Chapter 761

"Well, I can only trust your word, future first lady of Kontina!" Alyssa teased Miley.

"Ms. Alyssa, you're home!" Sean rushed out from the kitchen, looking dapper in his suit. However, he was covered in some flour.

"Sean, are you cooking?" Alyssa inquired curiously.

"Yes. Madam Lyla and Tatiana are in the kitchen. I'm helping out," Sean replied with an awkward and troubled expression.

"What? Is Lyla cooking in the kitchen?" Mandy gasped and stood up. "Why didn't anyone stop her? She fainted this morning!"

Alyssa's heart sank upon learning that. "Did Lyla faint earlier today? Let me check on her."

Meanwhile, Tatiana was helping Lyla in the kitchen. Lyla looked pale, which made Tatiana worry.

She asked Lyla, "Mom, are you okay?"

Alyssa let out a knowing sigh. She and Lyla were well aware of Winston's hot temper. He would have sent someone to harm Sophia had he known that Sophia was the mastermind behind Lyla's attack.

In Alyssa's opinion, that was not the most satisfying way of dealing with Sophia, nor was it legal.

Alyssa was adept with dealing honestly or playing dirty. Knowing how cunning Sophia was, Alyssa had to play dirty.

“Lyla, do you recognize this man?” Alyssa presented a photo on her phone to Lyla, as the attacker had concealed his face during the attack.

“This man... He’s... He’s...” Lyla stammered, wide-eyed. “His name is Ronald Branson. He was an

“Why are you here?” Alyssa asked, catching herself before she could blurt out, “Why is it you?”

Jameson was dressed in an exquisite black suit. He looked regal with the dazzling horse in hand, like a prince out of a palace.

He said, “I’m just here to see you.”

“How’s your injury? You should rest for at least two months. What about the cast on your arm?” Alyssa inquired about his condition upon recalling the frightful night.

“I have no regret after hearing that,” he responded with a passionate look at her.

She held her breath, uncertain how to continue the conversation.

Jameson added, “I’m not only here to see you. I’m here to give you the horse. You left in such a hurry that you didn’t get to bring it with you.”

Before the gate closed, Jameson abruptly halted, shooting an icy gaze toward his back. His pale lips curled into a mocking smile as he scoffed, "Hah. You coward."

Meanwhile, Jasper stood before his bedroom window, staring blankly into the distance.

He smoked one cigarette after another, the ashtray overflowing with stubs, the room shrouded in smoke that masked his loneliness.

He let out some muffled coughs, his chest feeling like an empty cave.

Winston and Alyssa's older brothers were on a business trip abroad. Only the female family members were at home.

Jameson was not a stranger to the family. However, it was late at night, and the family was taking care of Lyla. Not wanting to disturb her family, Alyssa discreetly ushered Jameson into the guest room.

To her surprise, Miley was already in the room, enjoying tea.

“Miley, are you still up?” Alyssa introduced Jameson to him, “Oh, this is my friend. He’s Jameso-Carl reached into his bag, pulling out a plastic bag containing a syringe. He explained, “After reviewing the surveillance footage, we discovered that David’s men were responsible.”

Jameson smirked with half-closed eyes. “David is as malicious as Josh but lacks Josh’s effectiveness.

His methods are crude, always leaving behind evidence. A halfwit like him doesn't deserve my time."

"But we can't let this slide, can we? It would be too cowardly!" Carl gritted his teeth.

Leaning back, Jameson enjoyed some shut-eye. "Of course not. I'll make him pay for what he did to me.

Alyssa and Miley heard Colene's muffled shouts from the horse's back, followed by a chorus of laughter.

Speechless, Alyssa said, "Well, I don't mind, as long as Colene's happy."

Miley slowly sat on the couch and looked hesitant to speak. Alyssa sat by her side and took her arm." Miley, you must have something to discuss with me when you knock on my door this late. Is it related to Jameson?"

"I remember he visited our home when he was younger. You seemed close to him," Miley said flatly.

"Yes. We were classmates in elementary school," Alyssa reminisced. "I fended off the class bullies for him, and he started sticking around me because he was grateful.

"I didn't have many friends in the class due to my family background. Since everyone kept their distance, I had no choice but to be friends with Jameson.

The doors of the three cars opened simultaneously. Zoe and Penelope disembarked from their respective vehicles, followed by the gray-haired Cornelius, dressed in an opulent black fur coat. Holding a walking stick with a golden eagle carving, he exited the car with Zoe's help, looking stern.

"Dad, be careful," Penelope cautioned while approaching him.

Cornelius let out a heavy sigh at the sight of the Becketts' gate. "Jasper did not show up at all when you visited the Becketts to discuss marriage. Is that right?"

She bit her lips and nodded shamefully. "Yes."

"You're useless."

Zoe silently pouted, seemingly unhappy at her mom as well.

Penelope explained fearfully, "You know Jasper's character well. Even Javier can't force him to do Javier and Sophia were home at Seaview Manor. He was checking the news on his phone with a sour expression.

Despite enlisting the top PR team in the nation to handle the scandal between Jasper and Zoe, online discussions showed no signs of abating.

As the president of the Beckett Group, Jasper's reluctance to make a public appearance or issue a statement only fueled speculations, tarnishing his reputation.

Meanwhile, Sophia sat at the dresser, applying hair care products to the long locks she had invested time and money in over the years.

Back in the day when she slept with Javier to advance her career, Javier loved caressing her smooth and silky hair during their intimacy.

Sophia sneered, remarking, “Jasper deeply wounded Alyssa when they divorced. And his relationship with Zoe is questionable.

“Considering Alyssa’s intolerant and strong-willed personality, is it possible for her to accept Jasper? It might be beyond what she finds acceptable.”

Javier’s expression grew serious at the mention of the probability that Alyssa might find the situation beyond acceptance. But before he could speak, a knock on the door interrupted.

Following that, Barry’s anxious voice came through. “Mr. Javier, Madam Sophia, the Harpers are here.”

“Just say I’m not here,” Javier answered without hesitation while frowning.

“Mr. Javier, Harper Group’s chairman, Mr. Cornelius, came along as well. Are you sure you don’t want to meet him?”

Suddenly, Javier's heart sank.

"You see that, Javier?"
