

CEO Bride 452

Chapter 452

Bradley had whispered to Nash about this matter.

Back then, he simply mentioned that Madam Lunaris might possess Unicorn Blood.

Unicorns were legendary creatures. While outsiders might dismiss such tales, Nash believed them without hesitation.

After all, if immortal cultivators existed, why not legendary beasts?

Otherwise, Madam Lunaris would not have boldly demanded a sky-high price of three billion.

“Was it really unicorn blood?”

Melody’s eyes widened in surprise.

She had thought Heidi was just making up a story to provoke Nash.’

Yet everything Heidi said turned out to be true.

“I’m not 100% sure. But what I can confirm... is that the severed hand will significantly boost Ken’s power!”

Nash also could not confirm if it was unicorn blood, but he felt a terrifying energy within Ken’s right hand’s bones and blood.

“Holy moly, then this is genuinely a unicorn arm!

Of course, Melody had a point.

Winning Ken's loyalty was his primary objective.

The three billion was well-spent, or it could even be considered a steal.

Upon arriving at Jonford Airport, Melody planned to treat Heidi to a luxurious stay at a five- star hotel.

Meanwhile, Nash decided to take a cab back to Royal Bay.

"Hera didn't come to pick you up?"

Melody asked curiously when she saw Nash hailing a cab.

"I didn't exactly tell her..."

"Well, in that case, buy her some flowers and gifts. You haven't seen each other in such a long time. You have to give a little surprise, no?" Melody said with a smile.

"Thanks for the reminder. I'll keep that in mind!"

Nash had not thought of this.

He instructed the taxi driver to head to Jonford's best flower shop.

The driver made a U-turn and said with a smile, "There's a new florist called Warm Flower Garden that just opened today. They're offering a 50% discount on all flowers... Want to go there?"

"Maybe not. How awkward would it be if word got out that I bought discounted flowers for my wife?"

Nash replied with a raised eyebrow and a smile.
