

CEO Bride 346

Chapter 346

Hera took a seat between Justin and Hunter. To her surprise, Hunter did not harass her like he used to. Instead, he just sipped his drink silently, not even glancing in her direction.

Hera could not help but curse to herself silently as she sat down.

She was called away midway to pay the bill while they were in the middle of dining and drinking. It was clear they were treating her like a cash cow. However, she was willing to do anything if it meant that they could close the deal.

Justin tilted his head and chuckled. "Ms. Lewis, I didn't know you were acquainted with my cousin. I wouldn't have negotiated so aggressively otherwise."

Hera was surprised. "Hunter is your cousin?"

"It's not too late to learn about it now. Have a drink with my cousin!"

Although Hera was reluctant, she knew that social drinking was inevitable in business. She poured herself half a glass of wine and said, "Mr. Hunter, I'll toast to you!"

Hunter looked over casually. "If you're gonna make a toast, make sure your glass is full. What's with that meager amount?"

"Yeah, Ms. Lewis. You need to fill it up!"

lose

she thought of Nash. They managed to get the business deal with negotiate an even larger deal than the one with Drake Group. 'I'll definitely make you notice me,' she thought to herself.

herself a full glass of wine. Hunter was satisfied and raised his glass

Hera then toasted the managers of the audit department and then the procurement department. Her face was turning red from the multiple glasses of wine she was ingesting.

later then poured half a glass for both himself and Hera. He said with a smile, "You've

1. Now it's our turn..."

just half a glass? Are you even look of annoyance before moving to top up her glass on her own. This left Justin completely stunned. He had been contemplating how to get Hera to drink and finally decided to

to fill up her and Justin had attended the birthday banquet at the Halls' residence. His cousin had looked Justin's surprise, the woman turned out to be Hera. In efforts to get Hera into his her glass. You can't back down now, can you?" mocked Queenie, the manager of managers frequently collaborated and had made quite a profit together. They often indulged fill it up quickly!" added Sally, the manager of the I shall drink to my death with Ms. Lewis!" He Hera smiled with satisfaction and then emptied her glass in one go.

She felt her stomach churning and said, "I need to use the restroom." She then hurried to the restroom.

Taking a blue pill from his pocket, he plopped it into Hera's glass. He then filled the glass with more wine, causing the pill to dissolve instantly.

"Hunter, you must seize this opportunity. I guarantee you, she'll be enchanted the moment she finishes that glass!" Justin whispered.

"Thank you, my cousin. I won't forget this," Hunter replied.

Hunter was aware that Hera had moved out from Royal Bay and saw this as an opportunity. However, he was still a bit nervous. "Hera is close with Drake Group. I'm worried."

"Drake Group?" Justin laughed heartily. "Drake Group is nothing compared to Universal Group!

Drake Group may have the support of the Skye family of Goldenfalls, but Universal Group has the support of the top ten families in Goldenfalls!" he said arrogantly.