

CEO Bride 343

Chapter 343

Everyone present immediately fell quiet as if they had been stunned into silence. The other player was also quiet. It seemed that the person he was talking to was indeed the boss of a company.

Yvonne took on a domineering and arrogant tone as she taunted, "Why aren't you saying anything? Where's all that bravado from earlier? You're not only bad at the game, but you're also a worthless piece of waste in real life. What's the point of your existence?"

Just then, Lauren and Harrison pushed open the office door and strode in.

Yvonne glanced at them through the corner of her eye and felt a shiver run through her. Quickly standing up, she called out politely, "Aunt Lauren, Uncle Harrison..."

Harrison looked at the employees, his expression cold as he asked, "What are you all doing here? Don't you have work to do?"

The employees nervously stood up.

"Miss Winnie is the one who called us over!" one of them explained meekly.

Winnie quickly explained what had happened, including how Yvonne had threatened her earlier.

Yvonne was infuriated, her face flushing with anger.

"You just wait. I'll have my cousin fire you."

go back to work!"

Lauren said, "Miss Winnie, please step laptop from her bag and removed a USB drive from the desktop computer stern expression. "Yvonne, I've already contacted your Uncle James. He'll come to pick shuddered before begging pitifully, "Aunt Lauren, I was wrong. Please don't let Uncle James take me back, how big of a mess you've caused? You nearly caused Hera and Nash to break

It seemed that her uncle and Hera? You'd better explain everything to Hera right now!" Harrison's anger was barely contained hard as she said timidly, "Hera said she wanted to go out for a found out, Hera would soon find voluntarily admit her mistake instead of letting her aunt in a row, and still, no one answered. Hera never ignored her calls, not suicide? The thought sent chills still could not reach her.

eyes twitched as she asked coldly, "Is no one answering morning. But then she didn't say a word when we were on the way

extremely anxious, her voice trembling as tears welled

Lauren's and Harrison's faces turned pale as they immediately started making phone calls to various contacts.

She was not with Skadi, nor was she with Bianca. Olivia had not seen her either.

Nobody had any idea where Hera could have gone despite them making a round of calls.

Yvonne cried out, "Get Nash, quick! He'll be able to find her!"

Lauren felt immense distress. Yvonne had caused the entire thing. How was she going to explain to Nash if something were to happen to Hera?

Nevertheless, she dialed his number. There was nothing more important than her daughter's safety.

"Hello, Mom."

"Nash, Hera is missing!"

"W-What?"