

CEO Bride 1305

Chapter 1305

Enzo quickly identified the Clarkes of Cazadine. They were a prestigious family with a century-long history and assets worth billions. Then, he listed the names of the core members of the Clarke family.

While Enzo was impressed, he maintained a calm expression and simply smiled faintly as he said, "Please come in. The banquet hall is on the eighth floor."

"Thank you," Lars replied politely and instructed his bodyguards to wait outside before taking Lulu to the eighth floor.

"This hotel doesn't even have someone to guide us," Lulu complained with discontent.

As the elevator doors were about to close, four more people entered- two women and two men.

The two women wore matching outfits. One was a charming woman in her late 20s while the other was younger, probably 15 or 16. She was dressed in a youthful-looking school uniform with twin ponytails.

The two men, one middle-aged while the other young, appeared to be a father-and-son pair.

is asking me to seduce a man in his 20s. Isn't that too much?" The young and cute girl pouted with reasons for doing so. If you don't do as he says, with an older man!" the girl with twin ponytails said stubbornly. "We're

of Brume?"

"The very same family that's been around for 400 lifted her chin proudly. "You're well-informed. Are faintly. "I'm from Cazadine. I'm part of the Clarke family."

twin ponytails shook her head. "I've never heard of them."

"The Clarkes are a first-class aristocratic family

over 400

her chest lightly, and a terrifying thought crossed her mind. Everyone attending tonight's banquet might be from top-tier aristocratic families. No wonder her grandfather had a conscience and believed that a marriage of alliance would not fall on her. Now, it seemed that her grandfather was biased

the head of their family. They