

CEO Bride 593

Chapter 593

Angelica quickly followed him, and away they went. Their steps were fast, so much so that they almost collided with Lauren and Harrison who had rushed over.

“Captain Holt, how’s it going? Have you found the murderer?” Lauren asked, panting.

“We’ve identified three suspects. We’ll immediately apprehend them!” Jupiter replied.

“Good, you must punish the murderer severely!” Lauren said indignantly.

Jupiter and Angelica left quickly.

In the chairman’s office of Outstanding Culture Broadcasting Company, a bespectacled and refined man was browsing through some adult content. The female lead was none other than Lori.

The video had garnered over five million views, with 48,000 paying viewers.

Suddenly, there was a knock on the door. Horace swiftly closed the website and cleared his browsing history. Putting on a despondent expression, he said, "Come in."

Jupiter entered the room accompanied by two undercover officers. After showing their credentials, Jupiter said, "Horace Solo, you're suspected of murder. Please come with us!"

Horace's expression went through drastic change. "I-I think you've made a mistake? I spend my entire days in the office. How could I kill someone?"

"Take him away!"

Jupiter had long been accustomed to such things and would not so easily believe a suspect's words. Two inspectors stepped forward to handcuff Horace. One of them then took off their jacket to cover Horace's hands.

Before there was concrete evidence proving Horace was the murderer, they would preserve the suspect's dignity.

"I didn't commit murder! On what basis are you arresting me? I have a lawyer; you can expect a lawsuit!"

Horace roared hysterically, but his legs were already trembling so hard that he could not even walk properly. The two inspectors had to use some effort to carry him out.

On Angelica's side, she had brought two inspectors with her to Sanbio

Freight Company. After stating her purpose there, she requested

Salvatore to take her to the suspects.

Salvatore sat in his chair, legs crossed as he laughed. "Ms. White, are you mistaken? We're a group of honest freight workers. How could we do such a thing?"

"We already have enough evidence. I hope you'll cooperate with us." Angelica snorted coldly..

Salvatore nonchalantly replied, "Geordi and Sorn are my sworn brothers. It'd be undignified for me if you were to just take them away.

"Salvatore, you'd better not go out for wool just to come home shorn." A young inspector beside Angelica glared at Salvatore coldly and warned him. He was no longer able to keep quiet.

The moment he said that, a group of muscular men in the office stood up, glaring at the three of them with unfriendly expressions.

"What do you want?"

Angelica shouted sternly. Each of these men had well-developed muscles, and if things turned physical, the three of them would not stand a chance.

‘We wouldn’t dare do anything, seeing how you’re all inspectors. We just want you to leave!’ Salvatore smirked coldly.

Angelica clenched her fists and looked at the man, saying, “Salvatore, need I remind you that Lori is an executive at Baroque.”

Since she could not move him despite being an inspector, she could only bring Nash up.

Salvatore burst into laughter. “Her being an executive at Universal Group has nothing to do with me. She’s already dead. You think I can bring her back to life?” Just as he said, however, his laughter ceased.

Did she say Baroque? Was that not Nash’s wife’s company?