

CEO Bride 55

Chapter 55

Bone was hard, yet how did this doctor manage to suture it as if it were foam?

The shock quickly wore off since they were also shocked when Nash opened the skull earlier.

Craniotomies conducted in hospitals required professional cutting tools, but this man had easily cut open the old lady's skull with a scalpel. His actions were smooth too.

"Administer the analgesic! Once this bag of blood is transfused, switch to a bag of regular saline."

Nash took off his bloodied gloves and walked up to Walter with a tray full of white bugs. "All the parasitic bugs in the old lady's body have been removed. If all goes well, she'll wake up tonight."

"R-Really?"

Walter was shocked, and his eyes were instantly wet.

Nash nodded. "I can wait for her to wake up before I leave."

Walter had not been wrong at all to spend the hundred million on this medical expense.

Even though Nash was someone who had saved countless lives, it still took him three hours to locate all the bugs given how many there were in her body.

a vast amount of energy during these three bugs... Why were they in my wife's body?"

only heard of these bugs from others and had never seen them with his own two eyes.

Doctor Tanner himself had not heard of them, let alone him. How did his wife himself wondering about this. He was only responsible for treating diseases.

with him.

richest man in Jonford, so he must befell his wife must have been planned by his

have also been done and Brian

arrived at the living room, every one of the Watsons present cast unkind glances at Nash since the method he used to treat the madam was unusual.

their gazes. He just sat hands and said, "You guys can go ahead with your own things. It's enough that I accompany despite what Walter claimed, family's estate, he discovered that hidden among the family members were many experts, wake up, he would not be able to leave.

grandmasters any heed yet, he came here as a doctor to make money. He did not want Kai stared at Nash, his gaze serious. "If something happens to my grandmother, I'll definitely chop you up into pieces," he said coldly.

Queenie also crossed her arms. "You'd better pray that my grandmother wakes up..."

"Okay, back down, you two." Walter glared at the two of them, displeased.

No one was allowed to offend Nash before his wife woke up.

If his wife really woke up, Nash would be off limits.

"Sir, the Lees sent someone to deliver an invitation card."

An old man in a suit came over with an invitation card at this moment.

Walter accepted the invitation and glanced at it. Smiling, he then turned to Kai and said, "Tomorrow is Mr. Lee's 80th birthday. Go and prepare him a generous gift!"

Kai nodded and then left the villa with his people.

Queenie immediately said, "Grandpa, I want to go tomorrow too."

Walter smiled and replied, "You and Kai can go with me."

Queenie smiled sweetly. She was about to leave when Walter added, "Queenie, go make a cup of tea for Dr. Calcraft."