

CEO Bride 446

Chapter 446

"Thank you so much..."

Old Herera gave Anders a grateful look.

Then, he grabbed the rope and began climbing.

He was carrying someone on his back, and the skin on his hands were already rubbed raw from gripping the rope.

When he wrapped his hands around the rope, pain shot through his hands.

"I think you should let them pull you up!"

Bradley took a harness from his backpack and wrapped it around Old Herera's legs.

Then, he fastened the harness to the rope, making sure he knotted the ends together tightly. Melody grabbed the rope and pulled it up.

After Old Herera was transported up, Anders gathered Hayes' remains and made his way over to them.

Given Anders' current age, it was a difficult feat for him to climb up a hundred-foot cliff.

Hence, the others employed the same method they had used just now to pull him up.

Bradley and Derek were pulled upward much easier to get Nash up the cliff. All Melody had to do was hold on to the rope tightly while Nash leaped up and clambered plummeted

tons of weights suddenly placed upon you, and it was too much for the eight metal chains, which casket's lid flew open and landed on the ground. A crack ran down the hand had already been dismembered from the scarlet-colored eyes to stare intently at the entrance.

the cave walls

Corpse King!"

faces immediately

said immediately, "It's going to ran helter-skelter

the

slowly disappearing from the Undead

to be a look of relief in a bang, the dome

turned and ran out.

which

soil was covered in cracks. It looked like it had been

The entire underground castle was collapsing.

Everyone dedicated all their attention to escaping.

Half an hour later, the highest peak of the Seven Pinnacle Peaks sank into the ground.

Nash and the others had left the caves by then.

It was already late at night.

However, they did not dare pause. Instead, they continued fleeing the scene.

They only dared pause for a break after putting 500 feet between themselves and the scene.

Shock coursed through everyone's bodies as they watched the peak slowly sink into the ground.

Almost the entire summit had been used in constructing the tomb of the King of Medicine.

It was difficult to imagine just how much manpower had been required to build the tomb of the King of Medicine in the first place.

Ten minutes later, the main peak vanished from their sight.

Only six of the seven pinnacle peaks remained.

Xeno collapsed to the ground in shock. His hands trembled as he took a cigarette out and lit it.