

CEO Bride 1031

Chapter 1031

“I was just giving an example. I don’t think Nash is that kind of person!” Olivia said firmly.

Hera gave a sweet smile. “I trust my husband too!”

Half an hour later, the two women arrived at Jonford Airport.

A woman was covered up from head to toe. She was dragging her suitcase behind her hastily.

She was wearing sunglasses, a round sunhat, and a scarf around her neck.

The woman walked up to Olivia and Hera, greeting them, “Oli, Hera!”

Her voice sounded refreshing.

When Hera saw her idol, her worries disappeared, and she immediately went up to give Sienna a big hug.

All of a sudden, she felt that she would not mind even if Nash wanted

Sienna to stay by his side.

In that case, Hera did not have to go to Sienna's concerts anymore.

Sienna's body tensed up.

Nobody had ever hugged her like this before, not even a woman.

"I'm so happy I'm finally getting to hug my idol. If Skade knows about this, she'll be so jealous!"

Then, Hera took her phone out to take selfies.

Olivia looked at Sienna in surprise. "Didn't you bring your assistant with you?"

She began to question the credibility of Sienna's new project.

Sienna gave her a slight shake of the head. "Nope, I came to Jonford in advance!"

Olivia did not ask her anything else. Instead, she opened the car door for them to enter.

"Let's go to Chateau Hotel for dinner tonight. Hera, do you want to call Nash?"

"Huh? Sure, I'll ask him!"

Hera called Nash three times, but he did not pick up.

Then, she called Maria, who told her that Nash was in his room.

cultivating.

Hera chuckled helplessly. "If he's cultivating, I guess he won't be able to enjoy dinner with a big celebrity!"

Sienna took off her mask and sunglasses, revealing her stunning beauty. "Let us women eat alone. Why do we have to ask a man to join us? I don't want to see that face ever again!"

Remembering the last time she wore a maid costume for Nash, her earlobes turned pink.

Hera smiled sweetly and said, "You're right. Let's just eat without him!"

After the two agreed, they called Skadi and Melody.

At last, they remembered Felicity, so they gave her a call too.

“Didn’t we just get together last night? Is today a special day too?”

Felicity asked enthusiastically.

“Do you know Sienna Lowe?”

Hera peeked at Sienna to see if she would be mad and was relieved to see that she was not.

“Of course! She was my idol in college!”

“In that case, come to Chateau Hotel. Let’s have dinner with Sienna tonight!”

“Hera, you’re not lying to me, right?” Felicity sounded doubtful.

“Just come over here right now. Why would I lie to you?”

“Alright, I’ll be there right away!”

Felicity hung up and went to Chateau Hotel with Jaxon.

After another half an hour, the women were all gathered at the entrance of Chateau Hotel.

All the wealthy party-goers around them were left speechless.

With Olivia present, no one dared to strike up a conversation with them.

Hera introduced everyone to each other before following Olivia into the hotel.

Meanwhile, Jaxon walked slowly behind.

Felicity slowed down and shot him a playful look. "Jaxon, why are you walking so slowly? Are you shy?"

"Ms. Felicity, it seems that this dinner party is for women only, so I don't wish to spoil the fun."

"Hahaha, I guess you're lacking self-control!"

Felicity cackled.

With a tap of his toes, Jaxon leaped up to the top floor of the hotel.

Meanwhile, a white Bugatti came to a slow stop outside of the hotel.

Inside the car were three men in tiger masks.

The person in the passenger seat said coldly, "This time, we must not fail!"

Chapter 1032

Two hours later, Olivia sent Melody and the others off.

Their beautiful faces were lightly flushed.

Capiton's Lowe family was one of the top ten wealthiest families, and

Sierra was the nation's beloved star

Naturally, they could not stop themselves from having a couple more drinks.

"Oli, take good care of Sienna so that we can hang out with her again tomorrow!" Hera draped her arm around Melody's shoulder, looking intoxicated.

Olivia chuckled and said, "If Chateau Hotel can't take good care of her, no one else can!"

Chateau Hotel was owned by the influential Skye family.

The service and environment were incomparable to other hotels.

“We’ll be going back now. See you tomorrow...” Hera said drunkenly. She burped from all the wine she drank.

“Okay, I’ve found drivers for all of you!”

Olivia waved, and several hotel workers came forward respectfully. “Drive safe. If anything happens on the road, you’ll be held accountable!”

“Yes, Ms. Olivia!”

The few hotel workers nodded.

They did not need Olivia’s warning to be careful as all of these women were well-known people in Jonford’s high society.

A hotel worker got ready to drive Melody’s car to Royal Bay.

As soon as the car left Chateau Hotel’s driveway, the three tiger-masked people exited the white Bugatti parked on the side of the road.

The hotel worker immediately got out of the car and pointed to the three of them, shouting, “Who are you? The people in this car are VIPs of Chateau Hotel!”

No one in Jonford dared to disrespect the guests of Chateau Hotel.

In this car was Nash’s wife, Hera, so there was no room for error.

There was a sudden flash.

A dagger pierced the worker’s throat, and he fell to the ground.

Hera sobered up in the car, and she held on to Melody’s arm tight

She said, “Mel... it seems like we’re in trouble!”

Melody used her true energy to get rid of the alcohol in her system

She said softly, “Stay in the car and don’t go anywhere. I’ll go down and deal with them!”

After saying that, she got out of the car and walked toward the masked men. “Who are you and who sent you here?”

The masked assailant who had just killed the worker dashed forward in a single leap, arriving in front of Melody in a flash.

His momentum was unstoppable. He was so fast that afterimages.

appeared.

Before Melody could react, he threw a punch at her that sent her stumbling backward.

It was the power of the peak Profound Reality Realm.

Melody felt a sense of hopelessness.

She was only in the early stages of the Profound Reality Realm. She was no match for him.

Despite that, she clenched her fists and rushed forward.

Hera was Nash's entire world.

She would not allow his entire world to come crumbling down.

Hera saw Melody getting injured, so she immediately took her phone out to call Nash.

However, he could not be reached.

"How brave of you!"

The masked man sneered while he strangled Melody and lifted he Melody's inner energy was being suppressed, and her eyes were bloodshot from the suffocation. She was in utter despair.

"The Light guides!"

All of a sudden, a gentle voice sounded.

The masked man's vision was momentarily blurred, and his right hand felt numb.

All he could see was a priest saving the woman he was about to kill.

"He's above the Profound Reality Realm!"

The masked man's pupils constricted.

The fact that this priest was able to save the person from his hands meant that his strength was definitely above the Profound Reality Realm.

These men were no match for the Mystique Loyalty Realm.

"Leave..."

As soon as Jaxon said that, the three men turned and ran away.

“Don’t let them get away!”

Felicity’s car stopped not far away, and she stuck her head out of the window while shouting loudly.

Chapter 1033

Jaxon lifted his hand and made a single clap.

The three men who had run a hundred meters away were knocked to the ground by an invisible force.

Just as they were about to stand up, another invisible force knocked them down again.

The three of them exchanged glances and gritted their teeth.

Suddenly, a blazing energy flowed through their veins, and their flesh started burning inside and out.

Jaxon closed his eyes and put his hands together. “The Light guides!”

Felicity ran over to him and looked at the three burning corpses. She said in bewilderment, “How did they catch on fire? Those killers are so cruel!”

Jaxon said solemnly, “Maybe it’s some kind of chemical!”

Felicity sniffed the air. There was indeed the pungent smell of chemicals in the air. "What's their cultivation level?"

Jaxon responded, "They have a strange power. There's no true energy in their energy center. I think what they practice is different from the martial arts in Drakonia!"

Hearing that, Felicity's face turned grave. "Are these assailants from abroad?"

Jaxon shook his head and walked toward Melody. After regaining her senses, Melody said with lingering fear, "Thank you, Jaxon!"

Jaxon was relieved to see that the two women were not injured.

An hour later, Felicity and Jaxon sent the two of them back to Royal Bay.

Meanwhile, Nash had just broken through to the late stage Mystique Loyalty Realm.

He smiled as he felt the power coursing through his body.

When he went downstairs, Felicity and Jaxon were there too.

Melody looked pale with bruises on her fair neck.

“What happened?”

Nash rushed down the stairs.

Melody was a Profound Reality Realm master, and there were not many others of the same rank in Jonford.

“We encountered a few assassins...”

Felicity recounted exactly what happened just now.

Nash frowned and sat next to Hera with his arm around her shoulders. He asked, “Are you okay?”

Hera nodded. “I’m fine, but Mel got hurt!”

Only then did Nash look at Melody. Apart from the bruises on her neck, there were no other injuries on her body.

Melody said, “I’m fine. Let’s discuss why those assassins came!”

To be able to send three peak Profound Reality Realm killers at the same time showed that the force behind them must be terrifying.

“I’m guessing that they’re from foreign forces. I encountered two of them this afternoon!”

There was a cold gleam in Nash’s eyes.

The assassins he met that afternoon failed to kill him, so they targeted Hera instead.

Melody frowned and said, “Who did you offend?”

Nash said hoarsely, “I’ve offended too many foreign forces. Recently, I’ve offended the Charlie family!”

It should be quite challenging for other foreign forces to trace him.

As for the Charlie family...

“They’re the Charlie family’s Genetic Warriors!”

Just then, an old man and a burly man came in.

Eric was with them too.

The burly man was the one who spoke.

Eric introduced, “Nashy, these two are Ash Coltran and Bertram Mort.

They're here to protect you!"

Ash Coltran!

Bertram Mort!

These two were among the top 20 martial artists.

Nash quickly stood up and shook their hands. "Nice to meet you two!"

They shook his hand politely.

Bertram looked Nash up and down. Smiling, he said, "We're from the Universal Foundation!"

Nash was relieved. "Please, Masters, have a seat!"

Ash and Bertram made themselves comfortable and sat across from him.

When they laid their eyes on Jaxon, they were slightly taken aback.

However, their surprise soon turned into relief.

As expected of the Youngs.

The younger generation all gathered around them.

“Master Bertram, you said that they’re Genetic Warriors. Can you explain in detail?”

Chapter 1034

Nash humbly asked.

Then, Bertram began explaining the origins of Genetic Warriors.

“The Charlie family has devoted years to the research of Genetic Warriors. They’ve enhanced the human gene with the genes of ancient creatures. Not only do these genes have incredible power, but they have terrifying self-healing powers too!

“Genetic Warriors are divided into nine levels. Four of those levels are about as strong as the peak of the Profound Reality Realm. The fifth level should be on the same level as the early stage of the Mystique Loyalty Realm.

“They’ve only been researching for two years. If given more time, they could possibly create even more advanced Genetic Warriors!

“If they can mass-produce Genetic Warriors, I’m afraid that it’ll lead to uncontrollable consequences.

“If you had killed a distant relative of the Charlie family, it would’ve been fine. But you killed someone from the direct lineage of the Charlie family. They’re not going to stop until they get you... Those level-four Genetic Warriors were just the appetizers!”

Bertram smiled bitterly at Nash. “You were too impulsive. Things could’ve been solved peacefully...”

Their main purpose in coming to Drakonia was to persuade Nash to withdraw the lawsuit.

After all, the Universal Foundation was in chaos, so they did not have the means to deal with the Charlie family.

Even after Bertram’s words, Nash showed no remorse. Instead, he said calmly, “Everyone is responsible for their own actions. Both of you should return to the headquarters to protect Fabian.

“As you said, Genetic Warriors have only been around for two years, while martial arts has been passed down in Drakonia for thousands of years. Even if they come, I'm ready to fight them!"

He knew what Bertram meant by peaceful resolution -dropping the lawsuits against Queenie and Travis

Fabain handed over the Universal Foundation to him, made him the chief inspection officer of Universal Group, and even made him clean. up the parasites there.

He did all of that, and he even sent Travis and Queenie in by himself.

Nash could not just withdraw the lawsuits just because they feared the Charlie family.

His words made Melody's chest tighten.

The two masters were on the same level as Bladesman Divus.

Should Nash not show them a little respect?

"I think Nashy is right. Drakonia is no longer a country that can be bullied by foreign forces. No matter what it is, we must not give in!"

Eric stood by Nash firmly.

They had even suppressed the ghoul overlord. Why would they be afraid of a group of Genetic Warriors?

Seeing how determined they were, Bertram could not help but look at Ash.

After all, Nash was a member of the Young family and the president of the foundation.

They did not have the power to forcefully make him change his mind.

After giving it some thought, Ash smiled and said, "Since the president and the principal of Clear Dew Court have said so, we'll follow your wishes!"

From their brief exchange, they could tell that Nash was unrelenting.

Instead of saying something that would hurt their teamwork, it would be better for them to follow his wishes and stand on a united front with him.

After chatting for a while, everyone went their separate ways to rest.

Nash let the two of them stay in the guest room.

On the other hand, it was destined to be a sleepless night for Lasso and Cressida.

Lasso was pacing in his room at Jonford Hotel, wearing loose.

pajamas.

It was already midnight, but the killers had yet to return. They probably failed their mission.

Jonford was filled with hidden experts!

Chap 1034

“Lasso, let’s wait a little longer. What if something else happened?”

Cressida was sitting in her bed, wearing a nightgown.

Lasso’s phone was ringing.

He immediately ran over to answer

When he saw who was calling, his heart skipped a beat-it was his father.

It seemed like the three Genetic Warriors sent out that night were gone.

Lasso anxiously answered the phone.

“Lasso, are you okay?” A concerned voice came from the other end.

“I’m fine!”

“I’m glad you’re okay. The life signals of the five Genetic Warriors.

have gone out, so I thought you were in danger!”

“We did encounter some trouble. The people who killed my brother are very powerful. I need Genetic Warriors that are level five and above!”

Chapter 1035

“I’ll give you two level-five and two level-six Genetic Warriors. The ones above level six aren’t stable yet!”

“Okay, Dad. Thank you!”

Lasso hung up with a smirk. “Now, let’s see how you’ll die!”

At Royal Bay Villa, Nash and Hera were sleeping in each other’s arms.

With Bertram and Ash there, they both slept peacefully.

At about three in the morning, Nash suddenly sat up from his nightmare.

Hera was also awakened by his movements and asked worriedly,

Honey, did you have a nightmare?"

Nash nodded and lay down again.

He dreamt of a girl in the clothes of the Mallefic walking toward a

When the flames engulfed her, she turned her head and smiled.

It was Cassie.

Hera hugged him and rested her head on his chest. She gently comforted him, "Don't be afraid, honey. I'm here!"

Nash smiled and kissed her on the forehead, but his heart was still pounding.

Was Cassie in danger?

He could not shake off that thought.

“Go back to sleep. I have something to do!”

Nash got up and said softly.

“Okay. Take care!”

Hera obediently let go of him, knowing that the things he had to do were beyond her imagination.

Apart from giving him words of encouragement, there was nothing else she could do for him.

After Nash got dressed, he went downstairs. He sensed two pairs of eyes looking at him, so he looked up at the roof, only to see Ash and/Bertram there.

Bertram jumped down and landed on the ground lightly.

In a deep voice, he said, “Powerful energy fluctuations are coming from the west side, but they don’t seem like a martial artist’s true energy!”

Nash let out his spiritual power, which instantly covered a radius of five kilometers.

There were no signs of any fighting, which meant that the fluctuations were over five kilometers away.

Nash jumped onto the wall of the villa in one stride and disappeared into the night.

Bertram and Ash exchanged looks before jumping onto the wall and going into the night sky together.

In the hazy night, the three shadows quickly shuttled through the tall buildings, leaping hundreds of meters each time.

They were so fast that they were almost imperceptible to the human eye.

20 minutes later, the three of them left Jonford and came to a valley.

Nash used his Third Eye like a night vision device and quickly fixed his gaze on the few blurry figures about two kilometers away.

He jumped up high and vanished again, not giving Bertram and Ash a break from their shock.

Nash picked up speed along the way. The other two used all their strength to catch up to him, but they were still about a kilometer behind.

Nash was half as fast as someone in the Profound Oriental Realm

Bertram and Ash exchanged glances and continued following behind

In the valley 2,000 meters away, Ishmael was holding the bloody Cassie in his arms.

Callum was sitting on the ground with bugs crawling all over his body.

Not too far away, a pool of flesh was burning with blue flames.

Nash landed on the ground, blowing away the surrounding leaves. When he saw Cassie in Ishmael's arms, he was heartbroken.

Chapter 1036

Ishmael burst into tears while hugging his granddaughter tightly. He cried out, "You foolish girl, why did you have to do something so stupid?”

Ash and Bertram landed behind Nash.

They could guess what was going on based on the scene before them and Nash’s expression.

Nash calmed himself down and appeared in front of Ishmael like a shadow.

“Cassie...”

Nash squatted on the ground hoarsely, grabbing Cassie’s wrist to feel her pulse.

There was nothing!

He opened his Third Eye to check Cassie’s injuries, and he noticed that her heart was still beating weakly.

“A heartbeat... She still has a heartbeat...”

Nash got excited.

The bugs on Callum crawled in through his mouth and nostrils.

Then, he stood up and walked to Nash. “Nash, you’re Johnathan’s disciple. Please save Cassie!”

Nash looked at Ishmael and said, “Elder Morkov, please hand her over to me!”

Ishmael shook his head bitterly. “It’s no use. She’s been affected by the soul-eater bug. Even if your master were here, he wouldn’t be able to save her!”

Soul-eater bug!

Evolved from the Parasite Lord itself, it was the bug that devoured souls.

It only existed in legends, and it seemed to be a mutated species.

“Let me try...”

Nash’s voice was trembling.

Even if there was only a sliver of hope, he would not let go of the chance.

He lay Cassie flat on the grass and used 24 Divine Needles to seal all of Cassie's important life vessels and trigger points.

Then, he entered true energy into her body.

Three minutes later, Cassie spat out a large mouthful of blood.

"Cassie...

"Cassie... Wake up!

"Aren't you going to have my child? Wake up!"

Nash sensed that his Divine Needles could not preserve Cassie's life.

He felt as though there was a knife twisting in his heart.

Standing not far away, Bertram sighed softly and looked at Ash next to him. "Save that girl. It seems like Nash likes her very much!"

Ash rolled his eyes at him. "If I could save her, I wouldn't need you to tell me to. That girl's soul has been seriously damaged. Even God Himself wouldn't be able to save her!"

Bertram pursed his lips and walked away sadly as he was reminded of his dead daughter.

"Nash... Forget it!"

"Your master had already predicted that Cassie would suffer a huge calamity, but I didn't expect this day to come so quickly!"

Ishmael patted Nash on the shoulder sadly.

Nash bit his finger and used his true energy to force out the blood, dripping it into Cassie's mouth.

Cassie had lost too much blood, so he had to replenish her blood first.

Normal people would need to transfuse blood into blood vessels, but because Nash's blood contained dragon blood and he had the power of the Mystique Loyalty Realm, he could directly send the blood into her blood vessels.

Under the pressure of Nash's true energy, his blood gushed out of him like it cost nothing.

Finally, Cassie's life force stopped draining.

Nash's heart skipped a beat.

Cassie could still be saved!

With his left hand, he shot out a stream of true energy. 24 golden needles vibrated to stimulate her life vessels and trigger points.

Ash looked at Nash in shock.

This guy was full of surprises.

However, he still shook his head helplessly.

Even then, the outcome could not be reversed.

Cassie let out a slight cough.

Nash was ecstatic. "Cassie, Cassie... Wake up. It's me, Nash!"

Cassie slowly opened her eyes.

Her blurry vision started to clear up.

Chapter 1037

"N-Nash... I-I'm so cold!"

Cassie stammered.

Callum quickly found a pile of firewood to make a fire.

"C-Can you hold me?"

Cassie's voice became weaker and weaker.

Nash hugged Cassie into his arms. "Cassie, you're so stupid. Why did you leave without saying goodbye?

“It’s my fault for not looking after you!”

Tears fell from the corners of his eyes.

Cassie did not say anything else, and her life force was starting to drain away again.

Nash continued to feed her blood to stabilize her internal organ function.

Ash took a deep breath. He walked over and said, “I can let her live until tomorrow morning...”

Ishmael turned to look at Ash. “Who are you?”

Ash said calmly, “The former principal of Amethyst Court, Master

Ash!”

After hearing that, Ishmael stood up with his hand over his heart.” Thank you for saving my granddaughter’s life. I’m eternally grateful!”

He would be grateful even if his granddaughter could only live for one more minute.

Ash took out a piece of black rune from his bag.

In fact, it was more like an array than a rune.

There were strange symbols on it, which looked slightly different from runes.

“This is the array rune left by the founder of Amethyst Court. It can temporarily block the secrets of heaven, but only for two hours!”

Ash made a gesture with his right hand and penetrated the rune with his true energy. One after another, those strange symbols came to life.

The next moment, the strange symbols emitted a white light, and he made them sink into the space between Cassie’s eyebrows.

Cassie’s body exuded a hazy white light.

Her face became rosy, her breathing became stable, and her heartbeat got stronger.

Cassie opened her eyes again.

Her originally dull eyes were filled with energy as she exuded a strong vitality.

“Cassie...”

Nash was choked with tears when he called her name.

Cassie looked at his face affectionately. “Nashy...” She had regained her sweet voice.

Callum sighed. “Nash, please stay with her!”

Nash looked at Callum and Ishmael in shock.

How could they be willing to give up Cassie’s last few hours to him?

Callum shook his head helplessly. “She has always been obsessed with you. Spending her last few hours with you would be her greatest wish!”

Cassie broke away from Nash’s arms and looked at the golden needles on her body. She said shyly, “Nashy, help me take out these needles!”

With a slight lift of his hand, a suction force pulled all the golden needles out.

“Grandpa... Dad...

“I’m sorry!

“I won’t be able to stay with you until the end of your lives!”

Cassie knelt on the ground at their feet.

She regretted not listening to Nash and going to find Abraham alone.

However, there was no turning back the clock.

She heard their conversation just now, so she knew that she only had four hours left at most.

Ishmael went up to her and helped her up. “Silly girl... It’s the thought that counts. Your father and I are happy enough.”

Cassie hugged her grandfather and father.

She cried for a long time.

Ishmael blamed himself, saying, “It’s our fault for pushing you too hard!”

If they had not forced Cassie to marry into the Divine Parasite Order, she would not have run away from home.

Ultimately, it was their fault.

Cassie smiled and shook her head. “I understand that you’re doing it for the Parasite Colony!”

After saying that, she turned to smile at Nash. “Nashy... I’d like to see the sunrise...”

Chapter 1038

Cassie’s voice was pleasant and sweet.

Looking at her sweet smile, Nash tried his best to force out a smile. Okay, let’s go watch the sunrise!”

He took Cassie’s hand and walked toward the barren mountain in the distance.

Cassie locked fingers with Nash’s big, warm hands.

“Nashy... I’ve dreamed of walking hand-in-hand with you for countless nights!”

She was over the moon at that moment.

She was able to walk hand-in-hand with the man she loved during the last moments of her life. She could die without any regrets now.

Nash held her hand tightly and said while forcing a smile, “I didn’t expect that I would leave such a deep impression on you after spending just a few months together!”

He had spent three months with Cassie in the Parasite Colony.

He was curious about parasitic bugs, so he would ask Cassie questions about them every day.

The 11-year-old Cassie would patiently explain to him what she knew.

“I don’t have a mom. My grandfather and father manage the colony, so they rarely spend time with me since I was a child. Kids my age. always stay away from me because of my status.

“My childhood was a lonely one, so your presence was like a beacon of light to me. You were the one who lit up my world!”

Cassie looked into the distance and softly expressed her thoughts.

Nash recalled the time he first arrived in the Parasite Colony.

A beautiful little girl in Mallefic tribe clothes was peeking at him behind the door.

Cassie timid at the time.

was very

She did not even dare to come out during meal times.

After getting to know one another, Cassie began to open up.

Nash did not think much about it at that time. He just thought that Cassie was shy.

He never expected her to be going through all of that. No wonder he left such a deep impression on her.

In fact, Nash missed that time very much too.

He was always either on a mission to kill someone or cultivating in seclusion on Tili Mountain.

Only during the three months in the Parasite Colony did he feel free.

Before they knew it, they reached the foot of the mountain.

Nash picked Cassie up and jumped up, landing on the top of the mountain.

The trees on the mountain had withered, and leaves were falling.

The top of the mountain looked lifeless.

Nash put Cassie down with a frown.

He did not like what he saw.

“Cassie... close your eyes!” Nash suddenly said softly.

Cassie looked at him anticipantly. “Are you going to kiss me?”

Nash smiled. “Close your eyes. I’ll give you a surprise!”

Cassie nodded and closed her eyes.

Nash stepped forward, squatted down, and put his hands on the ground.

He closed his eyes, and his energy center started glowing with a golden light.

Then, it started spinning.

As it spun faster and faster, Nash’s body emitted a faint light.

There was a Longevity Technique called Arrival of Spring.

It would bring back to life the plants and trees for miles around.

However, it required a lot of true energy.

With the mountain peak as the center, all the plants within a 500- meter radius had withered even though they were capable of surviving in the winter.

However, on the grounds where Nash stood, tender shoots of green.

grass began to sprout at a visible speed.

Dead trees sprouted green branches once again.

“Nashy, can I open my eyes now?” Cassie asked softly.

Nash said in a low voice, “Wait a little while longer...”

Cassie listened to him and kept her eyes closed, but she could feel the air getting fresher.

About ten minutes had passed, and all the true energy in Nash’s body had been exhausted.

The originally barren mountain was now full of green as if winter had passed and spring was coming.

The caterpillars hiding in the tree trunks seemed to have been affected too. They completed their transition from cocoons to butterflies.

The green grass was full of flowers.

The bright moonlight shone on the top of the mountain, casting hazy glow all over Cassie in her Mallefic tribe clothes.

Chapter 1039

Cassie looked like an angel that descended from heaven.

Nash was slightly stunned.

“Cassie, open your eyes and take a look!”

A smile appeared on Nash’s pale face.

Cassie slowly opened her eyes.

A dreamlike scene appeared before her eyes, making her eyes sparkle.

“Wow, it’s beautiful! How did you do it?”

Cassie ran and spun around the flowers.

Little butterflies were dancing around.

She smiled happily. Suddenly, death did not seem that scary.

“Do you like it?” Nash smiled gently.

“Yes, I love it!

“I didn’t think you were so romantic! But it feels like something is missing!”

Cassie bit her fingers while thinking.

Suddenly, her eyes lit up.

She took off the whistle hanging around her neck and blew it.

At the foot of the mountain, Ashley and Bertram looked at the lush mountain in the distance in shock.

Bertram said in disbelief, “H-How is a human capable of that?”

All the flowers, plants, and trees within a kilometer radius had.

withered, but everything on the mountain where Nash was had been revived.

It was simply outrageous!

Ashley looked shocked too. "I'm afraid that our president didn't use martial arts to achieve that!"

Bertram trembled. "Do you mean..."

Ashley nodded.

Bertram's heart stirred up a storm.

Meanwhile, Ishmael and Callum were smoking by the fire.

Suddenly, the two boxes behind them made a clattering sound.

The father and son were stunned.

A bitter smile appeared on Callum's face.

Those were Cassie's parasitic bugs.

Did they want to say goodbye to Cassie too?

Callum sighed and opened the lids of the boxes.

A firefly-like bug flew out of the box, flapping its wings toward the mountain.

While it was flying, it split into two, then four, then eight.

Soon, a large group of glowing green bugs were flying toward the mountain.

Callum sighed. "Dad, do you resent Nash?"

Ishmael smoked his cigarette and said with a faint smile, "What's there to be resentful about?"

"If Nash had agreed to be with Cassie, she wouldn't have been so sad and left without saying goodbye-let alone fall victim to Abraham's soul-eater bug!"

"That doesn't mean it's not our fault either," Ishmael said with dull eyes.

Callum lowered his head and remained silent.

Ishmael continued to smoke, seemingly in deep thought.

On the mountaintop, Nash and Cassie were lying on the grass.

The moon shone brightly overhead while the stars sparkled.

The air was filled with the freshness of spring, making the atmosphere around them all the more beautiful.

Butterflies were dancing gracefully and fireflies were chasing each other

It was heaven on earth.

“It’s a full moon tonight!”

Cassie stared at the full moon with her twinkling eyes and murmured.

This was the last time she could admire the moon..

“A man’s life is a tale of joy and sorrow, farewells and unions.

“The moon, with its phases of shadow and light, waxes and wanes in tune.

“Such is the way of life, a truth forever keen.

“Wherein perfection falters, a timeless scene.”

Cassie expressed her inner feelings with poetry.

Nash’s heart was filled with sorrow, and tears fell from his eyes.

Cassie turned sideways and smiled.

“Are you crying because of me?”

Nash rubbed his eyes. “There’s sand in my eyes. How can the Smiling Grim Reaper shed tears that easily?”

Cassie smiled and said, “When you hugged me just now, your tears fell into my mouth. They were very salty...”

After saying that, she lay on the grass again and asked softly, “If we meet in another world, will you marry me there?”

Nash nodded without hesitation. “Yes... If you survive, I’ll marry you in this life!”

Chapter 1040

“Love can’t be forced. You’ve never truly loved me!

“You’re only saying that to fill the void in your heart.”

Cassie looked up at the endless night sky as she spoke softly.

Nash was filled with mixed feelings.

She seemed to know him better than himself, but she only got it half right.

“Why else do you think I made that promise to you in the Parasite Colony?” Nash chuckled.

Cassie turned to look at him in surprise.

That year, she was 11, and he was 18.

Around Nash's second month in the Parasite Colony, he promised her, "Cassie, when you grow up, I'll marry you!"

It was because of that that her father always wanted her to marry Nash, but Nash's master told them that he was already engaged.

They parted ways six years ago, and when they met again, he had already become someone else's husband.

Nash stared deep into her eyes. "I did like you a lot at that time. If it weren't for the blood feud, I probably wouldn't have fulfilled my master's engagement. I would've married you instead!"

After saying that, Nash felt guilty. "I'm sorry I broke my promise!"

Cassie was tearing up.

He did like her, but he had no choice,

Cassie blushed and said, "It's okay, Nash. The fact that you liked me is enough!"

Nash took a deep breath and said, "I'm not lying. If you survive this, I'll definitely marry you!"

Cassie leaned into him and kissed him.

After listening to his words, she could really die without regrets now.

Time passed like running water.

Three hours passed in the blink of an eye.

Cassie lay in Nash's arms and said many things until her voice began to weaken and her breathing became short. The energy in her body began to wither away.

Just then, a white crescent appeared on the east horizon.

The magnificent morning sun was slowly rising, and the morning glow was like a thousand golden threads floating in the sky.

Cassie's heartbeat quickened, and her blood pressure rose. She knew that she did not have much time left, so she pursed her pale lips and reached out to touch Nash's face.

With a sweet smile, she said, "Thank you, Nashy, for spending the last moments of my life with me!"

She lifted her hands halfway but ran out of strength.

With bloodshot eyes, Nash grabbed Cassie's hand and put it on his face.

Her hands were cold, so Nash restored a little bit of true energy to warm her up.

Cassie lightly parted her lips and said, "The sun is coming up soon... Watch the sunrise with me!"

"Okay!"

Nash nodded lightly and helped her up before letting her nestle in his arms again.

The two of them watched the sunrise in the east. Neither of them spoke, and they just quietly listened to each other's heartbeat.

Not far behind, Eric, Jaxon, Hera, Melody, and Felicity all arrived.

Hera was worried that something had happened to Nash, so she called Eric.

When Eric heard that the two masters had gone out with Nash, he immediately contacted Jaxon and Felicity.

Jaxon had also sensed the fluctuations of fighting in the west last night.

He and Felicity finally found the place about an hour ago.

In that one hour, they learned what had happened.

Melody glanced sideways at Hera, but her gaze was soft. She did not. look jealous or angry that Nash was hugging another woman at all.

After all, that girl was about to leave this world.

How could anyone be angry at her?

Not to mention, Nash had known her for six years.

He just wanted her to be left with good memories in her last moments.

Felicity tugged at Jaxon's sleeve and asked in a low voice, "Jaxon, why is this mountain filled with green grass and flowers?"

Jaxon shook his head. "I don't know!"

Eric said, "It's Master Calcraft's rumored technique called Arrival of Spring. It can transfer the lush greenery of one place to another!"

Felicity nodded. "That's amazing. This isn't something a martial artist can do, right? Is it a Path technique?"

Nobody replied to her, and Felicity did not continue asking either.
