

CEO Bride 341

Chapter 341

Doubts in her eyes, Lauren said, "Nash is not that kind of person. There must be something amiss. Let's wait for him to come back, then we can ask him properly!"

The moment she said that, Nash returned with Melody and Finn. Finn was wrapped like a mummy as he hopped along with Melody's help.

"Dad, Mom, what are you guys doing here?" Nash smiled as he entered the house.

"You're our son-in-law. Is it so weird that we would come pay you a visit?" Lauren said as she eyed Melody. She was indeed quite good-looking and seemed to have a pretty decent temperament.

She also had quite a nice figure, which undoubtedly fit most men's aesthetics. However, she still could not believe that Nash would engage in an affair.

Nash had guessed that his mother-in-law was here to interrogate him and shook the medicine in his hand. Smiling, he said, "I'll go prepare some medicine for Finn first. I'll explain everything later."

Finn's injury was serious, and he needed holistic medical treatment. Otherwise, he would not heal properly even after three to five months.

Melody, on the other hand, was starting to feel a bit nervous. These were Nash's in-laws. They could not possibly think of her as a homewrecker, could they?

Lauren noticed Finn's injury. Despite not knowing the man, she still asked quietly, "Did this happen last night?"

cast around his neck, Finn turned Melody's face as well and was even more surprised. Did Hera not say that this woman had spent the night with Nash were they both had not gotten straight to the point, he could not help but ask, (C Miss, where night together? With that thought in asked, "Which hospital?"

can just ask directly. There's no said nothing else. His wife's touch was required for this vixen. If before asking, "What's what you want to ask. You should ask the brat about the misunderstanding between Nash a 30-year-old adult, yet you dare actually lay your hands. on a child. Is speak up for Melody. Just as he turned his head around, however, a

the

but I do hope you'll watch your words. I disciplined the brat because of her not long ago. She

he rose to his feet. "Are you trying to pick merely answered coldly, "You think I wouldn't dare?"

Nash heard the commotion outside and hurriedly ran out. "Dad, what's going on?"

Still agitated, Harrison roared. "Don't call me that. You need to choose between Hera and this woman today!"

"Harrison, calm down!" Lauren yelled as she pulled the man back.

Nash sighed helplessly. "This is a long story. Let me prepare the medicine first. Then I'll explain everything to you."

The medicine for Finn contained several fresh herbs that needed to be brewed quickly or they would lose their effectiveness. Nash had just entered the kitchen when the commotion started outside.

"Mr. Nash, allow me to explain it for you!" Finn offered.

Nash just walked into the kitchen dejectedly.

"Let me start from when I went to the cemetery where the Young family is buried with Nash to pay respects to our ancestors. That early morning, Nash took me to the cemetery in Goldenfalls..."