

CEO Bride 169

Chapter 169

Upon opening the bag, her eyes widened in disbelief.

The black plastic bag was full of contraceptive products meant for couples.

Moreover, they were purchased on her behalf by the company's director.

This was a great embarrassment!

A severe one at that!

"Mr-Mr. Wilson..."

"Don't worry, Ms. Lewis. I won't tell anyone. I have to go now!"

With a knowing smile, Hans quickly left.

At that moment, Nash came out of the bathroom while drying his hair. "Who were you talking to just now?"

Upon hearing Nash's voice, Hera quickly hid her hands behind her back. "The... The delivery guy!"

Seeing Hera's flushed face, Nash laughed and said, "You ordered food delivery this late? Aren't you full from our meal at the hotel?"

"It was Skadi who ordered the delivery!"

Hera gritted her teeth, wishing she could strip Skadi and toss her out onto the streets.

Nash raised an eyebrow. "Your best friend really takes good care of you!"

around, and he waited for her to your

Nash asked curiously.

responded while shaking her chuckled and headed for the a deep breath and should she

Nash saw those items?

had some evil

turned around swiftly and grabbed the black

y-y-you... give it back reached out to

bag tore in half, spilling

as her face became unbearably

too, stood frozen

His face was slightly red as he asked, "Hera, were you... thinking...

I wasn't thinking of anything..."

her head vehemently.

again, "Then why did you buy these things?"

explained, "I didn't buy them, Skadi helplessly. "That Skadi, she's they were both sitting on the bed, each looking at both distracted and lost in their own for 40 minutes without uttering a

Accidentally or intentionally, Hera's soft toes touched Nash's foot, and she quickly retracted.

Nash yawned and said, "Are you tired? Should we go to bed?"

Hera nodded. "Mm-hmm."

Nash put down his phone and turned off the lights.

Meanwhile, Hera carefully lay down on the pillow, turning her back toward Nash.

About half an hour passed. Hera turned over, propping her head up to look at the sleeping Nash.

Seeing his thin lips reminded her of their previous kiss.

It seemed like Nash had not kissed before either...

Could it also be his first kiss?

Hera pursed her lips, the corners of her mouth carrying a hint of a smile.

It was a shame that she was interrupted by Skadi before she could fully experience it.

Maybe... she should try again?

Thinking about it, Hera whispered, "Nash... are you asleep?"

Nash did not respond.

After a few more minutes, seeing Nash's breathing become more even, she mustered up the courage to move her face closer.

