

CEO Bride 459

Chapter 459

The intimacy from earlier had ignited Nash's desires. Every time he wanted to get intimate with Hera, something unexpected would happen. Counting the days, he had been away in Xanthalos for nine days, so Hera's menstrual period should have already passed.

"Alright... let's go..."

Hera pulled Nash and began to walk upstairs.

Nash wore a puzzled expression.

What was going on?

Should she not have hesitated and playfully resisted him?

Why did it seem like she was even more eager than him?

They returned to the bedroom and immediately kissed again.

From the door to the bedside, they finally tumbled onto the bed.

Nash's hands were not idle either. They were freely exploring underneath Hera's clothing.

Hera pressed Nash's hand and exhaled softly. "Maybe I should take a shower first..."

Nash smirked. "Together?"

Hera blushed. "No way... That'd be so embarrassing..."

Hera's phone

twitched at the sound.

was not an

is it

the server room is on fire..."

"What?"

quickly got up from the bed. "We installed fire-resistant cotton

It's most likely took a deep breath. "How's the fire now?"

Wilson replied with a hoarse voice, "The fire is out of control. We have phone dropped to deliberately set the fire.

Who was it?

could it

a somber face, "Let's head there breakneck speed toward the Southern taken a shower. Helena asked with a grin,

Jonford's current news was being broadcast live.

the factory area was ablaze.

Glancing at the TV report, he calmly said, "Do you think I still have the capability

your grandfather's sanctions end?"

sanctions against Kai by Walter were

Not only was he restricted from taking trains or high-speed rails, but even restaurants on the streets would refuse him.

Helena ordered takeout for him daily.

Kai sat on the couch in silence.

Then, Helena bit her lip, saying, "Maybe you should apologize to Nash. If you make amends, perhaps your grandfather will forgive you!"

Last time, Nash had helped save both her and Kai.

Her feelings of animosity toward Kai and Hera had diminished by a whole lot.

Moreover, Walter's sanctions against Kai were due to him offending Nash.

If Kai apologized and Walter lifted the sanctions, her business would get back on its feet.

Narrowing his eyes, Kai stated, "I've said it before. Even if I die, I won't bow down and apologize to him!"

Helena frowned in annoyance. "But we can't keep living like this. You have expensive taste, and I can't afford to support you!"

Had it been before, she would never have dared to be angry with Kai.

Yet now, after facing a month of business challenges and accumulating debt, things were different.

Her father had gone gray overnight, her mother had left, and if things continued this way, she would be ruined.

Kai gritted his teeth and said, "I'll try to contact some old friends tomorrow!"