

CEO Bride 552

Chapter 552

At Baroque, Hera bid farewell to the suppliers who had come to reassemble the server room.

With a smile on her face, Lori said, "It's fortunate they had ready-made motors and components. Based on the current progress, we should be able to start in about three days!"

The photolithography machines at Baroque were all ancient, and it had become quite challenging to find motors of the same power on the market.

However, this supplier happened to have a batch of old motors awaiting processing. Their model and power fully supported Baroque's old photolithography machines.

"Yes, even the heavens seem to be helping us!" Hera's charming face beamed with a smile.

Glancing at the time, Lori noticed it was already seven in the evening.

She remarked, "Ms. Lewis, it's time to leave. You've had quite a tiring day; go home and rest!"

Hera gave Lori a meaningful look. "Seeing how you're in such a hurry to leave, could it be because you have a date?"

Lori seemed a bit preoccupied today, and Hera had caught her occasionally giggling while holding her phone. Even a fool could tell she was in love.

Adjusting her hair with a coy smile, Lori replied, "So, even you've noticed. My mom might kick me out of the house if I don't date."

Hera linked arms with Lori and teased in a gossipy manner, "Is it someone (from the company?"

Lori shook her head: "What? It's my college classmate, sort of an ex-Hera noticed Lori seemed a bit uneasy and could not help but ask, "

What's wrong? Don't you like him?"

Lori sighed. "We broke up three years ago. He was honest with me and told me he's had two girlfriends in these three years. He seemed sincere, and sort of agreed.

“In truth, I’m very resistant, but he’s someone I liked before. He’s changed a lot in these three years. He dresses better and is more mature and steady now.

After a moment of silence, Hera advised, “Two girlfriends in three years... These women might not be his only problem. I think you should consider this carefully.”

Just as she said this, Hera’s phone rang.

Lomi smiled. “Thank you, Ms. Lewis. Consider it carefully. I’

WWW.DTS.TXOOXW!”

“Align, brake care!”

Hera smiled faintly, then answered the call from her mother

“Morm?”

“Hera, Helena is threatening to jump off a building. Hurry to the World Trade Tower and check on her!" Lauren spoke urgently.

"Jump... Jump off a building?"

Hera's mind struggled to process what she had just heard. "Why would she do that out of nowhere?"

"She must think Kai is dead. Your dad and I are on our way. You should quickly go and see what's happening!"

"Alright, I'm on my way!"

Hera hung up the phone and dashed toward the parking lot.

Melody had just parked her car outside the factory gate and was about to call Hera when she suddenly saw Hera's car speeding out.

"Why is she in such a rush? Does she have something urgent to do?"

With no chance to make a call, Melody quickly stepped on the gas and followed her.

On the 33rd floor of Jonford's World Trade Tower was a top-tier shopping mall under the Watson family.

There were currently hundreds of people standing outside the building. Patrol officers had set up a cordon, and the fire brigade busy inflating air cushions as onlookers chatted among themselves

“Isn’t that Helena, the CEO of Rococo Technology?”

“I remember her as a very powerful woman. Why would she suddenly want to jump off a building?”

“Why else? It must be because of love. Kai was her boyfriend, and now that he’s gone, she doesn’t want to live anymore!”

Someone who was familiar with the situation revealed the details, which elicited sighs and discussion among the people.

“I suddenly believe in love again!”

“But it’s completely unnecessary!”

“Exactly. I’m sure Mr. Kai wouldn’t want to see her jump!”