

CEO Bride 263

Chapter 263

Hera shyly said, "Hello, Uncle Liam!"

Liam had always been in Jonford, but she had never met him before.

If this got out, people would probably laugh their heads off.

However, she greatly admired her mother's character for choosing love over familial ties.

In business families, marriages were often seen as crucial alliances, ideally between equally powerful families.

On one hand, it was about forming a stronger business empire.

On the other, it was about ensuring the combination of exceptional genes to produce even more outstanding descendants.

They believed this was an essential factor in maintaining the longevity of the family's power and wealth.

"As expected of Lauren's daughter. Words like 'your beauty puts aphrodite to shame' can't even begin to describe you!"

Liam said, feeling guilty deep down but not showing it on his face.

"Uncle Liam, you're so good at compliments! Why don't you ever compliment me?"

and approached, seemingly wanting to compete also beautiful!

like it!"

Yvonne instantly beamed.

hand and saying, "Mr. Calcraft, hello! I've heard so much about some knowledge of recent events happening in the the CEO personally returned from abroad to sign a three billion agreement with the Lewises' eldest, Helena, was not qualified to have their CEO return to the country in person. The only plausible reason for all this and said with a smile, "Uncle Liam, there's no need partner, was a sign of

Look at how polite

seemed to still harbor some resentment over James' previous worse temper

having graduated from a prestigious university and having studied abroad, obviously had manners and grace that James, a martial when they opposed Lauren's marriage to Harrison, Liam had provided had also not seen Lauren for more than 20 years, which clearly showed he refused to let go

being so polite

and said, "Let's chat

the

the lobby manager came out to greet them.

Upon seeing Nash, Olivia immediately greeted with a smile, "Na..." However, she stopped mid-word when Nash shot her a warning look.

Seeing Lauren and Harrison accompanied by two middle-aged individuals and noting the resemblance between one of them and Lauren, she realized...

Was that not their company's business director, Liam Mare?

Liam Mare?

Lauren Mare?

Could they be brother and sister?

It turned out that today's event was for Lauren to host her relatives.

Nash wanted her to prioritize Lauren and her guests.

Collecting herself, Olivia gestured to Harrison, "Mr. Lewis, your private room is ready, and dishes can be served at any time..."

Harrison glanced gratefully at Nash.

Liam was a high-ranking executive of Drake Group, and Olivia was its CEO. The respectful treatment he received from Olivia indirectly elevated his status in Liam's eyes, all thanks to Nash being there.

Harrison replied with a slight smile, "Thank you, Ms. Olivia."