

CEO Bride 147

Chapter 147

Six bodyguards were standing side-by-side at the door, blocking the media reporters from entering the elevator.

Queenie wrinkled her nose in displeasure. "You're gonna ignore me? Fine, then. You think you're so great?"

In the ring, the host watched as Kai entered the elevator and was worried about what to do when he saw Queenie. He immediately explained, "It looks like Mr. Kai has something urgent to attend to, so this time, the prize will be presented by Miss Queenie, the lady of the wealthiest family in Jonford."

The spotlight instantly landed on Queenie.

"Shit, what's going on?"

Queenie was a little dazed.

The boxing center staff stepped forward to explain the situation to Queenie. Only then did she understand the ins and outs of the situation. She smiled and said, "Isn't it just some award? What's so difficult about that?!"

She then stepped into the ring while accompanied by a few bodyguards and staff.

When Queenie realized that the winner of the Phoenix Crown was not Black Widow, surprise flashed across her face.

The host smiled and said, "Now, let us give the warmest applause and invite Miss Queenie to present the Phoenix Crown to the winner of the women's boxing championship, Bianca!"

The bastard made her run for so long last night and caused her to lose pounds when she was already thin.

She walked up to Nash angrily and cursed, "You bastard. Who allowed you into my boxing center?"

Nash glanced at Queenie and replied calmly, "I bought a ticket. Why can't I come in?"

Queenie frowned. "This is the Watsons' territory. You're not welcome here!"

When Hera and Skadi saw this, they immediately came over. However, before they could even say anything, Nash laughed and said, "I'll just leave, then."

He just earned nine billion from the Watsons so he did not bother trying to reason with this unruly princess.

The three of them left without looking back.

Only then did Queenie fold her arms across her chest with satisfaction. She then walked up to Bianca and said, "Bianca, you're now the holder of the Phoenix Crown. Both your popularity and value will improve significantly. We'll invest a large amount to buy out a year's worth of advertising representation for you. We'll also arrange the best boxing coach for you so that you can win the Golden Belt within three years."

Kai had said all of this to Black Widow before.

The Watsons did indeed possess power and capital.

However, Bianca unexpectedly gave Queenie no consideration as she calmly responded, "Thank you for your kind offer, Miss Queenie, but my coach is Nash."
