

CEO Bride 941

Chapter 941

Nash glared at Caleb and said coldly, "Now that you've got a wife and a kid, it's time to put away those flirtatious antics. You're a husband. and a father now!"

Caleb smiled awkwardly and scratched the back of his head. "Of course, Nash!"

Seeing Felicity and Jaxon coming out, Caleb said with a smile, "Felicity, I brought the car here in one minute and 57 seconds!"

Felicity gently pushed Caleb's head with her finger and got into the passenger seat.

After Nash and the others got into the car one after another, Felicity floored the accelerator and zoomed out of there.

Felicity liked driving sports cars on a regular basis.

Thanks to her amazing driving skills, it only took them get to Sagen Airport.

Nash called Stellar. "Stellar, where are you?"

"We're on our way to the town square. You should come too!"

"Uh... We're on the way!"

Nash hung up and said to Felicity, "They went to the town square!"

Felicity immediately turned around and drove to the town square, which was about ten minutes away from the airport.

She parked the car in the parking lot of the town square.

Nash glanced around him and dialed Stellar's number again.

"We're here!"

"Already? We're still stuck in traffic!"

"Our driver took a shortcut!"

Nash laughed and explained.

Stellar quipped, "Sorry to keep you waiting, then!"

Nash hurriedly said, "What are you talking about? My relationship with Philix is more solid than gold. Waiting a while is nothing!"

Stellar chuckled and hung up without saying anything else.

Felicity looked at the Sagen clock tower not too far ahead and asked smilingly, "Have you seen that clock tower?"

Nash rolled his eyes at Felicity. "Do you think I'm blind or sorg?"

"Grandpa said that every time the North Warden comes to S would come to the town square to see the clock tower. It see he has some special connection to the Sagen clock tower!"

"The North Warden comes to Sagen often?" Nash asked curiou

If the North Warden came to Sagen often, he might actually be relate to the Snyder family somehow.

He probably never told the Snyder family to avoid causing them trouble.

"He doesn't come often. From what I remember, he only came twice before, and he had one of the elite families welcome him each time.

Now, it's the Snyder family's turn!

"Enough about that. Let's go take a look at the clock tower!"

Felicity took the lead and walked toward the clock tower.

The clock tower was old, and the moss-covered stone pedestal below it was as tall as a person.

Felicity circled the stone pedestal and looked up at the huge clock. She curled her lips and said, "There's nothing special about it!"

Melody looked up with a smile. "Maybe this place holds a special meaning to him!"

About ten minutes later, a rented car parked outside the town square.

A burly man stepped out of the car. He was dressed in a trench coat that went all the way to his knees. He also wore sunglasses and a felt hat.

After the man got out of the car, he immediately went to back seat door. He put his hand under the door frame to he person from bumping their head when getting out of the ca

Soon after, a man in a black coat got out of the car.

It was Stellar and Philix.

Stellar went to take a suitcase out of the trunk and followed Philix the clock tower.

Nash and the others strode over to greet him too.

Felicity's and Melody's hearts were pounding.

He was the Warden –the commander of an army of millions. They did not expect him to have such a low profile.

"Philix... It's been so long!" Nash greeted him with a smile.

"It has been a long time!" There was a complicated look in Philix's gaze. He took his sunglasses and scarf off before handing them to Stellar. He said with a smile, "It's much warmer here than in the north!"

"If it's not cold in the north, people would be freezing down here in the south!" Nash chuckled and took the suitcase and scarf from Stellar."

Here, let me help you, Stellar!"

Chapter 942

"What happened to that Grim Reaper-esque smile of yours? I remember the first time we met, you didn't even care about my colonel status." Stellar smiled surprisedly.

"I didn't know you then. Isn't it normal to treat strangers and close acquaintances differently? You're not putting on airs right now anyway," Nash retorted with a smile.

"Hahaha... You're right!" Stellar laughed heartily, seemingly in a good mood.

Philix looked at the people behind Nash and said, "Are these your friends?"

"Felicity Snyder of the Snyder family, at your service!"

Felicity took the initiative to introduce herself without waiting for Nash to do it.

She was going to introduce herself as Deputy Snyder of the Inspection Office, but after giving it some thought, she figured that would be better to introduce herself as a member of the Snyder family.

"Melody Stone, at your service!"

"The Light guides. Jaxon, at your service!"

Melody and Jaxon bowed and curtsied.

“There’s no need for such formality!”

Philix waved his hands and smiled without the airs that a warden should have.

“Really? Can I call you Philix, then? Our names are so similar that you almost feel like family to me!”

Felicity said unrestrainedly.

Philix stared at her intently, which scared her. “I... I was just kidding...

“Hahaha... You’re quite endearing, young lady!”

Philix laughed heartily.

“I’ll take that as a yes, Philix!”

Felicity casually put her arm around his.

Melody was taken aback.

That was the North Warden.

How could she put her arm around his right after they met? If there was a sniper hidden somewhere, they would probably have their finger on the trigger right now.

Philix did not mind. He looked up at the clock tower in the distance and said, "Come have a look at the clock tower with me!"

Felicity asked, "Philix, I heard that you always come to the clock tower in the town square when you're in Sagen. Does the clock tower hold any special meaning?"

She had always been a very inquisitive person, so she wanted to know the connection between the clock tower and the mighty North

Warden next to her.

Philix put his hands in the pockets of his windbreaker and said slowly,

"I'll tell you a story later!"

While they were chatting away, they arrived at the clock tower once again.

Philix took his hands out of his pockets. He held half a pack of cigarettes. He took one out, put it in his mouth, and lit it up.

His gaze gradually softened, and there was a hint of pain in his eyes.

His look alone caused a wave of sadness to wash over Nash and the others.

Philix stood quietly under the clock tower.

Nash and the others accompanied him in silence.

Once Philix's cigarette had burned out, Stellar took the cigarette butt from Philix's hand and threw it into a nearby trash can.

Philix lifted his hand to touch the moss on the stone base of the tower. When his hands got to a certain part, he used his nails to pick off the moss.

"Philix, let me do it!"

Felicity said.

"No, it's alright."

Philix shook his head.

After scraping away the moss, two letters appeared on the stone-W and R!

There was even a heart in between the two letters.

“W and R!”

Felicity muttered the letters and asked curiously, “Philix, did you carve this?”

Philix smiled without saying anything, but his eyes were tearing up.

When Nash saw those two letters, a sonorous sound echoed in his mind.

Those were his parents’ initials.

At the same time, Melody’s eyes widened too.

Chapter 943

Melody’s grandfather had guarded Young Gardens for decades, and her family would pay homage to the deceased in Young Gardens every year.

Nash’s father’s name was Wolfgang, and his wife’s name was Ruby.

Seeing their initials, it was hard for Nash not to think of his parents.

Then, Stellar returned to Philix’s side.

Stellar cast Nash a look after seeing the two letters.

Nash noticed his gaze. Coupled with the fact that Meyer called him

Marshal when he rescued him last time, Nash's suspicions were confirmed.

"Every time I come to Sagen, I would come to the town square to see the clock tower!

"So far, this is my fifth time!"

Philix's tone was calm with no discernible emotion.

Felicity said curiously, "I heard you only came twice?"

Philix smiled. "The first three times I came here was over 20 year ago. I bet you were just born back then."

Felicity stuck her tongue out. "So, can you tell us that story now?"

Philix lit another cigarette.

Nash looked at Philix's broad back in silence, unable to sort out his emotions.

Melody took out a cigarette and handed it to Nash. "You can have a cigarette too!"

Nash parted his lips and held the cigarette in his mouth. Melody took out a lighter from her poc pocket.

"When did you steal my lighter?" Nash was surprised.

"You dropped it on the couch, so I kept it for you!" Melody explained.

Nash lit the cigarette with his lighter and took a puff.

Meanwhile, Philix began telling his story.

"This is a love story between a broke student and the daughter of a rich family.

"Let's call them Wolf and Rue!

"Wolf was the heir of a hermetic family, and it was a rule in his family that all members could not reveal their identities to the public. During his time at university, he lived in poverty until he graduated, at which point his family provided him with 300 million in capital to try his hand at business!"

"300 million... to try... Are all hermetic families this generous?" F interrupted Philix's story.

"This was 300 million 20 years ago!" Stellar added.

"Gosh, the Snyder family barely had one million in assets 20 year ago!" Felicity was shocked.

"Let him continue!" Stellar smiled faintly.

Only then did Felicity realize that she had interrupted Philix's story.. She lowered her head apologetically

"Wolf was tired of living in poverty. When he suddenly received a huge sum of money and became the youngest millionaire in not only Sagen but the entire country, his mindset changed overnight.

"He indulged in extravagance with his like-minded group of friends.

With his money, he thought that any business venture would be smooth sailing for him. Unfortunately, those good times did not last.

long.

"After his company was established, his so-called friends and his rivals took everything from him!

“It happened to be Valentine’s Day, and there was light rain. Many couples were strolling in the rain at the town square while Wolf was huddled under a newsstand, hungry and cold.”

When Philix said that, he turned to look at a newsstand not too far ahead.

The newsstand was run down but not yet demolished.

It had been converted into a convenience store that sold dried snacks.

All that was left of the awning was its rusty frame.

Nash and the others followed his gaze and looked over.

All of a sudden, they were transported back to 20 years ago.

The awning was still intact, and squatting under it was a skinny, destitute young man.

“Wolf watched all kinds of people walk past. He refused to reach his hand out and ask for even a single penny as he held onto his last shred of dignity!

“Below the clock tower was a woman selling roses-Rue. That day, she was holding an umbrella and wearing a white dress. Her hair was braided on both sides, and she was looking around with her big, clear eyes!

“The moment Wolf laid eyes on her, he thought that she was the most beautiful woman he had ever seen!

“He just kept staring at her until she noticed him.

“When their eyes met, it seemed like time paused for an eternity.”

When Philix got to this point, he started smiling.

Nash and the others were completely immersed in the story.

They could almost picture the scene in their heads, of the poor young man and the rich heiress falling in love at first sight.

Chapter 944

“Wolf mustered up the courage to walk up to Rue, and Rue also walked toward Wolf with her umbrella. They were strangers, but they could not help but be drawn to each other. They looked at each other as if they had met each other in a parallel universe.

“Wolf and Rue stood under the clock tower until Rue finished selling the roses. When only one rose was left, Rue gave it to Wolf and wished him a happy Valentine’s Day. Wolf took the flower and put it in her hair.

“Rue was the daughter of a wealthy family. When they learned about their relationship, they did everything in their power to keep the couple apart. Wolf wanted to tell them that he was the heir of the Youngs and that they had unparalleled wealth.

“It was the first time Wolf contacted his family, but the answer they gave him was that Rue’s family was not good enough for the Youngs. Thus, they sent someone to bring Wolf back...

“Wolf and Rue went against their families’ wishes and eloped. They wandered for two years without a place to call home. Finally everywhere they went.

At that point, Philix and Nash took out their cigarettes at the same.

time.

However, they had run out of cigarettes.

“I’ll go buy some!”

Melody went to the convenience store to buy cigarettes with bloodshot eyes.

Felicity had already begun to wipe away her tears as she asked with confusion, “Why did Rue leave? Is love only based on material things?”

Stellar laughed and said, "That's because you've been living comfortably all your life. Let's see how long you'll last wandering in the streets!"

Felicity disagreed. "If I were Rue, I'd continue wandering. I won't care about money as long as I'm in love!"

As she said that, she turned to look at Jaxon, but he had already averted his gaze.

Felicity wrinkled her nose and asked Philix, "Did Rue and Wolf g together in the end? Please tell me that Wolf inherited his family fortune and married Rue with a parade of luxury cars!"

In Felicity's eyes, that was how the love story should end.

However, Philix sighed.

Felicity sensed his emotions and said, "Forget it. I don't want to know the ending!"

Meanwhile, Melody returned with two packets of cigarettes.

Philix opened the packaging and popped one into his mouth before lighting it up.

Melody asked, "Is the story finished?"

Philix smiled and said, "I was waiting for you!"

Melody's face turned red as she felt flattered. "Please, go on!"

"Wolf muddled through for another two months. Finally, he went to a faraway place and found himself a special job. He cut off all contact during that time and only contacted Rue's best friend occasionally.

"Rue's best friend contacted Wolf and told him that the reason Rue wanted to start a family was because she was pregnant. She wanted to give the child inside of her a proper home!"

When Philix said that, his eyes were brimming with tears.

Felicity burst into tears and choked out the words, "Why didn't Rue Felicity could not stop taking out tissues to wipe her tears. “Th what? Did Wolf go look for her?”

Philix shook his head. “No, but he told his family, and they took away!”

Felicity was stunned. “Isn’t that a good thing? They should be living happily together!”

Stellar sighed and interrupted her, “That’s only the beginning of the nightmare!”

Felicity trembled. “W-Why?”

Philix gulped. “At that time, Wolf’s family was already undergoing changes, and Wolf’s career had plateaued. Even until the child was born, Wolf could not even return home once. Then, a family tragedy happened...”

Felicity staggered and leaned against the stone pedestal of the clock tower. She cried while saying, “So they didn’t see each other even once after breaking up?”

Chapter 945

This story was too sad.

If Felicity had known earlier, she would not have listened to it.

Ending the story where the couple broke up would have been fine.

Melody wiped her tears with a tissue and handed one to Nash.

Nash’s vision got blurry, and it felt like there was a heavy stone on his chest.

He did not expect his parents' story to be so tragic

It was hard for him to imagine how his father had been living all these years.

"The Light guides!"

Jaxon emotionally recited a verse.

The story seemed to have shaken up his usual tranquil state.

Philix continued to run his fingers over the two letters and whisp

Perhaps it was their destiny!"

Dull sounds of thunder echoed in the sky.

Soon, it started to drizzle.

Philix slowly looked up and let the cold raindrops fall on his face. "It raining again..."

Stellar said with a lump in his throat, "Warden, let's go!"

chaut.945

The owner of the convenience store had already set up a huge parasol.

Nash pointed at it and said, "Let's go over there to take shelter from the rain!"

Philix nodded and led them there.

Nash dragged the suitcase as he followed Philix..

Philix's story had a huge impact on him.

If Wolf had not spent those days in a haze and made a promise to Rue, maybe Rue would not have left so easily.

They could not even see each other for one last time before tragedy hit Wolf's family.

When the tragedy happened, Rue desperately wanted to see Wolf for the last time.

Rue was in despair after the tragedy happened.

Their love was something that neither of them could let go of.

The worker at the convenience store was a girl who looked to about 16 or 17 years old.

She wiped the table and chairs under the parasol with a rag. S with a toothy smile, “Would you like something to drink?”

Philix asked, “Do you have strawberry milk?”

The girl said, “Yes. One moment, please!”

Then, she went to the locked cabinet behind the counter and took out

Chapter 946

Everyone fell silent as they looked at the pain on Philix’s face.

Who would have thought that the tough man in charge of the North

Army would have a soft side too?

The girl at the convenience store rested her face in both her hands.

and said, “I don’t think feelings are that complicated. If you cherish the present moment, you won’t be left with so many regrets!”

Stellar chuckled. “It seems like you’re still a kid.”

“What’s wrong with being a kid? Do kids not have feelings?” the girl retorted in disapproval.

Stellar was surprised. He did not expect an underaged brat to refute him. He disregarded her words, thinking that it was just a childish statement.

“I think that the little girl is right. Cherishing the present is how we avoid regrets. If Wolf had cherished those final moments, he could have at least seen the birth of his own child.”

Felicity had not gotten over the story, and her eyes were still Stellar remained silent. There was a complicated look in his eye he was contemplating what Felicity meant.

It also seemed like he was reminiscing about his long-buried emotions.

Half an hour later, the rain stopped and the sky cleared up.

The ground was covered with Nash's and Philix's cigarette butts.

“The rain stopped. Let's go!”

Philix stamped out the cigarette butt he just threw on the ground and brushed off the ash that fell on his windbreaker as he stood up.

At the entrance of Snyder Estate, only Santiago and Caleb, who was holding his child, were standing outside.

Santiago looked a little dazed, seemingly in deep thought..

Caleb noticed that his grandfather was not looking as excited as he should be, so he could not help but ask, "Grandpa, shouldn't you be happy that the North Warden is coming to our house? Why do you look so glum?"

Santiago shook his head and said, "It's not your place to ask!"

Caleb gulped and dared not say a word more.

Soon after, Santiago's seven-seater bulletproof car stopped at the entrance.

Felicity and Stellar got out of the car first. Stellar helped Phili the door as always.

Philix got out, and when he looked at the man standing at the d his gaze darkened.

Santiago and Caleb stepped forward.

Caleb's face was flushed with excitement. He lowered his head with his child in his arms. "Caleb Snyder, at your service!"

Santiago lowered his head too. "Santiago Snyder, head of the Snyder family, at your service!"

Philix shook Santiago's hand. "Mr. Snyder Senior, there's no need to be so formal!"

Caleb sighed. "North Warden, you're too kind!"

Felicity echoed, "You're right! Philix is so kind!"

After that, she glanced at the empty entrance and frowned. "Grandpa,

I know Philix doesn't mind, but isn't this a bit too casual?"

When the North Warden came to Sagen last time, the elite families. were so eager to welcome him that they seemed ready to dig up their ancestors from the ground.

The scene was nothing short of sensational, causing a stir throughout the city.

Now that it was the Snyder family's turn to welcome him, only Santiago and Caleb came out to greet him.

If word got out, people might even think that the Snyder famil loathed the North Warden!

Santiago looked apologetic. As soon as he was about to say something, Philix said, "I came to Sagen on such short notice, so there's no need to make a big fuss. Just treat me like any other guest!"

Caleb carefully looked at Philix and was amazed at how down-to-earth he was.

He could not help but feel ashamed about how much of an asshole he was in the past.

Philix glanced at the child in Caleb's arms and smiled. "Is this Roland's grandson?"

Caleb looked at Philix in shock. "North Warden, do you know my father?"

He was wondering whether Philix was actually related to the Snyder family.

Philix did not answer his question directly but smiled. “Your father should be around the same age as me, yet he’s already a grandfather.

I’m jealous!”

Behind him, Nash’s face turned red.

Chapter 947

Nash suspected that Philix was directing those words at him.

“To be honest, I didn’t even want this kid. Ever since I got this little.

human, I’ve been a stay-at-home dad. I can’t go anywhere!”

Caleb’s face displayed desperation.

He was basically saying that marriage was the tomb of love.

He did not want to be locked down by his wife and child this early in life.

“You bastard! Are you not going to take responsibility for your mistakes?” Santiago frowned angrily.

“I didn’t say I wasn’t going to take responsibility. I’m already serving this little guy every single day. Can you not embarrass me in front of the North Warden, Grandpa?” Caleb muttered embarrassedly.

Philix patted Caleb’s shoulder and said emotionally, “It’s time to settle down after getting married and having children. You have to take responsibility as a father!”

Caleb was honored. He quickly nodded and vowed, “Of course, I’ll good care of my wife and my child. I’ll be the best husband and father!”

Philix looked a little dazed. He suddenly asked, “Can I carry the child?

Caleb was taken aback. Without any hesitation, he handed the doll-like child to Philix and said, “Of course. It would be the greatest blessing of this child’s life!”

Philix took the child and pinched their chubby cheeks. He said with a smile, “Your child is adorable!”

While saying that, he entered the door with the child in his arms.

His back view looked somewhat bleak.

The look in Santiago's eyes grew darker.

Wolfgang never came back after joining the army, and he never saw his newborn child.

If he had not opposed his marriage to Ruby, would things have ended differently?

"Grandpa, what are you thinking about?"

Felicity waved her hand in front of Santiago's eyes.

"Nothing. Let's go in!"

"This way, Mr. Calcraft!"

Santiago welcomed Nash in.

"After you, sir!"

Nash responded with a smile.

There were mixed feelings in his father's eyes as well as Santiago eyes. He could tell from the look in their eyes that they actually had a very close relationship.

When he first visited the Snyder family, Felicity's delirious grandma called him Ruby, his mother.

When his father changed his name, he did it in honor of Ruby.

That meant that Santiago was his grandfather.

Nash suddenly felt like fate worked in mysterious ways.

He was ordered by his master to go down the mountains to fulfill his engagement, and as soon as he did, he bumped into the second young lady of the Lewis family.

By some odd coincidence, they got married.

He came all the way to Sagen to find Wesley, but he met Felicity instead, who was his relative on his mother's side.

Fate was a magical thing.

Inside the Snyder Estate, Santiago asked the maid to brew a pot of their finest tea.

The child in Philix's arms cried. Caleb sensed that his child was hungry, so he took the child to his home so his wife could feed him.

As soon as he walked out, an old lady with gray hair walked in.

She was accompanied by a middle-aged couple..

“Mom, Dad, Grandma...”

Felicity immediately stood up to greet them.

Meanwhile, the middle-aged couple smiled awkwardly.

Santiago frowned. “Didn’t I tell you not to bring her here?”

Roland smiled bitterly and said, “Mom insisted on coming here. She threatened to jump off a building if we didn’t let her come!”

Chap 1947

As soon as he said that, the old lady shouted at Philix with bloodshot eyes, “What are you doing here?”

Chapter 948

The old lady walked up to Philix and slapped him.

The scene before them blew everyone’s minds.

Felicity’s face turned pale with fright, and she said with trembling lips,

“G-Grandma...”

Stellar strode over, but Philix shot him a look, so he stopped.

Santiago was frightened. He glared at Roland and shouted, "Take her away!"

Roland's face went pale too. He quickly went up to grab his mother's arm. "Mom... Please stop..."

The old lady shook Roland's hand off and stared at Philix. "The Youngs killed Ruby and my grandchild, yet you still have the audacity to show your face here. Why don't you die along with the rest of the Young family?!"

"Enough..."

Santiago was so angry that he went up to slap the old lady.

"Father..."

Philix stood up and grabbed Santiago's wrist.

Felicity looked at them in bewilderment.

She turned to look at Melody beside her. "Mel, d-did I hear him right?"

What did the North Warden call my grandpa?"

Melody shook her head and said, "You heard him right. The North

Warden is Wolf in that story, and the Ruby your grandma mentioned is

Rue!”

Felicity was so shocked that her jaw was on the floor.

She turned to look at Nash and said, “Nash, do you believe this?”

Melody then whispered, “Nash is Wolf and Rue’s child!”

If Philix had not called Santiago ‘Father’, he would have continued keeping his identity a secret. However, he no longer cared about hiding his relationship with the Snyder family, so he said it.

Felicity’s mind exploded once again.

Her delicate little face was full of disbelief.

Were the North Warden and Nash not blood brothers?

How was he Nash’s father all of a sudden?

That also meant that her grandfather was the father-in-law of the North Warden.

Did that mean that Nash was her cousin?

Santiago froze after Philix called him 'Father', but he quickly re his composure. He stared at his wife and said in a nicer tone, " death had nothing to do with him, so please stop this nonsense!"

The old woman burst into tears and growled, "Nothing to do with him? If the Youngs hadn't taken Ruby away, she wouldn't have died

There was even an unborn child in her belly. How could you let the child suffer the consequences of your doomed love?"

Philix lowered his head in silence while pain appeared in his eyes.

Santiago said slowly, "We were also at fault. If we hadn't objected to their relationship from the start, perhaps things would have ended differently!"

The old lady glared at Santiago and shouted, "How is it our fault for wanting our daughter to have a happy family? Don't you know what Ruby went through during the two years she was with him?"

Santiago fell silent after her words.

If Wolfgang had admitted that he was a member of the Young family earlier, they would not have interfered with their love.

Not only did Wolfgang conceal his identity as a member of the Young family, but he also took Ruby with him as they led a wandering life.

“Grandma...”

At that moment, Nash stood up from the couch.

The old lady, Paige Leighton, turned to look at Nash and asked in disbelief, “A-Are you talking to me?”

Chapter 949

Nash smiled and asked, “Didn’t you call me Ruby the first time your met me? Isn’t it because I look a lot like my mother?”

Paige wiped her tears and walked over to Nash. She reached out to hold his face with trembling hands. “Y-You look exactly like her. It’s almost like you were carved from the same mold!”

Stellar finally understood why Philix and Nash had such good chemistry since the first day they met.

It was not because Philix liked hanging around young people, but it was because Nash looked like his wife.

Paige said in disbelief, "I thought you..."

Nash explained, "On the day the Youngs were destroyed, I was rescued by someone extraordinary. He took me to Tili mountain to cultivate my skills."

Paige's lips trembled, and she cried while hugging Nash. "I'm so thankful you're alive..."

Seeing Ruby's child was like seeing a remnant of her daughter.

Nash patted his grandmother's back and said with some difficulty, Grandma, please stop crying. Let's put it all in the past. My father hasn't had it easy either!"

Paige sobbed even more. "I know, I know. It just hurts so much!"

Of course, she knew that Wolfgang had a rough time too. After all, the Youngs were an immortal family that had been around for thousands of years.

It would be shocking for such a family to be exposed to the world, so he had to conceal his identity.

However, the death of her daughter caused her too much pain.

She had given birth to two sons and a daughter with Santiago, and her daughter was the apple of her eye.

The day she found out about her daughter's death, her world came crashing down. She even suffered from a mental disorder after that. She would often see her daughter standing in front of her, smiling at her. She would smile back.

Santiago put his hands on Paige's shoulders and comforted her with teary eyes. "Paige, Ruby's husband and child are here now. We should be happy. Stop crying!"

Only then did Paige let go of Nash.

Santiago said to Roland, "Take her to get some rest!"

Paige shook her head and said, "I don't need to rest. I haven't taken a good look at my grandson yet!"

Santiago wiped away his tears. "Promise me you won't cause any more trouble!"

Paige nodded. "I won't!"

Philix sighed in relief and cast an appreciative look at Nash.

Nash smiled. He pulled his grandma to the couch and started chatting away..

Paige looked at Melody, who was sitting next to Nash. She asked, "My dear grandson, is this your wife? She's so beautiful. When will I be able to see my great-grandson?"

Nash's lips twitched. Just as he was about to explain, Melody blushed and said, "I'm a descendant of the Young family's confidant. I'm just his subordinate!"

Paige looked disappointed. "Silly girl, times have changed. Why are you still giving that excuse? If you love each other, just be together. He's my grandson, and the Snyder family can afford to support the both of you!"

Over 20 years ago, she was one of the most powerful women in Sagen's business industry. She firmly opposed Ruby and Philix being together because she wanted her daughter to have a better life.

After her daughter passed away, her mindset changed.

It occurred to her that maybe her daughter did not want a life of luxury clothes and fine dining.

Hearing that, Melody blushed even harder. "Madam, he's already married!"

Paige was stunned, and she turned to look at Nash with questioning eyes.

"She's right. I'm married. I'll bring my wife here to meet you next time!"

Nash smiled.

Paige stared at Melody intently and nodded.

Meanwhile, Santiago brought an ice pack and put it on Philix's face." Wolf, don't blame her. She started suffering from a mental disorder after Ruby left. She'd laugh like a maniac from time to time and get angry if things don't go her way!"

Philix took the ice pack and said with a smile, "I don't blame her. That slap was long overdue. In fact, I wanted to visit the Snyder family the first two times I came to Sagen, but I never had the courage to step inside. I owe Ruby too much!"

Santiago sat next to Philip. He looked at Paige chatting and laughing with Nash, and he lamented, "She hadn't been this happy in a long time. Nash finally untied the knot in her heart!

"Nash came to the Snyder Estate a month ago, and she called him

Ruby. I thought that she was hallucinating again. I never noticed how much he looked like her!

"By the way, when did you meet him?"

Santiago looked at Philix with interest, wanting to know how he and Nash met.

With the ice pack on his face, he recounted his first meeting with Nash.

Santiago frowned when he learned that Philix was almost killed by a traitor.

Hearing about Nash’s supernatural powers, a relieved expression appeared on his face.

When he heard that Philix and Nash became blood brothers, Santiag laughed. “Did you know that he was your child at that time?”

“Not at all. I just felt myself being drawn to him. If I had suspected him to be my son, I would’ve taken him in!”

Philip looked at Nash and smiled.

Meanwhile, Santiago sighed. “Nashy grew up with his master... He never experienced love from his parents before, so you should care for him more!”

There was a hint of guilt in Philix’s eyes. “He still has a long way to go, and there isn't much I can do for him!"

There were two reasons why he left the Northern Territory.

The first was to help Nash keep things under control, and the second was to go to Cape Sea to investigate the state capital.

The anomalies in the state capital must be related to the other three war zones.

Once he was involved with the state capital, he would be under a lot of pressure.

If he had too many interactions with Nash, it suspicion and cause Nash trouble.

Seeing as Philix was under pressure from work, there was not much.

Santiago could do to help him. He said smilingly, "You father and con are Ruby's pride. I believe that you'll be able to overcome any

"I hope so..."

Philix sighed with a faint smile.

After lunch, Philix and Nash went for a walk.

He took Nash to the many places he and Ruby had visited.

Everywhere they went, he would tell Nash stories about Wolf and Rue.

It also helped Nash know more about his mother.

On Divinity Mountain, Philix and Nash were sitting side by side on the steps. They were taking a smoking break.

Seeing Nash drenched in sweat elicited a chuckle from Philix. "When I was your age, I climbed Divinity Mountain without panting at all. Your mother got tired after climbing halfway up, so I had to carry her on my back!"

Nash smiled and said, "At least I can still catch my breath!"

After his Mystique Loyalty Realm ruptured, his internal organs were affected, including his kidneys.

The kidneys were where the vital energy was located. If he had insufficient vital energy, his body would easily be exhausted.

Otherwise, Hera would not keep bringing up the fact the he lasted only three minutes.

During lunch, Felicity talked about Sigur Cliff. When Phili

Nash almost died there, he said gravely, "Don't be so reck you thought about what would happen if you died? What wou happen to Hera?"

Nash grinned. "What else was I supposed to do? Watch them kill innocent lives?"

Philix remained silent. It seemed Nash insisted on doing as he at pleased.
