier around me. The farthest person from me is at a distance of 50 meters. The Radar barrier is 100 metres, so you guys try not to be 100 meters behind me and also make sure you don't run into any spaceship around you..."

Zera's eyes narrowed as he looked at his radar and noticed a blue barrier appearing which was far behind him...

"Hmm, so that's the blue barrier? I just have to make sure I don't come in contact with it and don't run into others, simple..."

Zeras grabbed onto the controller as he shifted it forward causing the speed of the spaceship to increase to 55km/hr, extremely close to Instructor Moneca's spaceship speed. Since instructor Moneca's spaceship was moving at 60km/hr. Then he won't be left behind if he moved close to her speed of traveling and be able to fairly maintain his position..."

Zeras wasn't the only one to think this way as the entire students also moved close to or at Instructor Moneca's speed of traveling, successfully avoiding moving too far away from her and also running into another student's spaceship...

The training continued with Instructor Moneca continuously increasing her spaceship speed to 120 km/hr and the students were still able to keep up on learning the hack.

"Now stop at 50 meters distance from where you are and slowly descend..."

Zeras moved the Spaceship and once he arrived at the mark, he dragged the control back to its starting point causing it to stop, and also held onto the purple-coloured button allowing the Spaceship to slowly descend.

As the spaceship landed on the ground without moving again for a minute, its engine stopped as an AI voice rang out...

"Auto-engine off activated..."

Congratulations and get your ass away from that seat..." Instructor Moneca's voice rang out as Zeras unbuttoned the Safe-belt and exited the Spaceship...

"You all have completed the Beginners training..." Instructor Moneca said loudly as the cheers of the New cadets rang out and even a small smile appeared on Zera's face...

"I never thought it would be that easy..."

Before I get blasted by a student of Aeronautical Engineering. Please I'm only a writer-stage author. And hey this is an advanced spaceship... The ways of driving it will definitely be different than how it's normally driven... So I'm not wrong...[Just Joking...]

Golden Tickets and Powerstones are greatly appreciated.

80 What is That?

"You all have completed the Beginners training..." Instructor Moneca said loudly as the cheers of the New cadets rang out and even a small smile appeared on Zera's face...

"I never thought it would be that easy..." Zeras said as he also raised his hands and clapped.

"Since you all can fairly do well in piloting a spaceship, I can say you at least have expectations on surviving in this career.

So, to get familiarisation with the drive, your remaining two hours of classes will be spent driving around the desert to increase your familiarity..." Instructor Moneca said causing a smile to appear on the New cadet's face who couldn't help but feel their hands itching.

"I know you're all excited and can't wait but there's a few warnings I must give you.

Firstly is that, don't drive more than 2 thousand kilometers from around this place. Past two thousand kilometers and you'll start coming in contact with the Mutant beasts of the desert. Trust me, you don't want to cross them at all this early.

Secondly, you'll be given a contact card rune, just in case of mishaps. Once you encounter a problem, get out of the Spaceship using the Safe button and then snap the card in two. I should get to you in less than a minute..." Instructor Moneca said as the students all took a card and entered into a spaceship before slowly driving off.

Zeras also collected the card, eyeing it curiously as he couldn't help but notice the strange lines drawn on it which were strangely infused with Mana, although it was in a very small amount.

He immediately dipped the card into his front pocket as he entered into the spaceship once again.

Immediately pressing the green buttons and moving the controller forward, Zeras ascended into the air and he immediately disappeared into the distance amidst the leftover purple energy emitted from the engines...

-- -- --

1,900 kilometers from the Spaceships Park...

A spaceship could be seen drifting around in the air as it sometimes spiraled around, sometimes suddenly blitzed forward with speed while it rose and fell in a specific rhythm sometimes.

Zeras felt he was having the best time of his life as he indulged himself in the feeling of flying in the air, all types of tricks possible to do with a spaceship had already been done as Zeras felt he could easily pilot the spaceship like having to use his hands.

There were times he escaped crashing into the desert by the skin of his teeth but he always managed to quickly get back up before truly crashing.

The sight of the desert stretched as far as he could see with waves of air blasting around the space making sand fly around in the place. Even though it was silent and with only a single painting, he enjoyed the sights as he piloted the spaceship, just moving around the spaceship...

Zeras sat back in the chair as he looked at the time and it was only about ten minutes more before the class ended.

"Let's get back..." Zeras muttered as he slowly turned the spaceship when suddenly something caught his eyes in the far distance as he watched the sand suddenly strangely rising.

One might have taken it as just another sand wave due to air but not Zeras as after watching the sand wave for almost two hours straight, he was well aware the sand waves move erratically and quickly stopped back.

But although this one was a little far away, it was no doubt closing in on his direction.

Zeras raised an eyebrow due to the strange occurrence as he said out loudly...

"Activate Radar to a thousand kilometers..."

"Radar activated to a thousand Kilometers, an object has been detected moving towards the spaceship."

Objects are being scanned...

Scan complete, a Lifeform has been detected.

Lifeform found, a Meteor Rank Rattlesnake Beast has been discovered moving towards Spaceship..." The AI voice rang out as Zeras sat there shocked.

"A..a... Meteor rank stage beat?"

The speed of the wave was incredibly fast as he discovered it would catch up to him in just half a minute.

"Fuck, I'm not yet at the Two thousand Kilometers mark." Zeras immediately brought out the card and he crushed it in his hands.

Done with that, he immediately pushed the control forward as the spaceship moved with horrifying speed back toward the direction of the camp.

"Life form is 100 km from the spaceship. Now at 70 km, 40 km, 20, km, 10 km...". The AI voice rang out as a vein popped on Zera's head.

'Fast, it was horrifyingly fast..."

Zetas suddenly felt a gigantic shadow cast over his entire spaceship and when he looked behind him, his jaws couldn't help but drop to the ground as all his hair stood on end...

"What the hell is that!!!!"

Zeras looked behind him as he saw the head of a gigantic snake rising from above the sound, its fiery crimson red eyes already locked on the Spaceship.

One had to know he was about 200 meters into the hair, yet the snake's head was just behind the spaceship leaving him to wonder just was the size of the spaceship.

"BOOOOOOOOOOOOOOM"

Zeras felt something hit him as the spaceship was immediately sent crashing to the ground.

His brain worked at full speed as Zeras took a deep breath in to calm his fears before his eyes narrowed to slits as a horrifying calmness shone in his eyes.

He knew there was hope as he already crushed the card about 30 seconds ago and Instructor Moneca would soon be here in less than 30 seconds. All he had to do was stall enough for 30 seconds.

Zera's hands moved towards the safe belt as he unlocked it before his hands moved towards the side of his seat as he slammed his hand on the safe button.

A hole immediately opened up from the top of the spaceship and a figure was immediately thrown out of it.

"KABOOOOOOOOOOOM"

A fiery explosion rang out through the desert as the spaceship crashed on the ground immediately blowing up to fire as its pieces were scattered across the space.

Zeras gently landed on the ground with the aid of the parachute at the last second as he quickly removed that from his shoulder.

However, he successfully avoided crashing together with the spaceship, which would have no doubt turned him into a coal. He knew he had an even greater enemy around.

The desert was strangely deathly quiet, which unnerved him even more as his heart thumped loudly within him due to fear.

Fear of the unknown.

Golden Tickets and Powerstones are greatly appreciated.