

CEO Bride 206

Chapter 206

It had been over twenty years since her grandmother went insane.

She would call out to this “Ruby” every time her condition acted up.

Felicity had tried asking her parents and other family members. However, they either refused to answer or brush her away.

Mr. Snyder Sr. spoke to her solemnly, which was a rare occasion. “Don’t ask questions about things you shouldn’t be asking about. I will tell you when the time is right!”

At Royal Bay, Jonford.

Nash informed Hera and her parents that the culprit was now dead.

The three hugged and cried tears of joy.

Maria dabbed at the tears that had welled in her eyes.

Harrison clapped a hand to Nash’s back. “Nashy... you traveled thousands of miles just to catch the murderer, so I’m sure Mr. Lewis will rest easy now!”

Nash smiled. “Don’t mention it!”

Lauren glanced at Harrison. “Didn’t you say Mr. Lewis had left that box behind for Nash?”

“Oh, right...”

Harrison picked up a box from the couch and handed it to Nash. “He had been protecting this box with his life. We spent ages trying to figure out how to open it, but we still haven’t figured it out!”

not have a lid or a lock. It looked like a you could immediately tell it held something inside it because of the rattling sounds it made when you shook it.

a burr puzzle made using interlocked pieces of machinery!”

on the top of the box, ejecting pieces of looking like he was playing a game

“Are these magnets?”

chin on her hands and gazed chemical compound instead. Chemical reactions that occur at the cracks allow the pieces to fuse as one, but the bonds holding them

he continued pushing the Hera nodded.

adjusting the metal

sure you can do it?"

smiled. "Do you want to

was stunned.

"Nothing!"

continued adjusting the metal pieces.

and Lauren

quickly averted their gazes after

Crack!

box let out a

four sides of the box fell downwards forth to

and Lauren also leaned

of yellowing

An incomplete map, and a gold ring in the shape of a dragon.

Nash carefully unfurled the papyrus, which was covered in difficult-to-decipher hieroglyphs.

It was also difficult to tell what was drawn on the incomplete map, and none of them could recognize the landmarks that had been labeled.

"Nash, did your master leave these items behind for you?"

Hera had a curious look as she turned to Nash and asked him in a gentle voice.

Nash shook his head. "I don't know either..."

"Then... What did my grandfather say when he asked to speak to you at the hospital?"

"He told me to take good care of you!"

Nash made up a random excuse.

He could not let anyone know of his true identity, even if they were people he knew and trusted.

Herman Lewis' entire family had nearly gotten killed simply because he had gone to the Young Family Village.

If the Klein family learned he was from the Young Family Village, there was no doubt they would kill him.

His friends and family would not be spared either if that happened.

“Grandpa...”

Tears welled in Hera’s eyes.

Lauren’

gaze turned absent-minded as she gazed at the gold ring.