Chapter 1111

The other two Profound Reality Realm experts trembled with fear.

Jay finally understood why his grandfather had told the family not to provoke Nash for the time being. He never expected this guy's strength to have reached such a level.

Nash stepped toward Jay, an endless cold light flickering in his eyes.

"Nash..."

Sienna stood in front of Jay anxiously, her voice trembling as she said, "You can't kill him. The Klein family won't let you off if you do!"

"Get lost!"

Nash pushed Sienna aside. Then, he raised his hand, and a sword aura pierced through Jay's chest.

The other two Profound Reality Realm experts exchanged glances before trying to escape.

Nash waved his sword, and their heads fell to the ground.

Sienna and Lana were already shocked silly. They thought Nash was only trying to provoke Jay. They did not expect him to kill him. The Klein family was third among the Ten Families of Capiton!

Chapter 1112

While Nash and Theo dined at the Millennium International Hotel, news of Jay's death reached the Kleins in Capiton.

In the Kleins' ancestral hall, the family head, Josef, and his elder brother, Julius, were sitting on high seats. The expressions of the many Klein members varied greatly. Some were gloating, while others were crestfallen.

Only Jay's biological parents were kneeling on the ground, crying bitterly.

Silence fell as Marvin Klein entered the hall.

"Brother ... Please accept our condolences," Marvin patted Martin's shoulder, his voice low and hoarse.

His eyes were red, and there was deep sorrow within them. He was not grieving for Jay's death but for the two Profound Reality Realm experts Jay had brought with him. His family had lent them to Jay. To him, their value surpassed Jay's.

Edwin hesitated for a moment before picking up the phone and answering the call.

Josef's indifferent voice sounded from the other end, "Edwin, I heard Lana and Nash are getting close."

Edwin chuckled. "Is that so? I haven't heard about it."

"Edwin, there's something I must tell you. Nash is the son of the Warden of the Northern Territory."

Edwin's expression changed slightly but he felt a surge of excitement inside. If Lana could use Nash to get to the Warden, then the Jackson family would gain an ace.

Suppressing his excitement, Edwin cleared his throat before saying, "I suppose you didn't call me just to tell me about this?"

Josef chuckled. "Philix Xing's real name is Wolfgang Young."

Edwin felt as if he had been struck by lightning. He abruptly shot from the couch, shocked and incredulous. "H-How is that possib

"Lana, are you... really okay?" Sienna noticed that Lana was in low spirits and asked again.

Lana shook her head gently and then finished the remaining half glass of liquor on the table in one gulp.

Nash did not pay attention to Sienna and Lana. His gaze wandered to the clouds outside the window.
“Thep, I killed Jay Klein. Will your family be affected?”

The Kleins knew he was a descendant of the Young family. Now that he had killed Jay, it meant he was at war with them. He was worried that the Klein family would retaliate against the Skye family.

“The Ten Families all have political backgrounds. They wouldn’t dare touch us so easily,” Theo replied as he savored the fruits handed to him by the beautiful flight attendant. His lecherous eyes narrowed on “Nash, I think you were too impulsive today. The Klein family’s power is beyond your imagination. My grandfather told me they invited an unparalleled master eight years ago,” Sienna said with her head tilted.

“An unparalleled master?”

“Who is it?” Theo sat up straight, his brows slightly furrowed.

"How did this happen? Everything was fine when I left, wasn't it?" Olivia's face turned pale.

"The villa in Wallis District was under construction, but your grandfather insisted on going to see it. I couldn't persuade him otherwise, so I had to take him there. You know how excited he gets when he's in Wallis District."

"Alright, I understand. Mr. Calcraft is in my car. I'll take him there immediately!"

Olivia hung up the phone and realized she had misspoken earlier. She quickly looked at Nash in the rearview mirror. "Nash..."

"Take me there to see him," Nash said calmly.

Olivia had always helped him and Hera. If her grandfather was in trouble, he would naturally lend a hand. Moreover, Olivia's father was

The call ended. Nash listened to the busy tone on the other end of the line, somewhat speechless. Fabian and Melody were both trusted by the Young family, and they both possessed top-notch business acumen. He had been thinking about trying to match them up.

At Innovate Collective, Hera, dressed in professional attire, walked out of her office. She saw Melody's cold expression. She walked up to her and asked, "Melody, what's wrong?"

Melody shook her head. "I'm fine."

Hera smiled gently. "The only person who can make you so angry must be your young sir, right?"

Melody shot Hera a complicated look and then repeated what Nash had just said. She thought Nash was worried about entrusting the Universal Foundation to Fabian and so came to her to learn more about him. She did not expect him to play matchmaker!

“Melody, let’s go to my office and talk,” Hera said lightly while looking at Melody. Then, she turned around and walked toward her office. Melody looked at Hera’s back in astonishment, nervousness suddenly washing over her.

Melody smiled and said, "Hera, you're overthinking. I do have some feelings for Nash, but it's not to the point of liking him."

Hera smirked. "Is that so?"

Melody lifted her head and looked directly into Hera's eyes. "Yes. I won't say I've never liked him, but at least I don't like him now!"

Perhaps it was because she realized she was starting to like Nash that she so desperately tried to escape from her feelings.

Ever since the incident when she saved the baby but neglected the Warden, which resulted in her being reprimanded by Nash, her affection for him had diminished significantly.

Hera and Melody talked for a long time in the office until it was almost time to leave. Melody went to the restroom while Hera returned to her desk to send emails.

As soon as she sat down, she furrowed her brows together and forcefully slapped her chest.

“Mr. Calcraft, you possess the aura of an emperor. The Kleins and Jacksons can’t stop your rise!” Lana replied while her gaze fixed on him.

“Oh?” Nash’s eyes narrowed to slits.

The so-called aura of an emperor that Lana mentioned referred to a kind of fate or destiny. It was intangible and elusive. Even with a Third Eye cultivated to its fullest extent, it would remain unseen. Lana was clearly an ordinary person, so why could she see the aura of an emperor?

Sensing Nash’s confusion, Lana explained, “When I was five years old, I gained some strange memories- including the ability to read auras.”

Nash’s mind was in turmoil.

Aura reading was a divine technique. As for her gaining some unfamiliar memories at the age of five... Was Lana perhaps the reincarnation of some powerful being?

His master had mentioned reincarnated individuals before. They were practitioners who had mastered the art of reincarnation, perhaps in pursuit of the ultimate Path or to make amends for regrets from their past lives. In any case, such people were extremely dangerous.

Lana bit her lip and whispered barely audibly, "M-Master... I hope you can keep your word!"

"Have you heard of a soul contract?"

Lana shook her head in confusion. Although she enjoyed studying ancient texts, she had never heard of a soul contract.

Nash smirked. "A soul contract is a spiritual covenant. I can scatter your soul with a mere thought, so you must wholeheartedly obey me!"

Lana's pupils contracted slightly, but she quickly concealed her surprise. In fact, she even looked a little eager. "What do I need to do?"

"Close your eyes and relax your body. Do not resist in any way."

Following Nash's instructions, Lana closed her eyes and relaxed every muscle in her body.
