Chapter 130

"The Dragon Might Boxing Center is an enterprise invested by Jonford's wealthiest man, Walter Watson!

"The boxing center held two competitions annually, which are the men's boxing Tiger Crown Championship and the women's boxing Phoenix Crown Championship!

"The Tiger and Phoenix Crowns are crafted from five kilograms of pure gold and embedded with nine diamonds. They're valued at around 700 grand. Additionally, there's a cash prize of 500 grand. That's how each competition attracts boxers from all over the country to participate!"

Skadi was informing Nash and Hera about the Dragon Might Boxing Center.

In her eyes, there was a mixture of envy and excitement.

Hera held onto Skadi's arm and asked gently, "Didn't you train in boxing for a while? Why didn't you sign up?"

With a slight smile, Nash said, "If a martial arts champion like you were to participate in this Phoenix Crown Championship, the Phoenix Crown would undoubtedly belong to you, right?"

Skadi detected the teasing in Nash's words. After frowning and glaring at Nash, she explained, "Boxing and martial arts are completely different. As a Drakonio and with my grandfather being in the Martial Arts Association, I have to promote Drakonio's martial arts!"

She had indeed trained in boxing for a while, but after eight months, she was just barely considered an amateur boxer.

She could not even last a round when sparring with her best friend.

Worried that Skadi would stray off the path, Zakariah strictly forbade her from continuing with her boxing aspirations.

The three arrived at the elevator.

She had met Bianca a few times at the parties Skadi had thrown.

Bianca was a rising star in Jonford's women's boxing scene with a large number of fans. Hera barely even had a chance to say hello.

She did not expect that Bianca would remember her.

Skadi laughed and said, "You're my best friend, and Bianca is also my best friend. Of course, she remembers you!"

After speaking, she immediately introduced Nash to Bianca, "Bianca, this is Hera's fiance, Nash Calcraft... He..."

"Are you people going down or not...".

It seemed that someone outside was getting impatient and asked with a frown.

The two dark-skinned bodyguards in the elevator looked at the person.

The man's legs went weak under their gazes, and he kept swallowing his saliva.

Skadi laughed and said, "Let's go down first and talk later!"

The three entered the elevator and arrived at the basement level nine.

Outside, a group of female fans immediately raised their phones to take photos of Bianca.

Even media and TV reporters came forward for interviews.
