

CEO Bride 123

Chapter 123

Nash had seen Lori once when he was registering his personal information in the HR department.

"I didn't expect you to personally come here for such a trivial matter, Ms. Lynch..." Nash smiled and stood up to greet her.

After all, he could not just sit back when a department manager was personally delivering his work ID, right?

"Ack...!"

As Lori approached Nash, her high heels wavered and she stumbled toward Nash with a surprised cry.

He quickly grabbed her arm with his strong hand and asked in a deep voice, "Are you okay?"

Lori was a head shorter than him, and her blouse was about to pop open...

No... it had already burst open.

A button on her white shirt had popped out.

Her milky, tender skin quivered slightly.

Lori furrowed her brows, giving Nash a pitiful look as she bit her red lip and said, "Mr. Calcraft... I... seem to have twisted my ankle..."

and pointed to the first aid kit hanging on the wall. "There's some medicine for that in the first aid

Lori had fallen toward him, the muscles in

if he had not caught her, she could have steadied

she had intentionally fallen toward test him, or she had an all, there were not many young and handsome men in the Baroque branch man resentfully and said,

Lori's hand and then turned to walk toward his office chair.

left standing

been confident about her appearance.

she could get her hands on this new

as clueless

into the

Hera was surprised, "Ms. Lynch... what are

"I came to
to Nash with a smile. "Why didn't were in a meeting. I didn't want to disturb today. Why did you

"I had nothing to do, so I thought I'd help you out," Nash said with a light smile.

Meanwhile, Lori looked at them in surprise.

Her toes in her high heels were awkwardly curled.

No wonder Nash got the job of security manager without any work experience. He was Ms. Lewis' boyfriend.

'Oh my god! I was trying to seduce the CEO's man?'

Lori blushed and stammered, "Mr. Calcraft, Ms. Lewis, I... I should get going!"

Hera nodded. "Go ahead. By the way, I've approved the recruitment plan you submitted yesterday. The HR department needs to implement it as soon as possible!"

"Yes, Ms. Lewis!"

Lori answered, then practically ran out of the office.

It was then that Hera turned back to Nash. She squinted her eyes and asked, "Did Ms. Lynch come over just to deliver your work ID?"

"Why else?"

"You need to be wary of this woman. She's only been in the company for three years, but she's already been in three relationships!" Hera wrinkled her nose, looking a bit worried. Lori had a curvaceous figure and a lot of experience. She was worried Nash could not resist her.

"What about you? How many relationships have you been in?" Nash asked, crossing his legs.