Chapter 1081

With Finn's extraordinary physique and Ken's unicorn arm, their cultivation would improve greatly if they had enough spiritual stones.

Nash went back to the living room and opened the vault.

It contained more than 300 spiritual stones.

There was also a colorful diamond the size of a pigeon egg.

Nash grabbed the colorful diamond, and his eyes gleamed. "This thing is very valuable!"

Back then, at the tomb of the King of Medicine, Nico and Derek almost killed each other because of this diamond.

"Yeah, I almost ran away with this diamond!" Finn chuckled.

"If you like it, you can have it!" Nash handed the diamond to him without any hesitation.

"You're kidding me, Mr. Nash. This thing is priceless. There's nothin else like it in the entire world!"

Finn put his hands behind his back and took a few steps back.

Whether Nash was testing him or not, he would never want this diamond.

The favor that Nash was giving him was worth far more than the colorful diamond.

“Fine. I’ll have someone turn it into a necklace for my wife. You guys can take the spiritual stones, then!

Ken nodded enthusiastically. "Finn is right. These spiritual stones are very precious, but you still let us use them freely. You've never treated us like outsiders but friends and brothers!"

Nash smiled heartily. "Enough with the touchy-feely words. Go do what you have to do!"

After having a glass of water, Finn and Ken left.

As soon as they walked out of the place, a Porsche 911 stopped at the door.

Melody and Hera were walking over together.

When they saw Nash, Hera trembled, and her eyes turned red as she shouted, "Honey..."

Although Nash had always been around, she had not seen him for three days.

Not seeing him for one day felt like not seeing him for three whole seasons.

"Wifey..."

Hera threw herself into Nash's arms and hugged his waist tightly. Then, she said sweetly, "I've missed you so much, honey!"

Nash breathed in the smell of her and whispered in her ear, "What about me do you miss?"

"Mr. Skye!"

The flight attendants lowered their posture.

Theo pointed at Nash and said, "Help my friend bathe and give him a change of clothes. Take good care of him and I'll pay you five times your bonus this month!"

"Yes, Mr. Skye!"

The four flight attendants' eyes were sparkling. They wanted nothing more than to strip Nash naked.

Nash followed them to the bathroom.

There was a huge window next to the bathtub that allowed him to enjoy the view of the clouds while lying in it.

A flight attendant adjusted the water temperature and filled the tub with water while another brought a bucket of rose petals and poured them in.

Nash was secretly speechless. He thought, 'Now, you're talking!'

Looking at the blushing flight attendants, Nash teased them on a whim, "Why are you still standing there? Do you want to take a bath with me?"

“Hehe, Nash, you’re the most handsome guy in the world!”

Theo smiled flatteringly.

Nash smirked. “Enough with the flattery. Tell me about this auction!”

Theo poured Nash a glass of 1982 Lafite and said, “The auction will be held in the Great Eastern Tower. Only aristocratic families with over 100 billion in assets and grandmasters can participate. The number of participants is about 3,000!”

Nash sipped his wine and frowned. “Even foreign grandmasters?”

The number of families in Drakonia that had over 100 billion in assets would not exceed three digits.

The number of grandmasters and great-grandmasters would not exceed 2,000 either.

The only way for the organizer to have a capacity of 3,000 was if a large number of foreign grandmasters were joining.

Theo looked up and stared at Nash while saying in a deep voice, ‘Nash, did you think that the Ten Families of Capiton were the only top families in Drakonia?’

“Are they not?”

“We may look like the top families from the outside, but there are Chambers of Commerce controlling the majority of the billionaire families in Drakonia. Above them, there are even the reclusive sects

Nash could not be bothered to continue this conversation with Theo.

He had seen his fair share of absurdities, but nothing was as absurd as this.

Soon, the private jet landed at Munford International Airport.

It was four in the afternoon, five hours before the auction.

The 100-story Great Eastern Tower towered into the sky.

Théo, Nash, and the four bodyguards went to the front desk to get a room.

“I’m so sorry, but we only have one room left!”

“Give us one room, then!” Theo put away his ID card and said to Nash, “Mr. Nash, I’ll go to a different hotel Just go to the 99th fit nine and wait for me!”

Nash nodded and took the room card. He looked around and the fuck?

Sienna stood in front of Nash while blushing.

She traveled from Capiton to Jonford' just to see Nash, but she did not even see his shadow after staying for several days.

Her grandpa asked her to attend the auction in Munford and network with people in the upper class.

Little did she know, she would bump into Nash here.

However, it seemed like he wanted nothing to do with her.

Nash said in a calm tone, "Ms. Lowe, I don't have time to joke around with you!"

The Great Eastern Tower had a hundred floors with rooms on every one of them.

The chances of getting a room on the same floor were very alone next door.

"I'm not joking. Look! I'm staying in Room 9899!"

Sienna took out her room card from her bag, and the number 98 was clearly written on it.

Nash was taken aback. Was it really a coincidence?

"Don't be surprised. Come on, let's go. I don't want to see anyone from the Klein family!"

Sienna grabbed Nash's wrist and walked toward the elevator.

Lana never expected to see him here.

No wonder Sienna was groveling at his feet.

She wanted to win him over as well.

"Hello, Mr. Calcraft. I'm Lana, nice to meet you."

Lana stretched out her fair hand, and the smile on her face would make anyone fall in love with her at first sight.

Nash shook her delicate hand and smiled. "I'm Nash. Nice to meet you!"

He had never interacted much with the Ten Families, but he was going to sooner or later at Capiton. It was better for him to establish a good relationship with them rather than offend them.

Sienna was displeased at the sight of Nash shaking hands

Theo sighed in relief.

Falling 80 floors in an elevator was no joke.

Although Nash was strong enough to save himself, it would definitely affect his mood.

"I'm that unlucky bastard!"

Nash sat on the luxurious couch and tossed the sack on the ground.

"What? M-Mr. Nash, are you okay?" Theo asked worriedly.

"I'm fine. No one got hurt, but I'm just curious. With so many big shots coming to the Great Eastern Tower today, why isn't there anyone in the building to maintain order? Are they that confident that no one would dare cause trouble in the Great Eastern Tower?"

Nash was confused as to how someone could tamper with the elevators in a place like this, especially when so many big names were coming to participate in the auction.

The Great Eastern Tower's reputation would definitely be ruined after what happened today.

"The Great Eastern Tower is the territory of the four major Chambers of Commerce. They stated a long time ago that if anyone dared to cause trouble in the Great Eastern Tower, they would have to face the wrath of the four major Chambers of Commerce.

"They would kill the troublemaker's entire family and perhaps their relatives too!_____

"My grandpa is calling. I'm hanging up now. See you later!"

Theo hung up right away.

Nash put his phone down and leaned back on the couch with his eyes closed.

The elevator failure incident was most likely targeting Lana and Sienna.

The fact that the people responsible dared to do something like that knowing that this was the territory of the four major Chambers of Commerce meant that they had extraordinary power!

It seemed that Nash had to stay away from these women.

Just then, the doorbell rang.

Nash walked to the door and glanced through the peephole. He saw a beautiful woman in a suit, four poker-faced middle-aged two more beautiful women in silk dresses outside.

Eva shooed them. "Get out. Make sure it doesn't happen again!"

The two women nodded and left the office.

As soon as they left, a woman in a blue evening gown walked over.

Her eyes sparkled like stars, and her skin was as smooth as butter.

There was an ethereal aura about her.

Eva immediately stood up and said, "Ms. Roxy..."

"The matter is under control for now. You must pacify the daughters of the Lowe and Jackson families!"

The woman's red lips moved, but she spoke without any emotion.

"Yes, Ma'am!"

Eva lowered her head, and when she looked up, the beautiful woman

He never thought that he would fall into the hands of a woman.

"Nash..."

Suddenly, Sienna's voice sounded from outside.

The door was unlocked, so Sienna gently opened it.

She had changed into a school uniform while Lana had changed into pajamas.

Both of them still had wet hair.
