

CEO Bride 609

Chapter 609

She looked like a good person, but her clothes were too revealing. She was clearly not a decent person!

Natalia noticed Angelica's look of disdain and had to lower her head while avoiding eye contact. The uniform Angelica was wearing seemed quite oppressive.

Nash did not respond to Angelica's question. Instead, he

Rowan and asked, "Do you know those three assailants?"

at

Rowan nodded. "Yes, I know them. They're members of the Gree Bamboo Association. One of them is the grandson of the association's leader, Lindon Carter."

"Lindon?" Jupiter stared at Rowan in disbelief. "Wasn't Lindon sentenced to death?"

About three years ago, Lindon was involved in a drunk driving accident resulting in five deaths and one injury. After the Inspection

Office took him away, more than 3,000 members of the Green Bamboo Association surrounded the building.

The incident caused a nationwide sensation, drawing the attention o hundreds of millions of people. It was only when the general of the Eastern Territory intervened that the situation was suppressed.

Lindon was subsequently sentenced to death.

“With the association’s power, do you think it’s difficult for Dominic to switch his grandson out?”
Rowan’s tone was mocking, and he was seemingly dissatisfied with all the inspectors. “Looks like there’s a mole within the Inspection Office.”

Jupiter smiled bitterly. He understood the predicament of hist colleagues in Sagen.

The Green Bamboo Association was one of the top underground forces in the entirety of Drakonia, after all. The pressure faced by hist colleagues in Sagen could be described as having Mount Everest pressing down on them.

Nash spoke up at this point, asking, "Do you know of Lindon's whereabouts?"

"Can I get a reduced sentence?" Rowan looked at Nash and Nash shrugged. "You have to ask them about that." He did not even attend school, so his knowledge of the law was only superficial. Rowan had hit a blind spot in his knowledge.

After some thought, Angelica said, "Lindon is an extremely heinous criminal. If you can help us catch him, you'll be considered to have conducted a meritorious act and may receive a certain degree of reduction in your sentencing."

Rowan still hesitated. "He's Dominic Carter's grandson. With the man's influence, things won't be easy for me even if I'm thrown in prison."

The Green Bamboo Association had around 30,000 members nationwide and a branch in Jonford. Although the Jonford branch had been uprooted, there were undoubtedly members of the Green Bamboo Association in prison.

If Dominic managed to pass on some information to them,

Rowan

would have a tough time.

“Don’t worry about that. I have a senior working at Jonford Prison. I’ll talk to him and guarantee your safety from bullies,” Jupiter said confidently.

Rowan was still hesitant. Angelica, growing somewhat impatient, added coldly, “You’d better confess quickly. If Lindon escapes, not only will you not get a reduced sentence, but your charges may even increase!”

“Purple Church!” Rowan exclaimed right away, his exp conflicted. If they wanted to silence him by killing him, might as well all die together.

“I also have all of Horace’s and Warner’s criminal records, i evidence of them smuggling and trafficking in human organs!”

With things having reached this point, Rowan decided to confess everything he knew, hoping to secure the maximum possible sentence reduction.

“Chief Holt, you can interrogate him. Angelica, please take me to Purple Church!”

“Also, arrest Horace!” Nash glanced at the time. It was already five in the evening. If everything went smoothly, they should be able to up Lori’s case today.

Rowan’s gaze suddenly fell on Natalia. He had considered reporti her as an assassin who had almost killed him. However, when he sa

the pitiful look in her eyes, he hesitated and ultimately followed

Jupiter silently into the building.

Angelica changed into a casual outfit she had stored in her pink Accord and started the car. Nash and Natalia sat in the back, and Natalia kept silent the entire journey.

Looking at Natalia through the rearview mirror, Angelica asked, "Nash, who is this kid?"