Chapter 552

Chapter 552 Snatching Her

Seeing that they were so scared that they kept backing away, Paige was speechless and said, "This human specimen's ribs are fractured, and his liver is broken. I initially determined that he died in a car accident and was crushed to death."

Paige covered the human specimen with a white cloth and gave the others a look, indicating that they should send the human specimens back.

The men beside her were also so scared that their legs went weak. After all, they were members of the student union, but they were just acting as 'workers' in this competition...

They had never seen such a scene before...

In the end, two teachers of the school came forward and pushed the two corpses away...

More and more people in the audience applauded for Paige...

Not only was Paige courageous, but she was also hiding her strength. She was simply too cool!

One of the judges was Professor Lee from the medical department of the University of Chicago. When he saw the anatomy done by Paige, he was shocked. He stood up and asked in surprise, "Paige, do you do anatomy before? Did the teacher at the University of Illinois at Chicago teach you all your anatomy techniques and sewing techniques?"

Paige thought of Cason and nodded. "Kind of."

Professor Lee was even more surprised. He had never heard of such a professor in the University of Illinois at Chicago.

It seemed that not only the students of the University of Illinois at Chicago but also the professors of the University of Illinois at Chicago were well hidden!

However, he didn't expect that Paige could grasp the essence of surgery in such a short time!

Paige was so talented in medicine.

As a professor, he felt ashamed of himself!

It was a waste of such a student to stay at the University of Illinois at Chicago.

Professor Lee couldn't help but invite Paige. "Paige, I wonder if you have plans to transfer schools. I'll suggest that you enter the medical department of the University of Chicago. I'll personally teach you. Or, you can choose a teacher you like. The University of Chicago can meet all the requirements given by the University of Illinois at Chicago."

"Including 1 billion dollars worth of experimental equipment?" Paige asked with a smile.

What?

1 billion dollars worth of experimental equipment?

Professor Lee was confused until someone whispered to him that the reason why Paige had chosen the University of Illinois at Chicago among so many famous universities in the past was that the University of Illinois at Chicago had spent a lot of money to buy several medical instruments which attracted her...

When Professor Lee heard the models of the instruments, he knew that the University of Chicago could not afford them, but he was reluctant to miss out on such a good candidate, so he offered another chance.

"I'm a core member of the Chicago Medical Research Institute, and I can help you win a place in the institute. I'll take you to see all the difficult operations of the association with your own eyes... Do you want to take the path of medicine in the future?"

If Paige entered the medical research institute and became a member, countless AAA hospitals would fight for her...

If Paige could reach his level, she would still have a lot of opportunities to go abroad to communicate...

The most important thing was that he would take Paige to participate in every operation of the medical research institute could improve her medical practical skills by leaps and bounds.

This was an enormous benefit!!!

Not only the students of the medical department of the University of Chicago but also the students of modern medicine of the University of Illinois at Chicago were envious when they heard this!

"Paige."

At this moment, another gentle female voice sounded.

Paige looked in the direction of the voice and saw a woman standing up in the crowd. She smiled and said, "I'm a member of the America Medical Research Institute. I came to your school for business. I saw your anatomy and sincerely invited you to join us. You may not like an ordinary AAA hospital. With your qualifications, studying big projects for the benefit of mankind in the America Medical Research Association would be your goal. As long as you agree, the class here can be suspended for the time being. I'll ask the most professional person in the America Medical Association to teach you there..."

This time, all the students were stunned...

Both the Chicago Medical Research Institute and the America Medical Research Institute were competing for the source of the medicine-Paige!

Some were envious, some were excited for Paige, and some were ashamed of their inferiority...

But Paige just smiled faintly and said, "Thank you for your sincere invitation. I'm honored and sorry. At present, I just want to stay at the University of Illinois at Chicago to study."

"Just because of those experimental equipment?" The woman was still trying to persuade her to stay. "The America Medical Research Institute also has a lot of unknown equipment..."

"I'm really sorry."

Paige stayed at the University of Illinois at Chicago to fulfill the last wish of Cassie. Once, a kind old woman asked her to go to school and repay society...

Both of them didn't want to miss out on such a good candidate, but the other judges interrupted, "Your dissecting skills and sewing skills are really amazing. In the future, you will definitely be able to make a name for yourself on the medical path!"

"Thank you."

Paige bowed and took the opportunity to step down.

The team members of the University of Illinois at Chicago followed Paige one after another, and the applause was still going on...

Leana Barker caught up with Paige and couldn't help but say, "Paige, you're amazing. You know anatomy... You're already so powerful. Why do you still have to go to school?"

Bess Whitney couldn't help saying, "The second human specimen made me sick. If it weren't for my respect, I would vomit... Paige, you have such a strong psychological quality!"

Apart from her dissecting skills and sewing skills, her psychological quality alone was enough to crush countless people...

"Have you noticed that the faces of the team members of the University of Chicago are all pale?"

"A bunch of cowards. Weren't they very arrogant just now? In the end, they didn't even dare to fart after being beaten by Paige..."

"Today, the University of Illinois at Chicago really has a good reputation!"

At this moment, they saw Gideon Jonathan walking towards them weakly with a pale face.

"Paige, you're amazing..."

As Gideon Jonathan spoke, he thought of the scene just now, and the disgust that he had tried so hard to suppress rushed up again...

"I'm sorry..."

Gideon Jonathan hurriedly ran to vomit again.

They didn't expect Gideon Jonathan to be so timid. They all laughed at him. How could he hold a scalpel in the future?

He was obviously someone who had done experience.

"No wonder Paige said that the class was for those who needed it. She didn't need it. At first, the students of the University of Chicago thought she was bragging..."

"Paige, well done!"

"No matter what our grades are like today, Paige has already won for our school!"

Everyone gathered around her, chatting and laughing. Paige smiled faintly and said, "The competition is over. Go backstage and pack up your things. Get ready to go back to school."

"Paige, I want to treat you to a meal. After getting to know you, I like you very much and want to be friends with you."

"Me too, me too. Your words just now encouraged me."

"I don't want to go back to school so soon either. If you're not hungry, I'll treat you to coffee or milk tea."

"Paige would be tired of leading the team today. Why don't we treat her to a good meal together?"

"Okay!"

Not far away, Gideon Jonathan had just finished vomiting. He looked over weakly and suddenly felt that his presence was very low...

It seemed that no one remembered his existence...

But he didn't have the appetite now.
