Chapter 25

Chapter 25

Get Rid of Her Now

“Mr. Stowe will wake up tomorrow. Don’t let him have tonics like the soup today for the next four weeks.”

“OK.”

Martin agreed and looked outside the window. “Please, let me treat you to dinner”

“Thanks, but I should go home.”

It should be over 6 pm now. Paige took the bag and took out her phone. Sure enough, her mother had called her two times.

Paige quickly called back. “M*m, I’m sorry. i was busy just now.”

Martin looked at the girl who was on the phone in front of him. She had bright eyes and an outstanding temperament. When she talked to her family, her voice was soft and pleasant.

“OK, I’m going home. See you in a minute.”

“I’ll send you back,” Martin said softly when Paige hung up the phone.

“Then please send me to Praston Park. I have a car parked in the underground parking lot there.”

Praston Park?

It was a park that had not been opened to the public yet. Martin wondered why Paige had a car parked and why she was at that church earlier that day.

To him, the girl in front of him was like a mystery, making him unable to see through her

“I will return these first.”

Paige had just borrowed a set of special medical tools from Colin’s office. Today, he was on duty and was still in the office.

After Paige returned the tools, she walked out of the office and passed Cassie’s ward. She could not help but stop.

Cassie was still getting an IV drip with her eyes closed. She was sleeping peacefully.

Paige suddenly remembered that one afternoon when she was a child, Cassie was taking a nap. The sunlight outside the window fell on her through the vertical strips of the curtain. At that time, Cassie was breathing and sleeping peacefully like now.

At that moment, a voice suddenly sounded.

“Paige, what are you doing here?”

Paige looked over and saw Lindsey and Tyrell standing not far away. They received a call from the hospital saying that the prepaid fee for Cassie’s VIP ward had run up and asked them to come over to pay for it. They rushed over after dinner

However, what surprised them was that they met Paige here!

Lindsey was the first to come back to her senses. “You didn’t go back to your birth parents? Don’t tell me you want to beg Cassie into letting you stay in Chicago and stay at our home. Stop dreaming”

Tyrell also didn’t expect that he would meet her at the hospital. “Paige, what is going on here? Didn’t you go back with your family?”

I think she didn’t leave at all!

Lindsey looked at Paige with eyes full of disgust “She must have heard how poor her real family was on the way back. She couldnt stand it so she ran back and wanted to beg Cassie!”

Lindsey thought Patge counted on the fact that Cassie loved her and tried to continue being a freeloader at the Tate’s home

“Get rid of her now!”

Lindsey tugged at the corner of Tyrell’s clothes, indicating for him to do something now.

Tyrell really didn’t expect that he would see Paige here. At that time, he could only step forward and ask amiably, “Paige, why don’t we talk? How much money do you want?”

Paige looked at the faces of her former family and felt it was funny that they looked like different people.

They actually wanted to send her away using money.

Seeing that she did not speak, Tyrell took out a bank card from his pocket. “This is 16 thousand dollars. Take it. The password is 123456.”

“Tyrell!!”

Seeing that he was so generous, Lindsey could not help but feel reluctant. “Why are you giving her so much money?”

Tyrell hinted with his eyes that Lindsey should not speak. If he did not give Paige enough money, how could she be willing to leave?

Yesterday, she stole Abbigail’s ruby necklace. It was worth 16 thousand dollars, which was exactly the amount of money in this bank account. Paige would definitely take it and leave.

Paige’s beautiful eyes had a cynical look. She looked at the card in Tyrell’s hand and did not do or say anything.

“What? Do you think it’s not enough?”

Lindsey said discontentedly, “Take it or leave it. Otherwise, you will be left with nothing!”

“Paige, just take it... In the future, you don’t need to visit Grandma anymore... Didn’t dad tell you? Your top priority is the other family from now on!”

Tyrell wanted to stuff the bank card into her hand, but Paige avoided it quietly.

“You d*mn girl, what are you trying to do? Do you want to wait for Cassie to wake up and trick her? Stop dreaming!”

Lindsey did not expect Paige would be so difficult to deal with. “Let me tell you, Cassie has nothing to do with you. now! Get as far away as you can from us.”

“160 million dollars.”

Paige said with a smile, “Then I will think about it.”

“You... Don’t you even think about it!”

Lindsey was furious as Paige asked for a huge amount of money. “Do you think we are a freak*ng bank?”

“Don’t be ridic*lous. You are not that rich.”

“You! You...” Lindsey covered her chest. She didn’t expect this d*mn girl would be such an ungrateful person. “Forget the money. You are not getting a dime!”

Lindsey snapped the bank card back. “If you don’t leave now, I’ll call security!”

“Oh, go ahead.”

“You! You... I am so mad! What VIP floor? Anyone can be let in...” Lindsey was about to go to the front desk.

“Paige.”

Suddenly, a man’s voice attracted their attention.

Lindsey looked up and saw a man at the end of the corridor looking over He seemed to be calling Paige’s name.

Although the distance was very far, she could still see that it was a tall man with a strong vibe.

When Paige heard the voice, she looked over and saw Martin standing there waiting for her She then stopped wasting her time on these two and turned to leave.

“Who is that man?”

Lindsey looked suspiciously at the end of the corridor. “Could it be her father? No way. Her father’s voice can’t be so young...

“It should be her brother. Doesn’t she have five single brothers? Didn’t she say that her grandmother was si*k? Will she also be staying in this hospital?

“Can they afford to stay here?”

Seeing them disappear at the end of the corridor, Lindsey couldn’t help but tell Tyrell, “Tyrell, we have to transfer Cassie to another hospital as soon as possible. Otherwise, we will be in big trouble if we mess around with that ingrate!”

Tyrell also had this idea, but in the entire Chicago, there was no hospital with such good medical resources as Farwen Hospital. Cassie would be able to get the best care only if she stayed here.

“That girl counts on the fact that Cassie likes her... It is nothing for us to deal with her. I’m just afraid that Cassie will be soft and let her go back to our home again!”

Lindsey remembered that three months ago, when Cassie learned that Paige was not her biological granddaughter, her heart suddenly could not bear it and she fainted.

After waking up, Cassie sternly said that as long as she was alive, Paige was not allowed to leave this home. Whoever let Paige go would be against Cassie!

Later, when Abbigail came home, Cassie did not seem happy to see her. In her eyes, her only granddaughter was Paige, who had no blood relationship with her
