

CEO Bride 170

Chapter 170

The faces of the two were getting closer and closer, and Hera could already feel Nash's warmth as well as faint breathing.

As she slowly closed her eyes, her curved eyelashes trembled slightly. Just as she was about to kiss his thin lips, a powerful hand suddenly wrapped around her waist.

Hera's muscles stiffened instantly, and she opened her eyes. Seeing Nash's mischievous smile, she instantly came back to her senses. Her hands were supporting the bed, and she was about to flee, but his other hand held her head.

Was he... Was he not asleep yet?

Hera held her breath, her face as red as a ripe apple.

Nash smiled faintly. His voice was slightly magnetic when he said, "Were you trying to steal a kiss from me?"

Hera quickly shook her head, flustered. "I... I wasn't... Um..."

Before she could finish, Nash exerted a little force with his right hand and directly pressed Hera's head down.

Her mind went blank. She closed her eyes tightly, and every nerve in her body grew tense.

Nash was a young man in his prime, and after having had some red wine that day, he was greatly stimulated by Hera's scent which smelled like orchids.

Hera quickly succumbed. Her hands that were supporting the mattress no longer had strength, and she simply leaned against Nash.

Feeling his burning temperature and surging male hormones, the last bit of strength in Hera's body seemed to be drained.

a moment of tenderness, Nash laid Hera on the bed, about to take further

the hem of her nightgown tightly, and her toes

this moment, Hera's phone on the bedside table

rang at the same

said, "Let's... Let's first answer the phone..."

her, Nash continued to nibble at her tender neck.

looked at her phone and saw it was Helena.

The last time they talked was when they were both at Hera's phone from the corner of his eye. Seeing that the caller ID was Helena, he said unhappily, "She could've called earlier or later, but she had to call at this this, he sat up and grabbed his phone.

call was from Harrison.

slightly, feeling a bad

their phones at the

the same

happened at the

don't get anxious.

and the rest have not been home for long, and seven villas in the Lewis family's anxious and spoke heard this and quickly turned on the lights in one answered. Now Lauren and I are

be a hurry, his face dark.

The Lewis family's estate had nearly a hundred bodyguards, but trouble still occurred.

The attack this time was clearly not just targeting Cain but the entire Lewises.

Could it be that the Kleins had found something?

Hera also got the same information from Helena.

She sat in a daze at the head of the bed, and her mind went blank.

After Nash got dressed, he took a set of clothes for Hera from the closet. "Hurry and get dressed. We're going back to the Lewis household!"

In the Lewis family's estate, seven luxury villas were already in ruins, with the tallest villa still burning with huge flames.

Fire engines and ambulances had already arrived at the scene.

Jupiter and Angelica were leading dozens of rescue workers on site.

"Where's Dad? Have you found the old man?"

A dark-faced Harrison asked a few relatives of the Lewises.

They merely shook their heads silently.

Harrison took off his coat, went to a fire hydrant on the side to wet it, put it over his head, and rushed toward the villa.

The fire was so intense that the firefighters who tried to go in to rescue the victims inside were forced to retreat several times. Moreover, the load-bearing walls of the villa had been destroyed. The entire structure could collapse at any time.