Chapter 573

Chapter 573 Getting Mr. White's Favor

As long as she practiced many times, she could master the skill and could even guess the number in the dice box by hearing the sound.

In order to win against her grandpa, she had practiced a lot and slowly increased the difficulty later. So far, she could shake ten dice and pile them all.

She didn't cheat, nor did she rely on luck. She relied on her skills.

"Paige, I wonder if you are interested in establishing a great cause with me?"

"Name a price. As long as you are willing to cooperate with me, money is not a problem."

"Come with me! Let's play together. If you lose, it's mine. If you win, you can get 70% of the money and I'll get 30%."

Many people rushed to cooperate with Paige, and some even quarreled.

Richard didn't want to miss this opportunity. He stood up and said, "Excuse me, Paige, could I have a word with you?"

Paige followed him to the small bridge outside.

"To tell you the truth, Heart Piercing Crow was bought at a high price not long after I arrived in Water City."

Hearing this, Paige's eyes turned cold since she thought Richard was playing tricks on her.

"Let's split 53.2 million dollars," said Richard sincerely.

But Paige's eyes were cold.

She was here for the Heart Piercing Crow.

Sensing her displeasure, Richard continued, "You can get 70% of the money. How about 80%?"

Seeing that Paige was still unhappy, he braced himself and said, "90%. You can get 90% of the money. It can't be less any more!"

"Who did you sell it to?" Paige said in a cold voice.

"A big shot. As long as he wants something, we can't get it back. How about this? If you want it, I'll help you ask my friends. Their friends should have it. I'll contact her and see if she can deliver it tomorrow. If she can, I'll give it to you for free!"

Paige took out her phone. "Give me your phone number."

Richard hurriedly told her his phone number.

Paige memorized it, and dialed back. "This is my phone number."

Richard immediately recorded it and said with a bit of respect and even caution, "That... Our cooperation, will you consider it?"

Paige sent him her bank account. "Transfer 90% of the money to my account first."

Richard was stunned for a moment before he came to his senses and immediately replied, "No problem."

Seeing that Paige was about to leave, he couldn't help but say, "I'll send the money to you later. Please think about it carefully when you get back."

Other people are not reliable, you can trust me and cooperate with me."

Paige walked down the bridge and was about to leave the city when ten staff immediately stopped her.

"I'm sorry. Please wait for a moment."

"What's wrong? Were they looking for trouble with me?" she thought, and raised her gaze.

"I'm sorry to take up your precious time."

The manager had already called his boss and asked if they should let her go-

Paige looked coldly at the ten weak staff in front of her. If they fought with her, they would be the ones to suffer.

But she had attracted a lot of attention today. If she fought with these staff, she might be in trouble.

She didn't want to get into trouble. If Richard could send her the Heart Piercing Crow tomorrow, she would be able to return the day after tomorrow. There was no need to fight with this group of people and cause unnecessary trouble.

"How long do I have to wait?" Paige suddenly asked.

The ten staff didn't expect her to be so easy-going. The way she looked at them was terrifyingly cold.

They thought she was so young that she was easily frightened.

"Just for a while," the leading staff said.

"Okay, please serve me with some food." Paige walked to an empty ship, sat on it, and enjoyed the scenery on the water.

More than a dozen resplendent buildings' shadow floated on the water surface, like a golden illusion.

The ten staff were stunned. After a while, they realized that Paige was quite bold. They thought, "Wasn't she afraid that it would be dangerous for her to stay here?"

They didn't dare to be negligent. They took the food to the boat and served her carefully.

The manager dialed Daniel's number and he was very anxious.

"Mr. Smith, bad news! A girl won 53.2 million dollars from us, and the others followed her and won a lot! We lost a lot tonight!"

"What did you say?" Daniel sounded surprised. "A girl?"

He couldn't believe the person who won a lot of money was a girl.

"Yes, she looks only 17 or 18 years old, but her skill is comparable to that of Mr. Spike!"

"Shut up!" Daniel scolded him. "How dare you compare her with Mr. Spike? He can know the number by sound, but can she do it? He can pile the dice, how about her? He can make any number he wants. Can she?"

"She, she, she... can do it!"

"What did you say?" Daniel realized that Paige was not a simple person and said calmly, "Send me the surveillance footage. Let me have a look."

Soon, the manager sent the surveillance video of the scene over.

When Daniel saw Paige, he was stunned. "Mr. Spike, have a look."

They had seen Paige tonight.

She was wearing casual clothes with a cap and a mask. She was so skilled.

Carl looked Paige and said admiringly, "This girl is really not simple."

"Mr. Spike, did you find any clues?" Daniel stared at Paige in the video, but he didn't find anything wrong.

Carl said with great interest, "I didn't expect that she could not only save people but also shake dice."

"Mr. Spike, is she cheating? With her age... How could she make it?" Daniel still didn't believe in Paige's ability. But he couldn't tell from her every movement and expression that she was cheating.

Carl said indifferently, "As long as she practices a lot, she can naturally make it."

"Well... We'll let her go just like that?"

After all, she had helped Richard win 53.2 million dollars!

It was really a huge amount of money.

He was afraid that if Paige came again, they would lose a great deal of money again.

"She won these money with her own ability. What reason do you have to not let her go?" Carl said. "Not only will you send her away, but you will also have to serve her well. Welcome her to come again next time."

"Welcome her?" Daniel couldn't believe it. He thought if Paige came a lot of times, they would go bankrupt.

"Where is she now?" Carl asked.

"I heard from the manager that when she was stopped by us, she was not surprised at all. She even went to the boat to enjoy the scenery and asked someone to serve her food."

It was the first time Daniel had heard of such a person. Paige was so young, but she was not scared and did not cry or show any fear when she was stopped by dozens of people.

Instead, she went to the boat to enjoy the coffee and the moon in a leisurely manner, which was completely different from what he had imagined.

Her psychological quality deserved people's thumbs-up.
