Chapter 791

Cyrus' gaze darkened as he added in a cold, harsh tone, "So the claim you made earlier about hating Lyla out of love for her is completely baseless."

Ronald clenched his jaw, sneering, "Even if you find out, so what? I am indeed Sophia's fan. I love her madly. I can do anything for her, including killing Lyla!"

Furious, Cyrus's shoulders shook, and he yearned to crush Ronald's despicable head.

"But when it comes to my relationship with Sophia... Well, there isn't any. She has no ties to me. It's all just my one-sided wish. I'm ready to do anything for her, even if it involves dying or killing. And she doesn't have to be aware of any of it."

Ronald's audacious words stemmed from his confidence that being charged with intentional harm, the worst-case scenario would be attempted murder.

Javier regarded Sophia with a cool and lowered gaze, his icy stare concealed beneath his thick lashes.

"Did you secretly instruct Ronald to attack Lyla in the last incident, Mrs. Beckett?" Alyssa suddenly changed the topic.

"I didn't! Everything was Ronald's idea, and it has nothing to do with me!"

Sophia clutched Javier's suit, her teary eyes blurred.

"Javier, I bear no grudges against Lyla. Why would I do that? I'm the lady of the Beckett family. Lyla is just Winston Taylor's mistress! Why would I bother with a concubine like her?"

With a scowl, Javier ordered her sternly, "Sophie! Stop talking."

"Ms. Sophia Kirkman, you can insult me, but you cannot insult my family."

Alyssa's gaze sharpened as she pointed her finger directly at Sophia's tearful and sinister face.

"Be careful. If you dare to insult Lyla again, I might slap you too!"

The room fell into an awkward silence.

Penelope choked at Alyssa's words, her heart rate becoming irregular.

Alyssa couldn't help but notice that Penelope's comebacks were not as sharp as Sophia's. It seemed ridiculous to Alyssa that Penelope dared to challenge her with such responses.

"Alyssa! How dare you contradict my mother like that! You're so disrespectful! She's your elder!" Zoe, holding Cornelius, acted like a watchdog, barking loudly at Alyssa.

Jasper overheard, and his eyebrows tightened, expressing clear disdain for Zoe.

"Does age automatically make someone an 'elder'? Following that logic, I'm also your elder. Is it appropriate to address elders this way?"

Alyssa, who was a head taller than Zoe, coldly looked down at her, intensifying the pressure on Zoe.

Zoe trembled, her lips quivering. She was afraid to retort further for fear of Alyssa's harsh words.

“W-What are you doing, Jimmy?” Panicked, Alyssa instinctively tried to shove him away.

But in Jasper's eyes, her struggle was seen as playing hard to get.

Jameson remained silent, only tightening his grip around her. His eyes were filled with mockery and sarcasm when he met Jasper's angry ones. Jameson never once loosened his hold around Alyssa, even as she continued to struggle.

It felt like knives were stabbing into Jasper's heart, slowly killing him. His entire being buzzed with pain as goosebumps swept over his skin.

Alyssa sped her car all the way back to her place in Solana City, emotions tumultuous.

She had aimed for Sophia when she went to Seaview Manor earlier, yet on the way back home, all she could recall was how Jasper pressed her up against the wall.

The man's eyes had locked onto her, filled with a deep sadness. There was exasperation and desperation in his anger that Alyssa couldn't forget, no matter what. Her grip around the steering wheel tightened, making her fingers numb.

Jasper's gaze had been so sincere.

But what could that prove?

Try as he might, Jasper couldn't conceal the fact that he had slept with Zoe.

Alyssa glumly walked out of the car, only to find Jonah, Cyrus, and Sean standing outside the front gates.

"Lyse!"

"Jonah, Cyrus, Sean! What are you three doing here?" Alyssa asked, surprised.

Alyssa could see how Jameson slowly lowered his head into his arms, only revealing his bright eyes.

Those eyes conveyed a lonely emotion, as if he were some wounded animal. Alyssa recalled how Jameson had this very same look in his eyes 15 years ago when Victor punished him by making him stand outside in the pouring rain.

"Fuck me. When did he arrive here? There wasn't a sound at all. What is he? A ghost?" Cyrus shivered. chills shooting up his spine.

Jonah glanced at Jameson, then turned back to Alyssa. "Did he follow you over to the Becketts place?"

Alyssa hummed in acknowledgment.

Just then, Jameson's car engine revved up. It swiftly U-turned back the way he came, disappearing into the night.

"Huh? Is he leaving just like that?" Cyrus frowned. "Why are all the people who try to court you so strange.

Chapter 798

After a whole night of expending energy, Landon finally slumped back to his and Lauren’s love nest.

Snow began to fall even before he reached the house. When he arrived, Angelina was already waiting for him outside the front gate with an umbrella.

“Welcome back, sir.” Angelina nodded respectfully when Landon exited the car. She then sheltered him with the umbrella from the snow, exposing herself.

“Where’s Lauren? Has she gone to sleep?” Landon asked worriedly.

“Ms. Lauren has stayed up waiting for you all this while. I tried persuading her otherwise but to no avail.” Angelina smiled fondly. “Don’t blame her. She just couldn’t stop worrying about you.”

Landon swallowed as warmth surged in his chest. He then walked into the villa.

Afraid Lauren might catch a cold from him, he changed into the clothes Angelina had prepared for him before tiptoeing upstairs. He wanted to surprise his darling wife. 1

Lauren didn't dare turn around even when she heard Landon's footsteps. She continued quaking, holding onto her shoulders like some frightened bunny.

Landon, meanwhile, appeared quite like a lustful big bad wolf.

"Lauren..." Landon grunted, swallowing hard.

He gently lifted a trembling hand, wanting to touch Lauren's skin. But Lauren spoke up just then, saying, "I- I wanted to put on some lotion after the shower but couldn't reach my back. I would've f-finished earlier otherwise and been waiting f-for you in bed."

Landon's cheeks flushed with heat. His fingers buzzed with electricity as his senses nearly collapsed into themselves.

He had had his fair share of women.

Countless tried to seduce him in whatever manner they could, whether dressed or not, and many others threw themselves into his arms without a second thought.

But none of them had ever made Landon's heart pound so wildly or feel at a loss.

"C-can you help me, Landon? Please?" Lauren asked softly.

Lauren never said a word, but Landon could tell from the way she was flushed to her ears and her slowly quickening breathing that she had answered yes.

Landon made love to Lauren the entire night. From the bathroom to the living room, then on their bed. In the end, the couple went back to the bathroom for seconds.

Every inch of Lauren's delicate, virgin body mesmerized Landon to no end. He had never felt so sated in both body and soul.

In the end, Lauren ended up feeling so sore she couldn't move anymore. She panted weakly for him to stop, sprawled across his chest as she grew sleepy.

Landon felt like a fed lion, now thoroughly satisfied. He tended lovingly to Lauren, arm wrapped around her and gently patting her to sleep.

With his other arm, Landon flipped the blanket over.
