Chapter 180

Chapter 180 Grandpa Likes You

Rhys, Adam, and the other **could not believe that Paige would be such a good doctor.

She even dared to guarantee that she would recover Rosa in less than a month, which most doctors couldn't be sure

Maybe she was not a human, but an alien, wasn't she?

"Our Stowe family is so lucky to have a daughter-in-law like you..." Killian was so excited that his eyes were wet.

Great! Rosa is finally saved!

In less than a month, she would be able to talk to him like before and go for a walk with him!

It was something Killian did not even dare to dream about for so many years!

The sudden joy made Killian cry with joy. He bent over to thank Paige, "Let me thank you on behalf of Rosa first..."

"Don't be, Mr. Stowe." Paige hurriedly reached out to support Killian.

Paige only thought that she just did a small thing.

However, to all the members of the Stowe family, what she did was something big.

Rhys respectfully said, "Before we found Mr. Benson, Ms. Paige hid it from us and went somewhere dangerous to find medicine for Mrs. Stowe. She might get herself killed in that place. However, she did not give up. She could have asked someone else to do it, and she could have just walked away since no one would know... But she did not!"

When everyone at present heard this, they were surprised and impressed by Paige even more.

"Later, when she found the medicine, she decocted them immediately. If we didn't happen to expose her identity, we wouldn't have known that Ms. Paige had done so much for Mrs. Stowe in private."

Paige saved people before being asked to. But she didn't take the opportunity to take credit and didn't use it to give others a good impression.

She didn't say a word all the time.

"Ms. Paige did good deeds without leaving her name. I'm impressed. You've earned my respect, Ms. Paige." Adam bowed to Paige with a look of admiration.

"Ms. Paige has always been low-key. She is the divine doctor, Skylar, and she is also the piano master, Vallorie. But she has never put on airs in front of us and is polite to us."

"Congratulations to Mr. Martin for getting such a good wife!"

"Ms. Paige is not only beautiful and kind-hearted but also good at everything. She is so outstanding!"

"Yes, you are right."

"I can't make a guarantee. It is only an attempt at present." Paige explained.

She just said that it should be possible to cure Rosa.

As for whether it would work or not, it depends on Rosa's condition.

"Even if you are not sure, you still have my support! I believe that if Rosa can speak, she will definitely say the same thing." Killian gave her all his trust and confidence.

Rather than being a vegetable for a lifetime, why not have a try? A miracle might happen when they take the first step.

"No, I'm pretty sure it will work, but there are still some unexpected variables in the treatment." Paige gently added, thank her for her gift" "I will do my best to cure Mrs. Stowe I want Hearing this, everyone turned to look at the crown necklace on her neck. She was probably the only one who was qualified to wear this necklace in this world.

"If Rosa wakes up and sees you again, she will be very happy..." Killian was so excited that his eyes turned red again. "Mr. Stowe, don't stand here. Let Ms. Paige get in and have a seat." Neil supported Killian's arm and reminded him. "Yes, yes. I forgot. I was just excited! 1 should have let you in first." Killian smiled and said, "Come in. Let's sit down and have a good talk. Neil, go get some pastries that Paige likes, and the juice..."

Paige wanted to stop him, but the Killian was in high spirits, so she had to follow him into the house.

After eating some snacks, Paige went to take Rosa's pulse and saw the *feed Rosa medicine. Then she stood up and said, "I should go back now."

It was late.

Hernan had probably already gone to bed.

She had been busy for the past two days and hadn't even been at home yet.

"Martin, send Paige back home and give her a call when you get home. Don't make her worry..."

Killian told Martin first and then turned to Paige and said, "When Rosa recovers, we will pay you a visit together. Good girl, thank you so much. The Stowe family is so lucky to have you here. Thank you so much. You must be exhausted recently."

Next, Paige had to prepare medicine and often came to check Rosa's pulse to see her condition. Paige worked so hard for them.

Killian knew that Paige also had to take care of Daybreak Group.

He understood that Paige was outstanding, but at the same time, Killian also felt sorry for her.

"I'm fine." Seeing Killian cough, Paige said with concern, "The wind is strong outside. You should get in first in case of catching a cold."

"I'm fine. I'm fine. Let me see you off..." Killian walked with Paige, there was still some distance from the gate.

He rambled on, "I remember the first time you saved me..."

At that time, all the doctors advocated sedating him and giving him efloxate, only Paige stood out and contested.

If not for her bravery and being "nosy", Killian would have already lost his life!

"If not for you, I wouldn't have had the chance to take a walk with you here and wait for Rose to wake up..."

"Its fate." Paige smiled, "Alright, let's say goodbye here. Get back to the house."

Although Killian was getting much better, he still had to pay more attention to his health.

"When are you free these two days? You should come here with Martin for lunch or dinner. After meals, we can have a good chat and take a walk..."

Just chatting with Paige could make Killian feel happy.

Paige wouldn't compliment him and get along with him carefully like other young ladies. She said whatever she wanted to say, but at the same time, she always considered his feelings.

Unlike some straightforward people, who would easily *him off.

"Okay, I will come over when I have time." Paige got in the car. After the car started, through the rearview mirror, she saw Killian standing there and watching her leave.

'Grandpa really likes you," Martin said gently.

Killian liked Paige not because she had saved him and saved Rosa.

But because he liked the way Paige managed everything.

After sending Paige to the **Villa, Martin took out two boxes containing the Blue Dogbane and Purple Lotus Root.

Paige was a bit surprised because they were more than what they agreed to!

"These are what I collected before. You can use them first." Martin gave her two boxes, "I will find more of them.

later."

"No need." Paige knew that these two things were priceless. They were worth at least 160 million dollars.

"***, don't be so formal with me." Martin stroked her head affectionately, "Get in then. I will pick you up tomorrow morning."

"Okay." Paige entered the room with two wooden boxes in her arms. Suddenly, her mobile phone vibrated. It was a phone call.
