Chapter 100

Chapter 100

Two Conditions

“Oh, you’ve got sharp eyes! You’re right. His dad is the richest man in Skokie. In the future, he will marry Abbigail!”

When Leah heard the richest man in Skokie”, her eyes lit up. The richest man in Skokie was much better than the richest man in Dolton

Knowing that Abbigail would be a member of high society in the future, Leah knew that she had made the right decision to come.

She smiled and took out a contract. “Well, I come this time mainly because we want Abbigail to endorse our brand’

The Wayne family made pianos and had customers overseas. Leah knew that most of the kids who learned piano today were from rich families. They were young, so the endorser had to be relatively younger.

In the piano competition this time, the winner was Patricia, the daughter of the Lusk family. She naturally wouldn’t condescend to endorse a piano brand. Her family didn’t lack money after all...

Therefore, Abbigail became Leah’s target.

The Tate family loved money as much as they loved their lives. They wouldn’t even miss the chance to make a cent...

Lindsey took the contract and was stunned when she saw the pay was 800 thousand dollars.

“We want to sign a one-year contract with Abbigail. After a year, whether the pay will increase or decrease will depend on Abbigail herself.”

Leah had made herself very clear. She meant that if Abbigail could get more prizes, they would raise her pay.

But if she stayed where she was, the pay would become less.

“Leah, you think too highly of Abbigail. She has only won a small prize... Lindsey seemed overwhelmed by the surprise.

It was actually worth 800 thousand dollars!

“No, a prize in this competition is very valuable. Since Abbigail is able to get second place, it means that she is better than other contestants.”

“Then this contract, I only need to ask Abbigail to sign it after she comes back?”

“Yes... But there are two conditions.”

Leah smiled politely. “One is that Abbigail can’t endorse other piano brands after she becomes our endorser.”

Lindsey smiled and said, “Of course! In the whole country, there is absolutely no other brand that can afford such a high pay...”

Leah smiled and continued, “The other one is that during the one year, she must not have any scandals, otherwise she has to pay a penalty ten times as much...”

“Abbigail is a good kid. There will be no scandals!”

“Then Mrs. Tate, please make sure she signs the contract. After the awards ceremony, we will tweet she’s our endorser. Let’s keep it a secret before then!”

“No problem.”

There, Leah stood up and said, “Then I’ll disturb you no further. I see that Mr. Tate has been getting calls non-stop... There must be a lot of people congratulating you.”

“Not that much.”

Lindsey said modestly with a smile and walked Leah to the door. She was over the moon.

Alter Tyrell finished the call and heard the news from the nanny, he was also very happy.

The nannies complimented Abbigail.

“Mr Tate raised her for so long, but she did not come back once. She is so ungrateful

“But Ms. Abbigail is kind and intelligent. She actually got second place in such a stiff competition. That’s amazing?”

“What are you talking about?”

Abbigail came back from her date and walked into the living room holding Lindsey’s arm. She pretended not to hear the praises from the nannies.

When the nannies saw her, they complimented her more.

“Ms. Abbigail, you’re finally back! Your date lasted from the morning to the evening! So long! Sure enough, young people’s love is sweet...”

“Our young lady has completely won Mr. Elinor’s heart!”

“Not anyone can have Mr. Elinor for an entire day. But our young lady is not anyone!”

Abbigail smiled gently. Only she knew that Davon had agreed to celebrate with her because the results of the competition had been released

He had not contacted her for several days.

“Abbigail, did Davon treat you the same way as before?”

Lindsey asked.

Abbigail nodded, not daring to say anything more.

In fact, she knew in her heart that something was secretly changing...

“That’s good. After what Greta said at the door of Killian’s ward...” Lindsey noticed that her daughter looked a little embarrassed, and she said, “It’s nothing. No big deal. Since Davon still likes you, I’m relieved. You don’t have to worry about Greta!”

Several nannies spoke up for Abbigail.

“Greta must be blind. Ms. Abbigail is so perfect. How dare Greta dislike her?”

“And she is not very good! At least Ms. Abbigail is much better than her at the piano!”

“That’s right...”

Abbigail smiled and thanked them for their compliments. She was about to go upstairs.

“Abbigail, sign this contract first! Then you can tell Davon that you are an endorser. Then the Elinor family will think better of you!”

“Sure!”

Abbigail picked up the pen and read through the contract. She wrote down her bank card number and social security number and signed her name.

Lindsey personally sent the contract to the next door. Not long after, Abbigail’s account received 800 thousand dollars.

*Tyrell, our company is saved!”

Lindsey was so excited. They were only getting prouder and prouder of Abbigail! She was their cash cow!

“If your mother wakes up and sees how wonderful Abbigail is, she will definitely regret that she was so partial to Paige before!”

Tyrell was in a good mood. “Enough. Leave her out of our conversations for once.”

“I’m only saying the truth...” Then Lindsey said happily, “Abbigail has given us 640 thousand dollars, which can ease our company’s crisis for a while. When M*m wakes up, make her sign that will...”

As long as Cassie sold part of her shares and gave the rest to Abbigail, their lives would be better.

“I know. You have brought up the will thing a hundred times!”

Meanwhile.

Paige gave the revised design to Mariela. “This is the draft you left in my office this morning. I’ve revised it. Take a look.”

Mariela took a look, and her eyes lit up. “Ms. Tate, your version is so good!”

All the imperfections were perfected by Paige in an amazing way.

“Take a look and see if there is anything else that needs to be improved. Give it to the pattern maker before the end of the day. Let’s make the sample and start to mass produce it as soon as possible.”
