Chapter 550

Chapter 550 You're Looking For Trouble

Everyone widened their eyes again in disbelief. "Paige knows how to play chess?"

"As a result, you must not have guessed it. After Paige defeated Carroll Schultz, people from the University of Chicago and Johns Hopkins University said that Paige had cheated on the SAT. As a result, Carroll Schultz personally came out and said that he was the one who taught her chess skills. Moreover, they have known each other for more than ten years. He also asked Paige to consider inheriting his skills..."

Gideon Jonathan, Bess Whitney, Leana Barker, and the others were stunned again...

Paige was amazing...

She was simply concealing her strength.

At this time, the host on the stage asked Leana Barker, Bess Whitney, Lizbeth Edwards, and Molly Campbell to come on the stage.

The four of them set up a medical team of the University of Illinois at Chicago to compete with the medical team of the University of Chicago.

"Paige, the University of Illinois at Chicago is the best at medicine. If we lose, it will be a great shame for the University of Illinois at Chicago..."

"Don't think too much about it. Just try your best." Paige encouraged, "Since you're already here, don't leave any regrets behind."

The four of them nodded again and walked towards the stage with a little lack of confidence.

In the first round, it was a medical knowledge competition through answering questions.

"Please tell me the core medical system you have mastered. There are no less than ten."

Someone in the modern medicine team of the University of Chicago quickly pressed the bell and answered, "The primary responsibility system, the third-level medical examination system, and the difficult case discussion system..."

Leana Barker and Bess Whitney were a little anxious because this problem was obviously related to modern medicine.

"What's the standard of diagnosis for critically ill patients?"

Leana Barker was about to ring the bell, but someone from the University of Chicago beat her to it. "The patient's breathing, breathing, strength of heart, and acute liver and kidney failure suddenly stopped..."

Seeing them talking so much, the medical team of the University of Illinois at Chicago was a little anxious.

"What are first aid drugs for an allergic shock?"

People from the University of Chicago and the University of Illinois at Chicago rang the bell at the same time.

The University of Chicago answered quickly, "Epinephrine."

The people of the University of Illinois at Chicago were a little angry because these questions were obviously based on modern medicine, and even the answer was Western medicine!

The second round was about how to help a patient with stomach disease recover in the shortest time.

The medical team of the University of Chicago had prescribed Western medicine. It was effective...

The medical team of the University of Illinois at Chicago paid attention to stomach protection. It would take a long time, but the efficacy of the medicine was gentle...

"University of Illinois at Chicago has already lost two of the three rounds. It seems that there's no need to compete in the third round." The medical team of the University of Chicago laughed arrogantly. "I don't think you should call it the University of Illinois at Chicago. It's called Scumbag University. We beat you every year."

"It seems that there is no capable person at the University of Illinois at Chicago. A few people who study traditional medicine came to compete with us."

"I think the members of the modern medicine team of the University of Illinois at Chicago don't dare to come, for fear of being abused..."

The people on the stage laughed, and the audience also laughed out loud. Only the students of the University of Illinois at Chicago secretly clenched their fists and were unwilling to lose.

"The real masters of the University of Illinois at Chicago haven't come out yet!" Molly said angrily.

"Oh... are you talking about Paige Lusk, the top scorer? I heard that she's here. Why don't you let her compete on the stage?"

If Paige failed. It would be a real slap in the face for the University of Illinois at Chicago if they called out the most powerful person in the University of Illinois at Chicago.

The four people from the University of Illinois at Chicago looked at Paige under the stage again. They didn't know if this would hurt Paige or if they would have a chance to bring honor to the University of Illinois at Chicago...

They were afraid that in the following competition, the questions would still be related to modern medicine. Paige was not good at it.

At this moment, Paige was sitting in the audience and watching this scene. Why were there so many people who were in a hurry to find trouble today?

Paige suddenly got up and walked toward the stage.

The team members of the University of Chicago were stunned for a moment and then said sarcastically, "I heard that the top scorer often doesn't go to class and dares to compete with us on the stage. It seems that there is really no one capable in the University of Illinois at Chicago..."

Paige came to the stage, and her calm eyes were shining with confidence.

"The class is for those in need, but I don't need it."

"How dare you brag now... Don't cry if you lose later." The team members of the University of Chicago didn't take Paige seriously. In their opinion, how could a person who didn't even listen carefully in class defeat them?

They read from two to three o'clock in the morning every day, swearing to make a name for themselves on the medical road!

When Paige skipped classes and left early, they were all learning medical knowledge!

They had already left Paige behind!

The students of the University of Illinois at Chicago couldn't help shouting,

"They're too arrogant! Paige beat them up!"

"Let them know that there is always someone better than them."

' Paige, torture them to death!"

Although only a few people were cheering for Paige, she could still feel the trust and encouragement from the students of the University of Illinois at Chicago.

Under the stage, Gideon Jonathan thought to himself, "Although Paige usually doesn't go to class, I often see her going to the school laboratory. Sometimes, Mr. Cobb will also go in..."

They should be doing experiments inside, right?

Even if Paige didn't have any medical foundation, she would probably have been taught by Mr. Cobb after going there too many times!

At the very least, it shouldn't be too embarrassing...

At this time, the professor of the University of Illinois at Chicago in the judges' seats hurriedly called Mr. Cobb.

"Mr. Cobb, Paige is on the stage."

"Really?" Cason smiled and was very happy. "I knew that the students of the University of Chicago would not be able to keep calm. When they see the top scorer, they will be proud and definitely want to compete. As long as Paige goes up, many students will come next year. The University of Illinois at Chicago will be more lively than it is now, hahaha..."

The professor at the University of Illinois at Chicago was a little confused. He had never seen Paige at school...

How could Mr. Cobb be so sure of her ability when she didn't even attend classes well?

Moreover, how did he know that she would compete on the stage?

"Ask the Purchasing Department to book more beds, desks, chairs, and so on to prepare for next year's enrollment. The University of Illinois at Chicago will be famous this time..." After Cason hung up the phone, he didn't forget to say proudly, "After all, they are children. If they can't keep calm, let Paige kill their prestige and teach them a lesson..."

At this time, the captain of the University of Chicago on the stage looked at Paige proudly. "I heard that you study traditional medicine. Tell me, what do you want to compete in? We modern medicine will not play the herbal game with you."

"I'll choose something that you guys are good at," said Paige calmly.

"Something that we are good at?" The captain of the University of Chicago had never heard of it. "Oh, the top scorer is really arrogant. We are good at anatomy!"

Although they hadn't had the chance to come into contact with anatomy practice in their lives at the University of Chicago, they had privately hired famous teachers who were better than ordinary students.

They didn't believe that a freshman in the traditional medicine department of the University of Illinois at Chicago could know anatomy!
