

CEO Bride 209

Chapter 209

Hubert glanced carelessly at Harrison and the rest of his family.

Meanwhile, Rooney did not even look at them.

Harrison had become much more brazen than he had once been, and he strode over to sit on the armchair directly opposite Hubert's.

Lauren, Hera, and Nash sat on the nearby couch.

It immediately showcased Harrison and Hubert's positions in their families.

Hubert did not bother beating around the bush. "I wanted to meet you today to talk about the shares father held in Baroque and Rococo... Adam is here today, so let's get everything settled today!"

Harrison said calmly, "Tell me, how do you think things should be distributed..."

Hubert turned to Adam. "Mr. Zoel, why don't you walk them through things..."

"Mr. Lewis held forty percent of Baroque Group's and Rococo Group's shares respectively. He has seventy-five million dollars in his accounts and permanent right to access the land Lewis estate sits on..."

"All I want are the Baroque Group shares. You can have everything else!" Harrison interrupted. The possibility of that happening was low, but he still wanted to give it a try.

"We're brothers, so we should distribute everything evenly. We'll each take twenty percent of the shares to Baroque Group and Rococo Group respectively and divide the seventy-five million dollars equally. As for the land, we'll sell it and split the money equally!"

lips curved upward desperately wanted the

if you took all the shares to Rococo while I took all of Baroque's shares? Why do you need to reap what you trying to get my rightful inheritance while complying with inheritance laws..." Hubert said as he took a sip of his half-filled the shares from didn't say I would sell them!" Hubert said as he swirled his wine around his glass, a mocking look owner of the photolithography machine, right?" Nash turned Nash was fighting for their rights to Baroque Group's shares, but she in my accounts. That should be enough to establish another chip smiled as what Nash was implying and smiled. "It would be more than enough to establish not idiots. They immediately understood what Nash was trying to the 7nm photolithography machine in hand, to start his own business. Baroque Group would return to project would bring them about four hundred million dollars of profit. Hubert would get a share of around eight hundred thousand, and then his shares in the Baroque Group would become worthless.

the highest I'll go. If you refuse, we'll just establish a new company!" Rooney smiled cruelly. "I don't think you have it in you to shut down a company you've been running for the past twenty years, let alone one that was left the other and glanced do you think?" Hubert gave

"What about the rest?"

Helena stared at Nash as she asked her question.

She did not dare doubt anything Nash had said, nor did she dare doubt his capabilities. Even if he did not have six billion dollars in his accounts, his platinum membership card at the Chateau Hotel was worth at least 50 billion dollars.

"We want the rights to access the land the Lewis estate sits on, and the forty percent shares to Baroque Group. You can have everything else, and I'll also pay you two hundred million dollars as payment for the shares to Baroque Group!"

"Alright... it's a deal!" Helena said calmly.

Mr. Zoel drafted another contract and brought it over for them to sign after it was printed. Nash transferred two hundred million dollars into Hubert's account right then and there.

The two companies, Baroque Electronic Technology and Rococo Coating Factory, no longer had anything to do with each other.

Adam also resigned from his position at Rococo and joined the Baroque Group.

Once they left, Hubert said disappointedly, "Looks like no one has any power over them now

))

Helena's lips curved upward. "That might not be true. Six out of the ten Juggernauts have just arrived... If I'm not mistaken, they'll be taking action very soon..."