Chapter 534

Chapter 534 Lead The Teams

“But freshmen really want you to lead the team..... This is what the students want, and I just listen to their ideas...”

“So you ignore mine?”

“Paige...” Cason immediately smiled and flattered her. “This competition is organized by ten universities in the same city. It is held once every four years, and it attracts a lot of attention. Our university has ranked a little behind three times...”

Cason felt a little wropped and gestured “a little bit” with his fingers.

Hearing this, Paige felt that students of their university really performed terribly before.

“So everyone pays attention to you, the champion with full marks. You must help us win this time!”

Cason thought, “It’s okay if she just leads the team!

Show other universities that, among the ten top universities, the University of Illinois at Chicago is not the worst!

Our university also has remarkable talent Paige, this year’s top scorer!

If she won’t take part in the competition, others will have no idea about her skills. Even if we don’t get any top rankings, others will think: Paige hasn’t participated in the competition yet...”

Paige was a little depressed. She said, “You just want me to advertise for the University of Illinois at Chicago ”

“Don’t you think that if more outstanding students choose our university, there will be more people saving lives and healing wounds? This is so great! Our medical research requires more newcomers._”

Paige thought, “So I’m an old hand...”

“Mr. Cobb, are you in there? Did you hear what I said just now?” Gideon knocked on the door cautiously again.

The door of the laboratory was opened, Cason pushed Paige out with a smile and said, “Here is the top scorer. Go. This time you must at least win the third place!”

Paige wondered, “Did I agree?

Just the third place? The old man is satisfied with that? His pursuit has been so low now.

When Gideon beard it, his pressure doubled because he knew how terrible their participants had been.....

They could only be knocked out...

He thought it very hard for them to win the eighth place, let alone the third one...

The point was, he had just become the president of the student union, but he was responsible for the difficult task now....

Gideon somewhat felt like crying. But in front of such a beautiful girl, he could only hold back.

On the way out, Gideon introduced himself to Paige, “Hello, I’m Gideon, president of the student union. I know you are Paige. I’m very glad that you will the team today. Thank you.”

Seeing that he was humble and gentle, Paige smiled lightly and said, “Don’t mention it.”

When she didn’t smile, she was as cold as a boss. But when she smiled, she was gorgeous.

Gideon was stunned for three seconds. Realizing that he had lost his mind, he flushed.

He thought, “It is said that the top scorer is friendly, but I didn’t expect her to be more friendly. When being looked at from a close distance, she is so beautiful that others will blush and feel nervous.

How can she be so gorgeous?!”

“This time, the competition is organized by ten universities. There are professional competitions and talent competitions...” Gideon hurriedly shifted his gaze, not daring to look into her eyes.

Her eyes were like the stars in the sky, so beautiful that others would get lost in them.

“Because the University of Chicago is the best university among these ten, the competition will be held in its north and south auditoriums. Professional competitions will be held in the south-auditorium, and talent competitions will be held in the north one. Only freshmen are allowed to participate. That is to say, we’re going to lead two teams to compete in two auditoriums.”

“We are the leaders?” Paige was a little surprised.

“Yes... You are the main leader, and I am the deputy leader.”

Gideon was a junior, and he was relatively more knowledgeable than many students. So school leaders would feel more at ease if he was the deputy leader.

“Talent competitions include piano, calligraphy, etc. Professional competitions include medical practice, battle of the brains, etc.....”

Paige didn’t know the specific process and content of the competition. What she knew was that Leana and Bess would participate in the medical practice competition.

At this time, participants of the “Professional Team” and “Talent Team” of the University of Illinois at Chicago were standing on the playground in two teams. Seeing Paige, they both prolonged their voices and said mischievously, “Nice to meet you, top scorer.”

“I’m really envious of the top scorer. She can come whenever she wants to, and she is allowed to do whatever she likes if she doesn’t come. When will I be so excellent?”

“Top scorer, how do you study? Could you teach us?”

“Top scorer, why don’t you participate?”

The student asking the question thought, “If she isn’t able to join the talent competitions. At least she can join the professional ones and win honor for our university.”

Paige looked at the participants in front of her with a smile and to win a prize today?”

ked, “Do you have the confidence

“No.” Participants prolonged their voices on purpose and laughed together.

“Be serious!” Gideon aside rectified the situation, and these laughing participants behaved themselves again.

Sure enough, the president was needed here...

“This competition is held every four years. I believe that every one of you does not want to regret it.

Show your ability, and let students of other universities know that our university is not bad!”

Paige cheered them up and encouraged them. These participants were surprised that Paige seemed to–be gentler and more friendly than they had thought!

They thought, “Who said she was cold?”

“Now, let’s go.”

The University of Chicago wasn’t far from here. Paige took the lead, and the two teams followed her and Gideon.

At this time Leana and Bess quietly squeezed forward, each holding Paige’s arm.

“I miss you so much! Why have you left school for so long! Anna also asks for leave often. Only we two often live in the dormitory. It’s so boring!”

“The day before yesterday, Pamela sent another big package. It was really huge. Bess and I borrowed a small cart to carry it back to our dormitory. It must be delicious food again.”

“Paige, Pamela is really kind to you.”

Pamela had been to their dormitory before, so they all knew her.

Paige was a little surprised and thought, “Pamela sent me food again? She didn’t tell me...”

Seeing that Leana and Bess standing beside Paige, those who wanted to be friends with her and those who were curious about her came forward tentatively.

The two teams became a mess again. Some students chattered around Paige, and some asked Gideon for his Line number.

At the University of Chicago.

To accommodate the contestants from the top ten universities, students of the University of Chicago vacated the backstage of the North and South Auditorium and arranged it as a rest area.

At this time, the North Auditorium.

A group of people surrounded Patricia, looking enviously at her new dress, new jewelry, and new shoes, all of which were WN Fashion’s latest models.

WN Fashion was a dark horse recently. Its designs were novel and fashionable, which become the favorite of many celebrities, stars, and rich ladies.

Some people said that PQ Fashion had the strongest opponent in its history because WN Fashion was almost as popular as PQ Fashion!
