

CEO Bride 525

Chapter 525

Walter felt as if he had been struck by lightning and staggered backward several steps..

Duncan quickly supported Walter while choking out the words, "Mr.

Watson, please accept our condolences."

Queenie burst into tears, her cries loud and heart-wrenching. Casey took out a handkerchief to wipe the sweat from his forehead as he sighed. "Mr. Kai ruptured his heart and spleen, and he had massive intracranial bleeding. He would be beyond help at any hospital."

Queenie sobbed even louder. "If Nash were here, things would be different. Nash is so skilled in medicine. He definitely could've saved my brother!"

At this, everyone fell into silence. Even Walter had not been able to get Nash to come over, so how could they possibly have the ability to save Kai?

However, at that very moment, a voice rang out casually from a distance. "I'm here."

This voice was like music from the heavens. Walter shuddered and turned his head abruptly toward the source of the voice. Who else could it be but Nash?

Queenie was ecstatic. "Nash is here! There's hope for my cousin!"

Dean and Casey exchanged glances

The two of them exchanged wry smiles. If Nash had arrived a few minutes earlier, perhaps there might have been a chance to save Kai. However, at present, Kai's vital signs have completely disappeared. It was unlikely that even Nash could bring him back.

Duncan pushed the glasses on his nose. There was a trace of anxiety in his eyes, but it disappeared just as quickly. Even with Nash's extraordinary medical skills, he could not resurrect the dead.

Nash walked to the door and locked eyes on Dean. "Is he dead?"

The man replied solemnly, "He has lost all signs of life."

If Nash had not arrived, he could have issued Kai's death certificate.

Now that Nash was here, he dared not confirm Kai's death.

Nash smiled and said calmly, "If he's not dead, continue with the resuscitation. Set up the defibrillator and bring his heart back before giving up."

He almost sounded like he took pleasure in the situation. It seemed he had no intention of intervening.

Duncan chuckled inwardly. Kai had wanted to get rid of Nash previously, so why would Nash possibly save him now?

"We've used the defibrillator for over an hour," Dean replied.

The optimal time for resuscitation was six minutes after the heart stopped. After half an hour, a successful resuscitation would be considered a miracle. There was almost no hope for a successful resuscitation after the heart had stopped for an hour.

Nash shrugged his shoulders and said, "Then there's nothing more I can do.”

With a thud, Walter immediately fell to the ground on his knees as he pleaded through tears, “Dr. Calcraft, please save Kai. I’ve already let down his parents. I can’t let him down too!”

If he had not restricted Kai and if he had arranged for martial artists to protect Kai, he would not be in this situation. In the end, it was all his fault.

Queenie was also kneeling on the ground and clutching Nash’s pants. leg. “Dr. Calcraft,” she called through choked sobs.

“It’s not that I don’t want to save him, but it’s been an hour since his heart stopped. He’s already brain dead. Even if we restart his heart, he’ll be in a vegetative state,” Nash said helplessly.

Duncan wiped away his tears and suggested, “Mr. Calcraft, why don’t you go inside and take a look first? There might still be a chance for

Kai.”

Although he appeared to be grieving, he was secretly gloating inside.

Was Nash not extremely capable? Yet, he had immediately concluded himself to be powerless even without even taking a look.

It was better this way too. Kai knew some of his secrets. If Nash really managed to save him, it might put him in a difficult situation.

Nash rubbed his chin and nodded. “Alright, I’ll go inside and take a look. But don't hold too much hope."
