

CEO Bride 193

Chapter 193

He frowned when he realized there was no signal on his phone.

He looked up at the table in front of him just as Jupiter was also looking at him.

The two of them locked eyes briefly, and both knew then that the other was no ordinary person.

Jupiter lowered his head and played his cards so as not to reveal himself. "A pair of eights!"

At the same time, he developed a hypothesis of who the other person was.

His speech carried a slight accent. He was muscular and wore men's shoes that had hidden blades. The shoes had an opening the thickness of a coin where the knives came out from.

He was from the Sky Blade Group.

Jupiter took a deep breath and then urged impatiently, "Could you guys make it quick? I really need the toilet!"

The men understood what he meant and quickly played their cards while Jupiter clutched his stomach and went outside.

The signal jammer's coverage area was rather large, so Jupiter had to go farther away to make calls.

passing by the restaurant

the man yelled

"Bastard, you're the blind highly irritable. He threw away his bicycle and went up to grab the woman take it, however, as her nails left a few face.

man took out a switchblade from his waist and stabbed it as people were

"Stop."

anymore. They immediately stood up and turned his head to look at Kale. "Where's to the kitchen. "Turn left at them that someone from Sky Blade Group was also looking for Wesley. After sending the message, this took no more than six minutes.

he saw two of his colleagues holding down a middle-aged man. There was also a woman covered in kid's got quite the road rage. He

"This is bad..."

rushed into the restaurant immediately only to see Old Walker walking out muscular man had

"Where's the guy who ordered the bolognese just now?"

"He went to the toilet," Kale responded casually.

Jupiter immediately rushed to the toilet in the backyard. He checked the stall, and sure enough, the muscular man was nowhere to be seen.

He returned to the restaurant and asked Old Walker, "Did he ask you anything?"

Old Walker replied with trembling lips, "He... He asked me where Wesley was..."

He frowned at that. "Did you tell him?"

Old Walker nodded nervously.

Jupiter noted a faint red mark on Old Walker's neck. It was obviously left by a dagger, so he said nothing else.

It was normal for one to reveal information in order to preserve one's life.

"They're really amazing. They were able to work together so seamlessly without even contacting each other!"

Jupiter took a deep breath. He had gained a better understanding of the strength of Sky Blade Group and knew that his own people from the Inspection Department would likely have no chance of winning against them.

As if having thought of something, Jupiter hurried out to look for the man with road rage who his colleagues had subdued.

The moment he went out, however, he saw his two colleagues on the ground, knocked out. The bloody woman was shaking.