

CEO Bride 566

Chapter 566

“U-Uncle...”

The woman trembled as goosebumps erupted across her body.

She nearly collapsed to the ground.

Louis’ eyes widened as he immediately felt himself sobering up.

He clapped his hands against his legs, which were shaking uncontrollably.

Walter was here.

There was no doubt he had heard everything he had just said.

Oh no... Was Walter really going to ignore the fact they were family and kill him?

“You’re my nephew. Do you think you can escape paying your respects to me after I die?”

Walter spoke in a cold voice.

However, he felt an unbearable sadness within him.

Louis was his nephew.

He had bought him luxurious cars and mansions and provided his children access to the best education available.

He also gave him over ten million dollars per year as year-end dividends.

Yet, in the end, he had said such treacherous things.

What a traitorous brat.

“U-Uncle... I-1-...”

The aura that emanated from Walter was truly something else.

Louis could not even form a complete sentence.

Thankfully, his wife soon returned to her senses, and she knelt on the ground while sobbing. “Uncle... Louis is drunk. Please don’t take what he said to heart!”

“Yes, yes... I had too much to drink... I deserve to die...”

Louis slapped himself across the face hard.

“I deserve to die! I deserve to die!”

Louis slapped himself over and over again.

Each slap was delivered with full force.

Soon, his face became swollen.

Walter sneered. “In wine, there is truth, isn’t it?”

He did not bother giving them a chance to explain themselves and turned to Janson, “Take them away...”

Take them away?

Where were they being taken to?

Was Walter going to kill them?

The couple exchanged glances. Fear was evident in their eyes.

Walter headed downstairs, his hands clasped behind his back.

After Janson took their phones from them, he plastered a chilling smile on his face as he asked, “Shall we go?”

The couple’s terror grew tenfold when they saw that chilling smile.

They were trembling so badly that they needed to lean on each other to walk.

Both of them were brought into Walter's study.

Two bodyguards dressed in black were stationed in the room as well.

Walter had only just taken his seat at the desk when he received a phone call from George.

"Sir... Those strangers are indeed not from management... I've already disposed of them!"

"Wouldn't that be too hasty?"

Walter raised an eyebrow slightly.

Several new faces had been spotted in the estate's management ever since his discharge from the hospital.

He had requested George conduct a private investigation.

If they were here to spy on him, they could capture and interrogate.

them for information on who had sent them here.

Never had he expected George to dispose of them immediately!

“I... I didn’t put as much thought into this as I should have!”

George spoke in a remorseful tone. He had failed his previous mission of catching the person who had stolen the hit-and-run driver’s phone because he had sustained severe injuries from getting attacked.

He ended up harboring a grudge because of this. Thus, when the imposters he captured today refused to cooperate and even tried stabbing him, he lost control of his strength and kicked them so hard they died.

“I’m not blaming you. If they’re dead, they’re dead. Just remember to dispose of their corpses!

“Also, I’ve sent someone to pick up an herbal concoction that will.

help regulate your inner energy from Miracle Doctor Tanner. Make sure you consume it regularly!”