Chapter 99

Hera felt herself about to suffocate, and her heart beat faster and faster.

It was not until the light of the screen went out that she opened her mouth slightly and took a sharp breath.

[Are you asleep?]

Skadi had sent her another message, lighting up her phone screen again.

Hera saw Nash's face that was so close to her. The distance between the two of them was less than ten centimeters.

In a situation like this, Nash was also now blushing a little from Hera's breath. She smelled of her shower gel and shampoo.

Her soft face was as red as an apple, making him want to take a bite out of it.

Thunder struck again outside, and Hera shut her eyes tight.

He slowly reached his arms out and held her tightly to his chest as he whispered, "Don't be afraid. I'm here."

His deep and gentle voice relieved Hera's nervousness a great deal.

She put her hands against his chest. She was only wearing her nightdress and nothing else.

Nash did not dare breathe in her scent. He was afraid that he would not be able to hold himself back.

He closed his eyes and held his breath before he focused on working his energy.

Nash felt the energy in the point below his navel run rampant due to his distraction. He quickly restrained it back in.

No wonder his master once beheaded his lover.

Had his master's feelings for his lover hindered his cultivation?

Hera tried her best to calm down the growing tension in her chest. She looked up at Nash and asked, "Are you sleepy?"

"I'm good.."

"I... I'm a little sleepy..."

"Sleep, then."

"I can't sleep when you're hugging me," Hera whined.

smiled slighth. "Hera, do you also want to hold your birthday party at the Chateau Hotel?"

Hera felt herself shiver when she heard that. She then shook her head and answered, "I don't..."

It was no use even thinking about it!

The Watsons were the wealthiest family in Jonford, and they had at least one Black Diamond VIP card in their hands.

Even if she was able to spend 140 million just for a membership card, she would be inviting shame onto herself.
