

CEO Bride 260

Chapter 260

"I came here to visit my relatives, but this place is so big that I got lost. Could you tell me where Villa No. 9 is?"

The man in the suit took off his sunglasses, revealing sharp, hawk-like eyes.

Hera found herself breathless under his icy gaze.

Outside of department officials, outsiders needed homeowner authorization to enter Royal Bay.

If this man was visiting relatives, he would have surely notified them in advance for authorization.

Furthermore, Villa No. 9 was located in the most conspicuous row within Royal Bay. There were clear signs pointing to Villas 1 to 9 right at the entrance; it was impossible for him not to know where Villa No. 9 was.

Therefore, she concluded that this man did not enter through the main gate.

"Hera... Why did you come to the park?"

Following Hera's gaze, Nash tried to find what caught her attention, but he saw nothing around.

The sudden voice startled Hera. Turning around, she saw Nash and patted her chest while exclaiming, "How do you walk without making any noise? You scared me..."

"You were just too engrossed in your thoughts just now and didn't hear me!" Nash explained with a smile.

"Have Yvonne and Uncle James arrived?" Hera inquired.

"They've arrived. They're resting at home now."

two headed toward recounted her earlier encounter with the lost man in the suit to Nash and is definitely suspicious! Do you think he could be heart, causing her the Lewis family estate was bombed. Afterward, Skadi and Bianca were even targeted by suspiciously earlier, it was hard for her not to assume the arms and said gently, "You might be a bit sensitive due to recent events.

that man

order to keep Hera from worrying, Nash could only offer gentle and comforting, alleviating some of “Hera...”

Yvonne appeared at embrace and turned around with so

hugged Hera. “Not as beautiful as you, brief embrace, the two cheerfully walked arm-in-arm into the villa’s living room, with Nash following closely

James seated on the sofa, Hera sweetly asked, “You must be Uncle James, usually cold face, “Mmhmm. I never thought now!”

anymore... Some of my college friends are already second child!”

to have reservations

was quite

Did he want Hera to marry into his own lineage?

“What do you do for a living, boy?”

James suddenly inquired.

Yvonne’s curious eyes were also fixed on Nash as she wondered about the man who had won over her beautiful cousin.

He must be extremely excellent, no?

Hera looked at Nash hesitantly, unsure how to answer Uncle James’ question.

On paper, Nash worked as a security manager at her company.

In reality, Nash rarely visited the office and did not have a formal job.

“I’m the security manager for Baroque’s branch company,” Nash replied without hesitation.

“He’s just nominally working in my company. In reality, he’s a miracle doctor with extraordinary medical skills!” Hera added.

In the eyes of ordinary people, being a security manager would be considered a senior position.

However, in the eyes of large families, it simply was not impressive.

“Security manager? At Baroque, to boot?!”

Disdain appeared in James' eyes.