My Substitute CEO Bride by Fruit dumpling Chapter 28

Chapter 28

Hubert called Mr. Zoel excitedly.

However, Mr. Zoel was puzzled. "Mr. Lewis, are you sure this is what the chairman said?"

Hubert solemnly replied, "Of course. Why would I lie to you?"

"Mr. Lewis, please pass the phone to the chairman. I have no right to change the ownership of the real estate without the chairman's authorization."

Hubert covered the microphone and looked at the old man. "Father, Mr. Zoel refuses!"

Herman snorted coldly. He took the phone and said sharply, "Mr. Zoel, do what Hubert wants!"

Zoel was shocked and quickly responded, "Yes, Mr. Lewis. I'll deal with it now!"

Herman returned the phone to Hubert and slowly turned his head to look out the window at the rapidly retreating scene.

Some doubts had started forming in his heart. Zoel had always obeyed his words. Why did he hesitate today?

At Rococo Co. Ltd., Adam Zoel sat on his office chair mulling over some doubts.

The chairman had clearly decided to give the villa in Royal Bay to Hera, so why did he suddenly change his mind today?

The chairman was full of energy when he spoke just now and did not sound like he was seriously ill at all.

After a moment of silence, he took out his mobile phone and called his mother.

His mother was another nanny of the Lewises, Maria.

“Mom, how’s the chairman’s condition?”

“He’s full of energy today. It’s as if nothing happened, but he seems to have lost his memory...”

“No wonder...” Adam nodded suddenly.

“No wonder what?”

“It’s nothing. I’ll go back to work first!”

Adam hung up the phone and then went to wait outside the chairman’s office.

Hubert’s family was harboring evil intentions. They must have distorted the truth to the chairman.

He decided that he would explain to the chairman that he had already changed the ownership.

of the villa.

Half an hour later, Helena arrived at her grandfather’s office.

When she saw Adam at the door, Helena walked over immediately, “Mr. Zoel, come to my office!”

Hubert led the old man around the company.

At the same time, he informed him of Baroque Group’s current situation.

Herman said helplessly, “Harrison is weak by nature.

He’s not destined for greatness. If it weren’t for Lauren, Baroque would have collapsed a long time ago. The fact that they're losing so many customers now only shows that they're not capable enough!

The corner of Hubert's mouth curled into a smile. "I heard that the heir of the Hill family, Hunter Hill, has been pursuing Hera for a long time. If she can marry into the Hills, then Baroque can also be brought back to life!"

The old man did not remember Nash at all.

The threat Nash brought to their family was too great.

Hubert must find a way to drive Nash away now.

He had to get Hera to marry the Hill family. Baroque might rise again, but it would never surpass Rococo.

Rococo was backed by the Watson family, after all.

The Hills were only a third-rate family, while the Watsons were at the top for first-rate families.

Herman put his hands behind his back. He indeed felt himself persuaded a little when he heard what he said.

No matter how useless Harrison was, he was still his son.

It seemed like a good choice for Hera to marry Hunter Hill.

Thinking this, Herman said, "Invite the Hills and present to them a dowry gift. It must not be lesser than seven million!"

Hubert grinned but then revealed his hesitation. "But Hera is living with Nash now..."

After a moment's pause, Herman asked, "Harrison said that I agreed to let Hera marry. Did this actually happen?"

Nash.

Hubert immediately shook his head. "There was absolutely no such thing. Nash is just a farmer. How can he marry someone from our family?"
