Chapter 520

Chapter 520 As Long as You Are With Me

"I'll take you back to your room to rest." Martin knew that Paige was still injured, so he was very careful when he picked her up. He said, "Get some sleep first, and we'll go back when the plane arrives."

Paige embraced Martin and said, "Lamont, if Yana wakes up, send someone to tell me."

Lamont said, "OK....."

Seeing their intimacy, Lamont suddenly felt a little lonely.

Martin carried Paige upstairs and said, "I know you're in pain. I wish I could tear their corpses into pieces and shatter their bones into ashes..." Lowering his head, Martin kissed Paige.

He thought, "How dare they hurt my girl like this... Even I couldn't bear to say harsh words to her, let alone treat her so roughly."

Seeing the injuries on Paige's arms and calves, Martin felt extremely grieved, wishing to bear everything for her.

Martin said, "Carter said that when you wake up, apply some pain relief balm on you. I will help you later." He carried Paige to the second floor and asked, "Where is your bedroom?"

He hasn't been in Paige's bedroom before, so he didn't know which direction to go.

"Over there." Paige raised her chin slightly, looked at the man's sharp jaw, and said with a light. smile, "They are Medicine men, and they have been injected with various medicines since they were young. It is normal for them to be strong."

"That's not the reason for them to hurt you." Martin hugged Paige and walked towards her bedroom. "I ordered someone to order the same bag for you, and I'll give them to you when we return."

Paige didn't expect Martin to be so considerate and she said, "I have a lot of bags to put special medical tools."

Martin said, "But that one means a lot to you."

Martin remembered the pattern on that bag, so he drew it and asked others to make it according to the picture.

Although there was no guarantee that they were 100% identical, at least they looked alike.

Paige smiled and looked at Martin softly.

When Martin carried Paige into the bedroom, the servants who came back were stunned...

They couldn't believe their eyes. They thought in shock, "Mr. Stowe is able to enter the bedroom of our boss! The key point is that our boss has no objections at all... Our boss seems to treat him. differently!"

Martin put Paige on the bed, his movements were very gentle. "Where is the pain relief balm?"

Paige said, "I'll have someone wipe it for me later."

"No." Martin looked at the girl on the bed and said resolutely, "I have to do something for you."

He thought, "Otherwise, I would feel really terrible."

Paige said, "The room in front, the second-to-last drawer in the first row on the left-hand side."

Martin replied, "Got it."

When Martin walked into that room, he realized that it was like a pharmacy, and there were at least a hundred drawers in it...

It seemed that all the drawers were full of medicines, and there is a faint fragrance of medicine as soon as he entered.

Martin opened the penultimate drawer. In addition to the pain relief balm, there were also some pain-relieving capsules and pain-relieving tablets... None of which were available in the market.

He thought, "These should be made by Paige on her own."

Martin took out a can of pain relief balm and walked toward Paige. "Are you often injured?"

He thought, "So she prepared so many medicines in this room to dress her wounds at any time."

Paige said, "When I first came here, I suffered a little."

Paige just talked about it briefly, but Martin remembered that her subordinates once said that

Paige almost lost her life when she first came here, and it was Nate who saved her once...

Martin thought, "So, how many times has she been injured? How many times has she hidden in this small pharmacy to dress her own wounds? How much has she gone through to be as strong as she is now?"

Martin felt extremely sad. He sat down and said in a distressed voice, "Let me see the injury on your back."

Paige said, "It really doesn't hurt."

"Your wound is split open." Martin heard this from Jairo, and Jairo heard it from the doctor...

"Let me see it." Martin coaxed Paige for a long time, and after getting her helpless consent, he gently lifted her clothes.

When the long bloodstains on Paige's back came into Martin's eyes, tears blurred his eyes.

Martin cursed in his heart, "Damn it! Those bastards! How dare they hurt her so badly?"

While Martin was angry, he felt his heart being torn, and his eyes were so red. He was totally at a loss.

The wound on Paige's fair and delicate skin was particularly shocking.

Martin thought, "How painful should it be when she suffered this?"

Martin didn't dare to think about it, but he couldn't help thinking about it. He lost his mind at this moment and wished to uproot the entire Ghost Alliance.

"Why don't you talk?" Paige lay on the bed, turned her head to look, and Martin's red eyes caught her eyes. She thought, "Did he cry?"

"I'm fine," Paige smiled. "I'll be fine in two days."

Martin's eyes were filled with hot tears, and because of the girl's comfort, his eyes looked redder.

Martin asked in a hoarse voice, "How did you get hurt?"

Paige explained, "There were so many people at that time. I didn't pay attention to that attack."

Martin retorted, "Lie! With your skills, you can protect yourself. It must be to protect Yana." Martin knew that Paige got hurt because she was trying to save someone.

"Yana's injury is also because of me." Paige was afraid that Martin would hold grudges against Yana, so she specially explained, "Yana asked me to leave first several times, and deliberately led those people away..."

For this reason, Yana was also injured.

Both of them are trying their best to protect each other.

"I didn't blame her." Martin knew that in that situation, both of them would do their best to protect each other, and he was so angry that it was that group of people, that organization...

Martin thought, "I must make everyone involved pay a terrible price! As long as they are related to the Ghost Alliance, I will not let go of any of them!"

Seeing Martin really sad, Paige said softly, "Come here."

Martin knelt in front of Paige on one knee, his sad and self-blaming handsome face came into her eyes, and the two looked at each other.

Paige raised her hand and patted Martin's head. "It's OK. We'll make them pay the price later."

"I'm sorry, Paige." Martin kissed Paige gently and looked at her sadly. "I didn't protect you well... If I had known you would get hurt, I wouldn't have let you go with him."

Martin thought, "At least, we should go together. I would rather Paige blame me for being ignorant, and blame me for not giving her enough freedom and trust, as long as I can protect her well... At least don't let her get hurt... If I had been there at the time, at least I could have stayed and helped her deal with the aftermath."

Paige looked into Martin's eyes, smiled, and said, "It's not your fault. Didn't you want to rub the medicine for me?"

It was a bit cold and Paige's back was still bare...

"If it hurts, you must tell me." Martin kissed Paige again and put the medicine on her back sadly.

This shocking bloodstain made Martin think about his plan to deal with the Ghost Alliance...

Paige said, "Seriously, I can perform a one-handed handstand for you."

Her words successfully made Martin laugh. He said, "You might as well act as a good and tender wife for me, and let me enjoy it."

Paige asked, "What if I'm not a good wife?"

Martin said, "Not to mention the others."

Paige smiled, "But in my life, I really don't seem to be qualified for this role."

Martin said softly, "You don't need to be a tender wife, you just need to be yourself. In front of me, just be yourself. I don't want any good wife. As long as you're by my side."
