

CEO Bride 150

Chapter 150

It was hard for her to imagine that Nash had already been wandering about abroad when he was only 17 or 18 years old.

Nash smiled and said, "It's just a movie. Some parts are exaggerated, so don't take it seriously. Besides, haven't you seen my body before? Did you see any gunshot wounds on it?"

Hera pouted and replied, "With how good your medical skills are, of course not."

Nash squeezed Hera's small, soft hand. "It happened a long time ago, don't worry about it!"

Hera rolled her eyes while she pondered. She decided to check whether there were any scars on Nash when he was asleep tonight.

The film lasted 120 minutes. It was mainly about the difficult life the King of Fighters, Mike, led.

After the movie ended, Nash was filled with emotions. He was with Mike for more than a year, but the man never mentioned his past. He never thought that this guy had such a miserable childhood.

After that, Nash went shopping with Hera. The two walked side-by-side and hand-in-hand like a young couple in love.

Time always felt short when one was having a good time. As the sun set, the lights came on.

Nash and Hera walked around the Chateau Hotel.

look for Skadi.”

The Fisher family was originally an ordinary family. Carmen’s grandfather started his business by selling tea. Later, his business grew, and he monopolized the tea market in many regions, earning nearly ten billion.

During her college days, Carmen became the president of the Tea Art Club based on her insights into tea ceremony culture.

Skadi liked to socialize and met many people. She met Carmen through Skadi and they had dinner together several times later.

After graduating from university, Hera lost contact with Carmen as well as her classmates.

Since they were all friends from college, it would be nice to go and meet them.

There were security guards at the entrance of the private area, and there was a sign next to it stating that no vehicles were allowed to pass. Those who wanted to enter Chateau Hotel today could only park their cars outside.

Nash and Hera stepped onto the trail. The delicate roses on both sides exude a faint fragrance.

There were many women already crouching among the flowers and taking photos..

Hera looked at the roses on both sides of the trail with a faint smile on her face.

Nash held Hera’s hand, the corners of his lips curling up slightly. “Do they look good?”

“Yes!”
