

CEO Bride 127

Chapter 127

She had to persuade her grandfather to abandon the idea of marrying her off to the Hills.

Herman looked puzzled and asked, "What do you mean?"

Without considering her parents' worry for her, Hera immediately recounted how she and Skadi were kidnapped by Crow.

Upon hearing this, Herman expressed disbelief. "Are you saying they wanted to kill Skadi? That... That seems improbable, right?"

Hera asserted confidently, "It's absolutely true. Hunter himself admitted it. If Nash hadn't arrived in time to save us, consequences would have been unimaginable!"

"Grandpa..."

Helena initially wanted to interject.

However, she remembered that Crow from Causeway Bay had indeed died.

Nash had saved Hera and Skadi.

Therefore, Nash must have been the one who killed Crow.

Helena looked at Nash, who was looking back at her calmly.

"What is it?"

and turned his head to ask.

her

Nash killed Crow.

had offended Howard of the Green

Lanes surely would not let Nash smile

the Hills aren't suitable, then reject

the

the Hills. If this matter becomes a hindrance to Drake Group's happy smile appeared on the faces dinner ended, everyone went guest

could only chat via their phones.

study in Hills Estate, the old man slammed his hand on the desk outrageous! I was only away from Jonford for one day and such a thing had happened... Do the Lees think nothing of us?"

was away on a business trip yesterday and did not return that Hunter had been sighed. "The Lees have the Skyes and the warden backing them. I'm afraid even the Watsons can't do anything them."

hospital yesterday,

Upon learning that it was the Lees who attacked, he did not dare to lose his temper one bit.

Haspard said coldly, "This is all caused by Hera Lewis. I get that we don't dare to offend the Lees, but can't we do something about the Lewises?"

Geoffrey bitterly laughed and said, "Helena Lewis' boyfriend is Kai Watson, and Baroque, Hera's family's company, just signed a huge 300 million dollar project with Drake Group!"

Hearing this, Haspard slammed his fist onto the desk.

In this case, they truly did not have the guts to lay a finger on the Lewises.

Geoffrey sighed. "We should ask Hunt to give up on Hera, or it'll eventually backfire!"

Although he also wanted to avenge his son, the Lewises' backing was too strong, and he was powerless.

Haspard closed his eyes and thought for a while. He then slowly opened his mouth. "I heard from Hunt that Hera has a boyfriend now. Who is that man?"

Geoffrey thought for a while and said, "I heard that he seems to be from the mountains..."

Haspard sneered. "I refuse to believe that my grandson can't compete with a hillbilly!"

The Hills, after all, had a net worth of 1.5 billion.

Hunter was born with a golden spoon in his mouth. How could he be inferior to a wild boy from the mountains?

Geoffrey discerned his father's intention from his words and anxiously said, "Dad, don't be stubborn anymore. There are many good women in the world. We can easily arrange a marriage for Hunt!"