

CEO Bride 300

Chapter 300

The immense responsibilities he held meant he needed to set his feuds aside. He had only recently begun figuring out who the culprit was.

The Klein family was extremely powerful.

They had two wardens in their family.

Which made him even more cautious.

He did not fear death but feared that no one would avenge the Young family if he died.

Moreover, the countries that bordered the Northern Territory would stir up trouble if he died.

“So, you established the Heavenly Doors Association so you could fight back against the Klein family?”

The Heavenly Doors Association was a martial arts organization in the Northern Territory. Stellar had never engaged with its members because it was a private organization the warden had established.

All he knew was that its members spent their days practicing and training on a secret island in the Northern Territory and that the warden only visited them once every several years.

In fact, its members had not even shown up when the Northern Territory was under attack.

Philix took a swig of vodka and grimaced as it burned its way down his throat. “My family bought Paradise Island back when the Vikings were still ruling. Today, it remains one of the few islands in the country that are privately owned. The island is a treasure trove of cultivation-related knowledge, but the members still need more time to learn and practice since the Heavenly Doors Association is a relatively new organization!”

“Aren’t you afraid they’d betray you after gaining power?” Stellar asked.

“A member of the Young family was an immortal cultivator, and he created something called a ‘soul contract’. It’s very straightforward, all you need are two pieces of parchment paper – one for the principal, and one for the subsidiaries. Once they drink the water infused with the ashes of the subsidiaries’ parchment paper while I drink the water infused with the other one... I get to control if they live or die!”

Soon, a wizened voice could be heard on the other end of the line.

“Melody... has the Ol’ Devil come looking for you guys?”

“Grandma has passed away. Her body has been sent to Eternal Prosperity Funeral Parlor. I think my grandfather is in trouble as well, so please help me check on him at the Young Gardens!” Melody said chokingly.

“Come to my place. The Ol’ Devil wouldn’t dare do anything to you if you’re with us!”

“The Ol’ Devil has already completed more than half his journey to achieving the Mystique Loyalty Realm, I’ll just bring you guys more trouble if I stay with you. I’ll leave Goldenfalls for the time being!”

Melody hurriedly hung up the phone when she finished speaking. She did not mention anything about Nash’s presence.

After wiping the tears off her face, she looked up the directions to Royal Bay on her phone and sped toward its direction.

Meanwhile...

Philix and Stellar sat in a taxi.

Stellar retrieved his phone and dialed Goldenfalls' warden's number.

Philix grabbed Stellar's phone and shook his head. "Do not let anyone know we've been there!"

Stellar whispered, "Does that mean there's no one left to guard the mausoleum? What will happen to the two old men's corpses?"
