Chapter 219

Chapter 219 Bury Her in the Ground

Bonnie said, "Amily, you were confident when you bet. Do you want to go back on your word? We won't make a bet with you again."

"You really like putting a bet on anything." Danica didn't care and thought Amily and Bonnie were joking. The servants always made a bet to derive pleasure.

Danica said with a smile, "Amily, you are partial to Patricia but haven't expected the consequence. Patricia and Paige are all members of our family. You should treat them equally Amily smiled awkwardly. "I will go to get the cloth. Ms. Paige, please wait for a moment."

When Amily turned around, she was so angry that she cursed Bonnie.

Paige raised her eyebrow. Since Amily had put her face in front of Paige, there was no reason for Paige not to slap Amily. Paige decided to have Amily wipe her shoes properly

"Paige, why did you choose the University of Illinois at Chicago? Did the principal know you? How did he know you like to study medicine? He even tempted you with experimental instruments." Donald asked curiously.

Before Paige answered, Danica said without thinking, "Paige is interested in medicine and likes to study it When the principal knew that, he tried to attract her attention. Isn't that reasonable? Besides, they need instruments to do research. The instruments were not just for Paige."

"It's a pity Stanford University and the University of Chicago are good."

Many students dreamed of studying in them, but Paige refused them.

Danica said disapprovingly, "The university can arouse Paige's interests is good. Although Stanford University and the University of Chicago are good, Paige likes to do medical research at the University of Illinois at Chicago. Her choice is right."

At that moment, Amily took over the cloth and bent down to help Paige put on her shoes.

Amily had never been so humiliated.

"Thank you." Paige smiled and looked at Amily meaningfully Amily restrained her resentment and said with a smile, "It is my honor, Ms. Paige."

Bonnie smiled and said, "That's right. Ms. Paige is a talent. It is indeed your honor to serve her You'd better serve her more in the future."

Amily said nothing.

She thought it was none of Bonnie's business.

Therefore, Amily cursed Bonnie secretly

Danica looked kindly at Paige. She did not take the event seriously and continued, "University of Illinois at Chicago is in Chicago and not far from our home. Paige, do you want to live in school or at home?"

"I have not thought about it yet," Paige replied with a smile.

"Remember to come back when you are free. Otherwise, I will miss you." When Donald said that, he looked at Patricia. "Patricia, which school do you want to apply to?"

Patricia felt wronged. Her parents had neglected her for a long time. They finally remembered her

She held back her grievances and pretended to be gentle. "I like the University of Chicago very much."

Although Paige refused the University of Chicago, Patricia didn't like the University of Illinois at Chicago either

Donald smiled kindly. "Do you want to go to the University of Chicago? That's good. You can learn from each other"

Paige thought she wouldn't learn anything from Patricia.

Patricia believed she didn't need to learn from Paige.

"Ms. Paige, are you satisfied with the shoes?" Amily asked with a smile.

Paige looked at the shoes. "Not bad."

"I have honored my bet." Amily stood up and was about to leave.

"Don't forget to do the housework. Thanks to Amily's help, we can take a rest today" Bonnie smiled and added, "Thank you, Amily."

The other servants also smiled and said, "Amily, thank you."

Amily resisted the impulse to beat Bonnie up and smiled, "My pleasure."

At that moment, a servant rushed in to report, "Mr. and Mrs. Lusk, there are many reporters outside. They wanted to interview Ms. Paige."

"Have you said anything? Donald asked.

"No, I haven't."

"The reporters are so sensitive. They have found our home. Paige, do you want to be interviewed?" Danica said as she looked at Paige.

Patricia and Amily looked at Paige nervously. They didn't want Paige to push herself forward and show off.

Paige stood up calmly. "I won't accept the interview. I will go upstairs to reply to messages."

"Okay, I will deal with them." Danica watched Paige go upstairs and said, "Have a rest if you are free. Don't study anymore."

Paige was speechless.

Even if the book were in front of her, she would not look at it.

Danica thought Paige usually studied in her room. Otherwise, how could she get full marks?

No one knew Paige had made money to do research.

To be obedient, Paige replied, "Okay."

Paige had not accepted the interview. Both Patricia and Amily turned relaxed.

They thought Paige was because she didn't know how to grasp the opportunity.

There must be something wrong with her mind.

Anyone with full marks would choose the University of Chicago or Stanford University, but Paige chose the University of Illinois at Chicago, a less famous university.

She could only be a doctor after graduation.

However, Patricia chose the University of Chicago. Whether she had a job or not after graduation, she was a student at a top university.

When Bonnie passed by the garden, she saw Amily watering the flowers.

Bonnie could not help but stop and laugh. "Amily, are you watering the flowers? Why don't you dig a pit?"

Amily looked up with dissatisfaction and didn't know what Bonnie meant.

"One of them gets full marks, but the other fails. How could there be such a difference? You said dig a pit in the garden and lie in it if you failed the exam. You didn't want to be embarrassed."

you would

"You... Amily did not expect Bonnie to remember that and ridicule her. She was furious.

"Why don't you dig a pit for Ms. Patricia? She and Ms. Paige are so different. How can she live in the world? You'd better bury her in the ground immediately."
