Chapter 223

Chapter 223 Jealousy

It was in a foreign country

A handsome boy dressed in trendy clothes had just finished a day of filming. He was about to rush to the airport

*Jack, where are you going?"

The agent hurriedly caught up with Jack and said, "It's so late, and you still want to go back to see your younger sister? There will be a celebration later. Everyone can be absent except you!

"Jack, did you hear what I said?" The agent was anxious, and as he chased, he sulked, "Why is his leg so long?"

Seeing Jack enter the elevator, the agent hurriedly sped up and finally squeezed into the elevator at the last second, gasping in a sorry state.

"No ghosts are chasing you. Why didn't you wait for me when you left so quickly?"

"Blame your short legs?"

Jack finally spoke. His face was so exquisite that one couldn't find any flaws.

"You..." Looking at this handsome face, the agent couldn't get angry at all. He had to explain, "I know you are in a hurry to go home to see your younger sister, but we have been delayed for so many days. Is it OK to spend a night here?"

"She's not your younger sister, so you don't need to worry? There's no room for negotiation. I have to go back.

tonight."

"OK, just go. I'll book the tickets." The agent walked out of the elevator and helplessly took out his phone.

The agent thought that he was probably the most obedient agent in history.

In the past three months, they had participated in a show.

This show was called "Dream Pursuers". It was about a group of young men passing through several tests. In the end, 99 boys with excellent singing and dancing abilities would be chosen and sent to a beautiful place overseas by the program team to undergo a three-month training and stage competition.

As a top international star, Jack was extremely outstanding at singing and dancing. He was recruited by the program team to be the music instructor and lead these boys to pursue their dreams.

Because Jack had tasks, he stayed in this place for a full three months. Every day, he taught trainees about relevant professional knowledge.

Finally, today was the last day of filming. Jack did not stop and only wanted to go home to meet his younger sister as soon as possible!

Jack thought that he had already been delayed for too many days!

If not for the sake of cultivating new people and letting showbiz develop well, Jack wanted to give up halfway and go home to meet his younger sister!

The program team also had a celebration party tonight. All the backstage staff and the selected teenagers would participate. Karen thought that it had been delayed for such a long time, there was no need for Jack to hurry up.

However, Jack had a big temper!

When the plane finally took off, Jack looked into the distance, and his eyes carried a trace of anxiety and uneasiness.

"Do you think my younger sister will like me?" His clear voice sounded pleasant.

"Of course!" Karen said without thinking, "With such a celebrity brother who is so handsome and sunny, who doesn't like you?"

Jack was speechless.

"Look at those fans. Every time they surround you, they shout that they want to have a child for you. When did you appear without causing a traffic jam? With your popularity, your younger sister must have heard your songs. Most likely, she is your fan. She may chase after you with a pen and ask for your signature! Just relax!"

Jack thought, if Paige liked my song. I could sing it for her alone. Not to mention signing, it was not a problem to ask for many photos! The center position of the concert would always be kept for her! I would always be with her on TV As long as Paige was happy, I could do anything.

At this time, Paige just got up and washed up. When she went downstairs, Paige saw Patricia looking at her with jealousy. It seemed that Patricia wanted to cut Paige into pieces.

"Paige, are you awake?" Danica sat on the sofa and drank tea. Seeing Paige walk down the spiral stairs, she smiled and said, "You have slept for a day! You must be hungry, right? The food in the kitchen is warm. Go and eat quickly!"

Bonnie, who was on the side, said with a smile, "Ms. Paige can get the top scholar She must study very hard. Now that the results are out, she can finally rest assured and sleep! She must not sleep well usually!"

"She loves to study too much." Danica said this and looked at Paige, "Paige, you can sleep as long as you want. Don't have any psychological burden."

"OK, Paige smiled.

"Oh, right. Just now, Killian asked his housekeeper to send some gifts. It is to congratulate you on becoming the top scorer Also, Martin came over just now. He heard that you were sleeping and he didn't want to disturb you. So, he left the gifts behind and left."

Paige followed Danica's line of sight and saw that the gifts from Killian and Martin had piled up into two small mountains as if the two were competing against each other.

Paige thought, it was just a top scorer. Was there a need to be so grand?

"Should I get someone to move these gifts to your room first?"

"OK."

"I heard from Killian's housekeeper that the things are all carefully selected by Killian. It must be very expensive. It seems that he likes you..."

When Danica said this, Patricia bit her lower lip unwillingly. The jealousy in her eyes showed and she wanted to replace Paige.

Paige suddenly understood. She understood why Patricia looked at her so angrily when she went downstairs just now. It turned out that Patricia was jealous!

Thinking of this, Paige raised her lips and her mood became better. She ate something. After telling Danica that she wanted to go out, Paige took the car key and went out.

As soon as Paige walked out of the main hall, she saw a ser*ant leading a young lady from a rich family into the door. The young lady also had many gifts in her hands.

Paige had seen this young lady several times before, and every time, she came to visit Donald and Danical with many gifts.

Paige heard that her name was Zoe. She seemed to be interested in Jack. However, Paige was not interested.

in the specific situation. Because there is a distance between them, Paige did not take the initiative to greet Zoe. Instead, Paige turned around and went to the garage.

The more Paige went to the airport, the more congested the road was. Normally, Paige would arrive in 20 minutes. Paige for a full 40 minutes and had yet to approach the main road of the airport.

Paige thought, what day was it today?

Paige recalled in her mind that it did not seem to be an important holiday or a festival.

Paige thought, could it be that something big had happened in the country, so the person who received the news was ready to run ahead of time?

Otherwise, why would everyone rush to the airport?

Although Paige went out early, she was stuck on the bridge near the airport, motionless.

As time passed by, if this continued, it was very likely that Paige would not be able to see Anna's subordinate and would not be able to get the pill!

With this in mind, Paige started the engine and sought to find another road.
