Chapter 10

Become a True Noble Lady “Then are you left-handed or right-handed? Do you usually hold a knife in your left hand or your right hand?” He was curious. “I can do it with either of my hands.” “You... Are you human?” At this moment, an old man rushed over and shouted, “Make way! Make way. Eh, Paige, why are you here?” Paige’s eyes were clear and bright. When she saw the old man, she was a little surprised.

“Mr. Williamson?” “Paige, you were also invited by Martin to operate for Killian? I wonder if I have the honor to be your assistant?”. “It’s finished.” “What? Finished?” Just now, there had been a traffic jam on the road, so Martin ran all the way there and couldn’t catch his breath, only to find the operation was finished! “You, you did it alone?” Todd couldn’t catch his breath and asked while panting. “With him.” Todd looked over and saw the person standing next to her. He said in surprise, “Stinking brat, why are you here?” “Grandpa... I work here,” Colin replied helplessly. As expected, Todd forgot about it again... Although Todd was eccentric and arrog*nt, he spoke in a gentle tone in front of a little girl, and he even seemed to be currying favor with her! Colin was truly shocked! Who exactly was Paige? Even my grandfather admired her so much. Other than being a great doctor, what other identities did she have?

“Kid, you are so lucky to be Paige’s assistant!” Colin was so lucky to be Paige’s assistant? Colin wondered, was there something wrong with Todd’s brain? Although Paige’s medical skills were superb, it still sounded like an exaggeration. “I asked you to take care of the old woman in Room 301. Did you listen?” Todd asked casually. Get Bogus Colin said, “I check in on her every day...” “It’s not enough! Visit her at 3 p.m. every day!” Todd interrupted Colin. “Grandpa, I am very busy...” He couldn’t be there for one patient all the time. “I asked you to take it seriously, but you did not! Paige, wait a minute. I will teach him a lesson first!” Todd raised his hand and hit Colin’s shoulder. “You stinking brat, you need a good beating...”

“Grandpa, this is the hospital. Don’t make a noise...” “You stinking brat, you still want to run? Do you think I can’t catch up? I just ran about 2 miles...” Ten minutes later, a distinguished Rolls–Royce drove into the gate of a villa. It was Larsen Villa. 33 luxurious private villas stood near the lake, extremely supreme. The car passed through a spacious boulevard and stopped in front of one of the villas. A couple had been waiting outside the big door for a long time. When they saw Ryker’s car, they looked at each other in surprise. “What’s going on?” Donald Lusk asked first. How did the car become like this? Where was his precious daughter?? Was she alright? The driver’s look, when he got out of the car, shocked Danica Lusk. She asked in disbelief, “Ryker, your glasses and clothes... Was there a car accident? Where is Paige? Is she alright?” The couple quickly looked at the back seat of the car... “Ms. Paige is fine. I was accidentally caught by a truck on my way there...” The driver quickly opened the car door and said respectfully, “Ms. Paige, you are home!” Paige looked up and met the eyes of the two people outside the car. When Danica was young, she was devastatingly beautiful. She had been even more beautiful than the TV stars of that era. Now that she was fifty years old, she exuded a gentle and dignified aura. When she saw Paige, her eyes reddened. "You are Paige? My precious daughter." The moment Paige's feet touched the ground, she was embraced by Danica. "I finally found you!" The sudden embrace made Paige a little uncomfortable, but she also felt a trace of warmth. Get Bogos "Quick. Let me see you." Danica held up Paige's face. Parge's facial features were beautiful. Her skin was fair and tender. With tears in her eyes, Danica asked lovingly, "How have you been in the Tate family all these years?" "It was OK." Paige's short answer made Danica cry. Danica was glad her precious daughter hadn't been bullied. "Our daughter is back. We should be happy..." Donald said. His eyes were also a little red. "If you have anything to say, say it after we go in. Don't make our precious daughter stand..." "Yes, Paige, come in quickly..." Danica said, taking Paige's backpack and handing it to Donald. Donald took the plain bag and looked at Paige's back. His nose turned sour. How had his daughter been all these years? She was already a big girl. How could she still carry such an ordinary bag? She didn't even have a piece of branded clothes? Thinking of that, he slowed down and waited for them to go far before taking out his phone. "Order a hundred pieces of clothes, a hundred pairs of shoes, and a hundred bags for my daughter. They must be unique! They must be delivered before sunset today!”

“Paige, from now on, this is your home.”

Danica held Paige’s hand and walked into the villa. The garden was full of exotic flowers and herbs. There was a red lotus worth 1.5 million dollars and a vermillion rose worth even more. Thirty servants were standing in the middle of the garden. They were housekeepers, drivers, guards, chefs, gardeners, maids, and bodyguards... They bowed in unison.

“Welcome home, Ms. Paige!” Passing through the fairytale-like garden and entering the main hall, Paige could see expensive paintings and antiques everywhere...

Wasn’t her family supposed to be poor?

Paige’s gaze fell on a painting. In an auction not long ago, “Five Intoxicated Kings” was sold for a sky-high price of 50 million dollars! Paige could tell it was authentic.

Danica followed her gaze and seemed to have thought of an interesting topic, asking happily, “Paige, do you like that painting? I’ll have it hung in your room?” “No need.” She was just surprised there were so many precious items in her home, but unfortunately, “Five Intoxicated Kings” didn’t fit with all the modern paintings. “Paige, you don’t like it? Come. Put away the painting!” Donald, who followed closely behind, immediately ordered. The butler on the side was a little reluctant. 3/4 Get Blogs “Five Intoxicated Kings” was a true treasure. Donald wanted to put it away because of the unsophisticated Paige! The key point was that Patricia loved the painting! Paige could see the hostility in the housekeeper's eyes. It was because of her, but she did not care. She gave her parents a suggestion. "You can hang it inside." Her gaze fell on a room not far away. Several classic works matched the style of the room. The butler was distressed. Such an expensive painting should be displayed for people to see. Sure enough, the bumpkin girl did not know the value of this painting! "I also think it is better to hang it inside!" Danica agreed, "My baby, you have good taste!" The butler didn't know what to say.
