Chapter 206

Chapter 206 Save Elena

****, why don't you take Patricia out?" Hernan reminded Danica.

Danica was also depressed from her crying. She got up and drew Patricia. "Patricia, let's go out.

"Grandpa and Grandma need to rest."

When Patricia stood up, she pretended that she couldn't stand still and threw herself into Danica's arms. "****, when do you think Grandpa and Grandma will wake up? I'm so worried... I am so dizzy that I can barely stand up."

"You are such a nice kid." Danica patted Patricia's back. "Grandpa and Grandma will be okay. They will definitely get better soon."

"I'll go talk to the doctor." Donald also lost control of his emotions several times. He stood up with red eyes and walked out of the ward first.

When only Hernan and Paige were left in the ward, Hernan asked softly, "You can also diagnose illnesses?"

Paige was just surprised and answered truthfully, "A little bit."

"Then what did you find?" Hernan was amazed.

"The doctors are too conservative with drugs. They can't go straight to the point and have missed the perfect time of treatment."

Hernan did not expect that Paige would even know this. "The doctors said that Grandpa and Grandma were old, so they chose conservative treatment. Besides, they couldn't be 100% sure that they could give the right drugs..."

"Grandpa and Grandma are very weak now."

However, it was not completely incurable. It was just that the intracranial hemorrhage had taken a heavy toll on their central nervous system. In addition to respiratory infection, anemia, electrolytic metabolism disorder, and so on, they needed multiple doses.

Merely IV drips would never work.

"Have you come up with a better plan?" Hernan looked at the confident look on Paige's face and was a little astonished. He did not expect that she seemed to have a card up her sleeve on a problem that a whole team of doctors couldn't solve.

"I do." As soon as Paige said that, there was a beeping sound from the machine connected to their grandmother.

It sounded very urgent. When the caretaker standing outside heard the sound, she immediately burst in, looked at it, and said anxiously, "No! Mrs. Lusk cannot breathe!"

She immediately rang the bell at the bedside and then shouted in Elena's ear, "Mrs. Lusk, are you alright? Hang in there! The doctor is coming immediately!"

When the head nurse at the reception desk heard the call, she immediately sent someone to find the doctor and rushed to the ward with two other nurses!

Donald was asking the doctor questions. When he learned of the situation, he also ran to the ward!

"What happened?" Danica rushed over when she heard the call.

Patricia also said in a panic, "Hernan, what happened? ****and I just went out for a while. Why is this ringing non-stop? What happened to Grandma? What's happening?"

"She can't breathe!" The caretaker didn't know what was going on. Just now, there was only Hernan and a strange girl in the ward, and before the girl appeared, the patients were still fine!

Could it be that the girl did something?

"Get ready for defibrillation!" the doctor shouted.

"Stop, all of you get out of the way!" Paige clenched all ten of her grandmother's fingers together. She took out the tool bag from her backpack and swung it open. Then she took a tool out and quickly stuck it into Elena's finger.

"You, who are you? What are you doing? Stop!" Carter was shocked and wanted to stop Paige!

"Defibrillating now can only ****her!"

Paige's words made the doctor not dare to take another step forward!

Everyone was stunned by Paige's imposing manner. It was hard to believe that she knew defibrillation was a terrible idea now. On what ground could Paige say that?

"Grandma is having trouble breathing due to neurological reasons. This is because her brain hemorrhage implicates the respiratory system. She will be fine after I get some blood out!"

"Where... Where did you see the theory? We do not believe in traditional medicine here!" The doctor saw the breathing machine beeping non-stop and grew more impatient. "Mrs. Lusk's situation is getting worse and worse. Please get the girl out!"

"Paige, what are you doing? You can't save people just by stabbing their fingers. You are not a magician! Get out of the doctor's way. If you ***Grandma, **and Dad will not let you off!"

Patricia didn't expect that, in order to attract attention, Paige had gone crazy. Paige actually brought a tool bag. Patricia wondered if she was waiting to show her medical ****in front of Donald and Danica anytime.

Patricia thought, is there something wrong with her?

If Paige ***Grandma, she can forget about staying in the family!

Donald and Danica could not believe that Paige practiced traditional medicine, but Elena was in such a serious condition, so could she wake up just after bloodletting therapy?

"Let her do it!" Hernan saw the light of victory in Paige's confident eyes.

The doctor was stunned. "Mr. Hernan, she's going into shock! She has to be defibrillated! If I'm delayed even thirty seconds, I won't be able to bring her back!"

"Who is this girl? How old is she? Do you know her? How can you let her do whatever she wants? Does she know medicine? Does she know what she's doing?" the nurse beside the doctor agreed.

The caretaker also begged, "Please stop. Mrs. Lusk is dying! Let the doctor do it! I beg you!"

The doctor could no longer stand the beeping sound of the breathing machine. "Someone, pull her away!"

"If you want her to ***, just come over!"

Paige's words shocked the whole room!

None of them could believe that a girl in her teens had such an aura of confidence!

In less than two seconds, the breathing machine stopped warning. The doctor stared at the data on the screen in disbelief as it had returned to normal!

The head nurse and the two other nurses were also stunned. The patient was fine after just a few stabs in the fingers!

Patricia saw that their expressions were full of surprise. She could not believe that Paige actually had a way. Patricia hurriedly asked, gloating a little, "Doctor, how is Grandma? Is she dying? What does the data on the machine mean? Tell us now!"

As long as something happened to Elena, Paige could no longer stay in the Lusk family for the rest of her life!

"Mrs. Lusk is... She is all right now!" As soon as the doctor said this, Patricia was dumbfounded. How could it be possible that with just a few moves, Paige could save Elena?

This must be just a fluke!

Paige was actually quite lucky!

After Paige was done, she heard the doctor ask cautiously and respectfully, "Miss, may I know where you were trained and how long have you been studying traditional medicine?"

It was amazing that Paige saved Elena by just making her bleed a little!

"Haven't you read 'Medical Compendium'? Letting out finger blood can in some circumstances save lives from death!"

Paige saw that the doctor was confused and knew that he had not read it. She said.

coldly, "Then tell me you at least have read 'Historical Records'."

The doctor blushed in embarrassment.

Seeing that he was still quite young and should have just graduated from medical school, Paige said in a ****voice, "Go read more some time."

"Okay..."
