

CEO Bride 93

Chapter 93

Nash's gaze thickened slightly.

He heard the sounds of fighting on the phone.

Did Lauren and Barrison go to Hubert's house?

Then again, after what happened before, Harrison and his wife would definitely suspect Hubert's family.

Harrison usually swallowed his anger, but even he would fight Hubert when his daughter was in danger.

In the Lewis family's estate, Herman's blood pressure had skyrocketed due to the anger he felt because of his two sons.

Hubert and Harrison were both seated on the sofa, all bruised and battered.

The two were glaring at one another, neither of them convinced by the other.

"How much more unreasonable can you be? Hubert is your elder brother. Don't you know that you should respect your elder brother as you would your father? How did the Lewis family raise a scheming man like you?" Rooney cursed as she pointed at the video of Harrison. She was so angry that her chubby face was trembling.

"Elder brother? Bah! You know what you did to Hera. Don't think it's over just because I haven't settled the score with you!" Harrison was slurring since his cheek was swollen.

"Both of you, enough!" Herman roared at the two of them.

Lauren quickly picked up the cup of medicinal brew on the table and said, "Dad, don't be angry. Drink this medicine first!"

It was holistic medicine from Nash that would work to quickly restore the old man's memory.

Rooney rushed up to them and knocked the cup in Lauren's hand onto the ground. "You snake of a woman! Are you trying to poison the old man? He's already doing well, so why does he need to drink medicine?"

"You..."

Lauren's expression turned cold. She lifted her hand and wanted to hit Rooney, but the latter immediately pushed her face forward. "Come on, why don't you hit me, then? You're going to beat me to death and then kill Hubert so that no one will compete with you for the Lewis family's assets, no?"

Unable to hold herself back any longer, Helena stood up and said, "Lauren, I advise you not to push yourself too hard. Don't think just because you managed to land a partnership with Drake Group that you can do whatever you want!"

Lauren slowly brought her hand back down and sat on the sofa expressionlessly.

Helena looked at her battered father and said to Herman, "Grandpa, they must apologize to Dad!"

"Why should we? It's obvious that Hubert was the first to strike!" Lauren shot coldly.

Helena sneered. "My dad wouldn't have done it if Ha... Uncle hadn't threatened him first!"

Herman turned to look at Harrison. "Harrison, please apologize to your brother!"

Harrison was extremely dissatisfied and replied, "Dad, Hubert hired assassins to assassinate Hera before this."

He did not wish to hide this matter anymore now that the situation had come to this.

He would not be able to bring himself to apologize to someone who had tried to kill his daughter.

Herman's expression darkened. "Hubert, what did you do?"

"Dad, Hera is my niece. Why would I hire assassins to assassinate her? Harrison is just slandering me," Hubert responded while rubbing his swollen face.

Harrison glared at Hubert. "Hubert, are you even a man? Why don't you own up to what you did?"

Hubert fumed. "Stop framing me! Prove it if you can! I think you're the one who hired assassins to harm my daughter."

He then added, "Uncle was almost shot to death a few days ago too. I think you're the one who did it!"

"You liar."

Harrison glared at Hubert, his gaze sharp as his body shook from the anger.

"Forget it, I won't lower myself to a villain's level. You don't have to apologize to me. What's important is that Hera is safe," Hubert said while looking magnanimous.

He then looked at Helena and Rooney and said, "It's getting late. Let's all go back to our rooms and rest."

"Hubert, what about Helena's birthday?" Rooney asked.

Hubert said softly, "Dad needs to rest. We'll talk about it tomorrow."
