

CEO Bride 69

Chapter 69

Hera had a stunned look on her face as she shook her head.

Zakariah heaved a long sigh before walking into the estate.

Hera returned to Skadi huffily.

Skadi hurriedly asked, "How did it go?"

Hera pouted and said, "He called me an idiot..."

"What the f*ck? Why's he so insensitive?"

"Oh no, I think I like him even more now!"

A twinkle appeared in Skadi's eyes.

Hera said distractedly, "Do you think we're in trouble? Even your grandfather and Mr. Zell had to defer to them. It seems that they're really powerful!"

She turned toward Skida when she did not get any response from her. She watched as Skida sent a picture of the masked man into the martial arts association group chat with the message: [@Everyone, I want to know everything about this man within the next three minutes!]

Inside the estate.

The three-story mansion in the middle.

There was a large, private plaza that was part of the plaza's grounds.

High-ranking nobles and dignitaries were gathered in groups of twos and threes to sip wine and chat.

in front of her as she walked out of the mansion

His eyes and mouth were lopsided, and his

on standby outside, but the Lee family blushed profusely, sighed as well.

only returned to the country and had forgotten the warden would drop by today because she was busy

that the warden and his accompanying entourage had just arrived

as he jogged over to

Lee family, regardless faces of those who had already taken sort of guest would require everyone in the Lee shifted their gazes, and a look of understanding appeared when they realized Lewis family's table.

in Jonford, but no one from the Lee family arrived in advance to him. That's quite snobbish of the Watson family soon. He, too, felt proud of the their family. Walter has no right to want the Lee family to welcome

"Don't kid yourself, Lauren. I know you're just being sour grapes... Why not ask your daughter to picked her glass up and took an elegant sip. "Nash is miles better than Pfft...

bumpkin doesn't even have the right to attend the birthday arrived at their table

smile faded considerably

"Grandpa, Mom, Dad..."

Hera smiled sweetly as she greeted them and sat down.

"Grandpa Lewis, Mr. Harrison, Lauren!"

Skadi did the same, and only exchanged greetings with Herman, Harrison, and Lauren.

The two completely ignored Helena and her family.

Rooney pursed her lips and muttered, "How impudent..."

Herman sighed noiselessly as he watched things unfold.

One of them was a granddaughter marrying into the Watson family.

The Lewis family needed the help of the Watsons to continue surviving.

The other was a granddaughter who had just secured a two-billion-dollar project with Drake Group.

He did not know whose side he should be on now.

Hera leaned against Skadi's shoulder and glanced at her phone before whispering, "It's been ten minutes. Have you gotten anything on him yet?"

Skadi shook her head. "We found nothing. This person is so mysterious!"

Her inbox pinged with an encrypted email after she finished her sentence.

The title of the email was

Information on Masked Man.

